STEEL BOOM BRINGS JOBS TO HUNDREDS

Today

Is It Worth It?
Walrus and Carpenter.
Seek the Man.
Wanted—More Money.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

Are all the football games, the college glory, the gate receipts worth that life?

It is for fathers and mothers and school authorities to answer that.

THE WALRUS and the carpenter invited the little oysters to "a pleasant walk, a pleasant talk along the briny beach." They had it, and of those little oysters only the shells were left when the walk ended.

From London and Berlin comes information that those two nationalities, observing the Hoover-Laval pleasant walk and pleasant talk, feel that they, Britain and Germany, have played the part of the little oysters.

GERMANS EXPECT nothing but trouble. They are used to it.

But the British are hurt. They feel that their "prestige in Europe has suffered." Only a little while ago they were financing France in the war.

IN CALIFORNIA, a woman confesses that she killed two other women and packed their bodies in trunks. You are not surprised to hear of a "man" in the case. "Seek the man" in crimes of violence committed by women.

IT WAS KNOWN long before Kipling that a woman enraged is more dangerous than a man, and known long before the Duchesse de Boillon plotted the destruction of the beautiful actress Adrienne Lecouvreur.

The duchesse thought that with Adrienne gone the handsome Maurice de Saxe would love her. As a matter of fact he didn't particularly love either of them at that time.

THE WESTERN crime is horrible, but to execute the woman would be more horrible. Every doctor knows that if such a crime were committed deliberately, the woman was insane at the time.

THOSE RECENTLY selling silver metal short on the metal exchange, are again advised to get out of that "position." They should read what Mr. Rene Leon had to say about silver yesterday, in Cyrus H. K. Curtis's newspapers.

"Ninety per cent of the world's population is off the gold standard and functioning on highly fluctuating currencies.

RENE LEON suggests

* * "legislation making possible the discharge of allied debts contracted in gold, by payment, part in gold and part in silver at some reasonable ratio. This procedure would immediately remove all danger of paper credit inflation and put an end to gold hoarding."

WHO WANTS information from a real authority might write to Ludwig Vogelstein, of the American Metal Company, of 61 Broadway, N. Y. city. They also, as Mr. Vogelstein says, "should read the pamphlet on silver by Mr. Brownell, president of the American Smelting and Refining Company."

If you have any silver, keep it. It is coming back as money, not at 14 to 1, but at about $1 an ounce. Make a note of this prediction.

WESTERN CIVILIZATION may be saved by "buts" and "ifs." India could easily get rid of British power IF Mohammedans and Hindus could agree, and give up the pleasure of killing each other. BUT they can't agree and they won't give up that pleasure.

China might beat Japan IF North and South China could agree BUT they can't agree.

PREMIER LAVAL presented himself at sunset at the tomb of the late President Wilson in the National Cathedral, and placed a wreath of autumn leaves on the tomb. It is the tomb of a president who did something that will never be done again by any president.

He sent ten thousand million American dollars and three million American soldiers to Europe, to attend to a war three thousand miles away that we did not start.

A PICTURE of Pope Pius is sent by radio from Rome to Paris, where a reverent audience, astounded, beholds the Pope's person, and hears him speaking.

The miraculous impression of a divine or saintly face on a cloth or handkerchief is old. Science goes farther, transports the living image, and the sound of the voice hundreds of miles. Science has the last word in miracles.

THIS LEAGUE of Nations says to Japan:

"Get out of Manchuria by November 16."

Japan says "NO," goes deeper into Manchuria, sends more airplanes, more troops, more ships, explaining that all this is done with deep regret, but "it is made

WIVES FACE DISMISSAL BY CITY

'Dead Timber' Also Due To Get Kline Ax; Two Weeks Furloughs Ordered

Married women employed by the City of Pittsburgh who have husbands in regular employment are facing dismissal in Mayor Charles H. Kline's rigid economy program, according to reports at the City-County Building today.

A survey is being made to determine the status of all married women working for the city, it is understood, with a view of dismissing them from service if it is found they are supported by their husbands. This became known today as President John S. Herron, of Council, indicated that all city employes whose services can be dispensed with during the present emergency will be discharged.

All city employes are to take two-week "furloughs" between November 1 and January 1. One week will be taken in November and another in December without pay.

The Civic Club of Allegheny County today joined other organizations in demanding a reduction in city and county taxes next year. This can be accomplished without impairment of service, the club holds, through more efficient management, elimination of politics in appointment of employes and adjustment of salaries comparable to those in business and industry.

Council, department heads and the Mayor have not signified definitely whether they will take a "vacation" without pay, but Councilman Harry A. Little said:

"If everyone around City Hall is to take a 'furlough,' then it appears that Council will have to fall in line."

It was said at Mayor Kline's office yesterday that the matter of departmental head vacations without pay would be discussed at a cabinet meeting this week.

Herron said:

Theater Crowd Sees Officer Slug Beggar

His right eye closed by the blow of a policeman's fist in full view of hundreds of theatergoers in Penn avenue last night, Charles Smith, 38, of Gibbon street, was fined $5 in Central Police Court today.

Patrolman Frank Messemer testified he had struck Smith following his arrest for begging money from women, after the prisoner had attempted to strike him. Witnesses were reported to have protested the officer's action as unwarranted but they did not appear at the hearing.

High School Grid Player Badly Hurt

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Francis Monaghan, 17, quarterback on the St. Clair High School football team, was reported in a serious condition in a hospital here today from injuries received in a game against Girardville last Saturday.

The boy played throughout the game, but got up Sunday morning complaining his hip pained him. It was found infected and he was operated upon last night.

NORTH SIDE BOY SHOT, 4 HELD

Accidentally shot while examining a revolver in a store in Preble avenue early today, Michael Volovsky, 15, of 29 Ontario street, was regarded in critical condition today in St. John's Hospital. Four young men were arrested in connection with the shooting.

The four, John Bungo, 16, 27 Ontario street; Joseph Zelinak, 19, 48 Petosky street; John Crawford, 21, of 1426 Eckert street, and John Mullen, of 3524 Verner street, were held over at a hearing in Morals Court today.

Army, Mourning Grid Hero, Will Play Out Schedule

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 27.—A mourning Army eleven will play out the remainder of its football schedule this year despite the death yesterday of Cadet Richard B. Sheridan, Jr., from injuries sustained in the Yale game Saturday.

The Army plays the University of Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh November 14.

Announcement that the team would "carry on" was made today by Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, commandant of the military academy.

Gen. Smith said this action was taken on the expressed desire of the football team, the corps of cadets and Cadet Sheridan's immediate family.

The body of the young cadet arrived this morning at West Point accompanied by the parents of the youth and Maj. Philip B. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics, who had maintained a bedside vigil ever since Sheridan was taken to the New Haven Hospital last Saturday afternoon.

Burial will take place at the West Point Cemetery tomorrow, with full military honors, after services in the Catholic chapel. Three volleys will be fired over the grave by members of his own company. A classmate will sound "taps."

CAPONE GETS WRIT, STAYS IN JAIL

Gang Czar Refused Freedom On Bail Pending Decision On Appeal From Sentence

BULLETIN.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—(INS.)—Al Capone, the world's premier gangster, will remain in the Cook County Jail until a decision is handed down on his conviction and sentence for income tax evasion.

This was decided today when judges of the United States Court of Appeals granted his attorneys' motion for a writ of supersedeas, but refused to admit him to bail.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—(INS.)—His trip to Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary postponed by 24 hours, Alphonse (Scarface) Capone sat glumly on his county jail cot today while three judges of the United States Court of Appeals pondered over the convicted gang king's immediate fate.

Whether Capone must go immediately to Leavenworth to begin serving his 11-year term for income tax evasion or whether he may remain in Chicago for some two more years at least is the question the Appellate Court will rule upon this afternoon.

The higher tribunal has under advisement the petition of Capone's attorneys for a writ of supersedeas releasing the gangster from jail on bond, pending the outcome of his appeal. The court ordered Capone held in the county jail until its decision is rendered, thus deferring the journey to Leavenworth which was scheduled to begin last night.

End Fealty to King, De Valera Proposes

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Eamon De Valera told delegates to the Fianna Fail convention today that the first act of a Fianna Fail government in Ireland would be removal from the constitution of the oath of allegience to the King.

Such a government's attitude toward relations with Great Britain would be one of no-co-operation, he said, if Great Britain persisted in enforcing the terms of the treaty of 1922.

RIOTS FLARE AS BRITAIN VOTES

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Called upon to make the most momentous electoral decision since the war, the voters of Great Britain went to the polls today to choose between the national coalition government and the forces of socialism.

At 1 p. m., with an estimated total of almost 10,000,000 votes cast, indications were that the coalition forces, under Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald, would put the Socialist opposition to rout, emerging with a parliamentary majority of at least 185.

With betting odds on the London Stock Exchange giving the government an estimated majority of between 200 and 204, victory for the coalition was a foregone conclusion, but Premier MacDonald's status in his local constituency of Seaham Harbor, Durham, was still in doubt.

RIOTING IN LONDON

In London, the election was sent rolling on its way by a series of last-minute clashes between political antagonists. In the sedate residential district of Kensington, a crowd of 200 university students, carrying Union Jacks, clashed with a mob of 500 Communists who tried to break up a Conservative meeting.

Dodging bottles, razors and bludgeons freely wielded by the combatants, 60 London "Bobbies" waded in with drawn trucheons and broke up the disturbance. Four of the battlers were injured.

Similar clashes took place in Tooting and Whitechapel, outlying

Rodriguez and Balera differed politically. They had a violent quarrel yesterday morning and agreed to shoot it out on the next meeting.

Congress Should Quash Hoover's Un-American Moratorium Policy

President Hoover, in his joint statement with Premier Laval, of France, has declared that we should leave the matter of the extension of the moratorium on debt payments to a longer period than he originally proposed to the foreign powers interested in such postponement.

Yet in this very utterance he is taking the initiative himself by asserting that such a postponement of payment "MAY BE NECESSARY COVERING THE PERIOD OF BUSINESS DEPRESSION."

What does the term, "Covering the period of business depression," mean?

Covering the period of WHAT business depression and where?

The period of depression in this country is practically ended. Already the movement of recovery is well under way.

Pacific Coast industries are picking up. New England factories are running full time, and in some cases overtime, especially in the boot and shoe and textile industries.

Money is coming out of hoarding.

We are not out of our depression, but we are on the way to get out soon, and CERTAINLY WITHIN THE COMING YEAR.

Still, this does not mean that Europe is going to get out of HER depression—that the pound is going back to par, that the burdens of the Versailles Treaty placed upon Germany are going to be lifted, or that the troubles of Europe due to old-fashioned business methods and to extravagant government expenditure for armaments and to military subsidies and war indemnities, are going to be materially altered FOR YEARS.

Are we going to extend the moratorium until Europe is out of her depression, which means year after year indefinitely?

That is what begging, debt-dodging European nations hope for but it is certainly not what any loyal American statesman ought to propose.

As a matter of fact, the moratorium ought never to have been proposed at all.

The very mention of the word revived all the hopes of European powers for debt reduction and for eventual debt cancellation.

The opportunity to institute a period of nonpayment meant to them the opportunity TO CONTINUE ON A NON-PAYMENT BASIS UNTIL DEBT CANCELLATION WAS A MATTER OF GENERALLY ACCEPTED FACT.

The only thing the Congress of the United States can do to overcome the evil of President Hoover's fatuous proposal is to vote against an actual debt postponement of any kind.

This country has granted debt reduction to the limit of generosity, in fact to the limit of sanity; and to grant anything more in that line is not a noble and generous gesture—it is merely an exhibition of pitiful weakness and folly.

It is even more than that. It is an evidence of lack of patriotism evidenced in lack of consideration for the welfare of our own country and of our own people who will have to pay all the thousands of millions of dollars which these debt-dodging European nations will evade.

If the American Congress does its American duty, it will quash at the outset Mr. Hoover's un-American moratorium policy.

HOMESTEAD MILL LEADS REVIVAL

Trade Group's Reports Show Increased Output In Many District Plants

Resumption of six plate mills and the open hearth departments of the Homestead Steel Works, promising 50 per cent operation within the next day or two, coupled with announcement by the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce of substantial improvement in various lines of business, brought cheer to the district today.

Operations of steel companies increased from 3 to 10 per cent were recorded, it was announced at a meeting of the commerce directors yesterday, the Carnegie and Weirton Steel companies being included in the number. Requests for quotations on automobile steel were considered to forecast orders in considerable volume.

HOMESTEAD RESUMES

Hundreds of men were called to work at Homestead yesterday afternoon, and it is said that 36 of the 64 open hearth mills will be in operation before night. Some of the long-idle plate mills to resume are the 32, 140, 48, 84, 42 and 118-inch mills.

For months many of the departments have operated only one or two days a week, but work on steel for "Radio City" buildings in New York has now been started. Some of the plate mills have been idle as long as 18 months, workmen reported.

Officials of the company were reticent to discuss the revival, but the workmen were cheered at the prospect of steady work.

Other reports received at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce board, which were regarded by the directors, who represent many large industrial and finan-

ELECTION FRAUD ARRESTS NEAR

While President Judge James R. Macfarlane today considered testimony offered in the effort to have the register's list of the Fourth District of Wilmerding purged, independent leaders of the borough prepared informations, based on the testimony, charging perjury and election cheating.

The informations were to be drawn at a meeting of independent workers and Attorney Mayer Sniderman, who represented them at the hearing yesterday.

It was indicated that witnesses whose testimony was allegedly false would be brought before an alderman for a hearing. Other witnesses, said to have voted illegally, will also be arrested, it was said.

Yesterday's hearing came to an end after Sniderman was able to produce only five of 50 witnesses summoned. Sniderman said all of

FIGHT TO BLOCK PROPOSAL CERTAIN

Leaders See Scaling Down Program as Opening Way To Complete Cancellation

Premier Pierre Laval was sailing back to France today convinced his conversations with President Hoover had been "crowned with success."

In Washington, however, were heard reverberations which are expected to culminate in a bitter attack on efforts to secure downward revision of America's foreign debts.

London joined the attack on the Hoover-Laval "understandings," which were branded as "Hoover's surrender to France."

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—There were unmistakable signs today of an uproar in Congress over the Hoover-Laval agreement for a reexamination of reparations and war debts, with a view to scaling them downward.

While the existence of this agreement was not reported in the vague communique issued at the conclusion of M. Laval's visit, it was nevertheless confirmed by one of the highest officials of the administration. And as knowledge of it spread in senatorial circles today incredulity gave way to resentment in many cases.

SEE CANCELLATION

A number of senators, both Republican and Democratic, expressed the view that another scaling down of war debts means eventual cancellation. And cancellation too, they said, without Germany being relieved of the unconditional part of her reparations under the Young Plan, without the disarmament in Europe which this country desires and without revision of the Versailles Treaty, which Senator Borah and others contend is necessary to the peace of Europe.

European indebtedness to the United States was scaled down by half in the debt agreements now in force, it was pointed out. The face value of the debts in 1921 was approximately $12,000,000,000. The debt funding agreements which allowed Great Britain to settle for 70 cents on the dollar, France 39 cents, and Italy 19, cut down the face value to about $5,500,000,000.

The Hoover-Laval agreement will undertake to re-examine these agreements on the basis of "capacity to pay," which prompted one Republican senator to state:

"Obviously, these debts cannot be revised upward, although in the case of France, she is now the wealthiest country in Europe and her capacity to pay unquestionably is greater than it was 10 years ago. All revision must be downward. Therefore, Europe having obtained 50 per cent cancellation at the outset, now evidently plans to have periodical reconsideration on the basis of capacity to pay. It does not take much imagination to see where that is going to lead—eventual and complete cancellation."

An explanation will be demanded, it was said, as to the reasons for the administration's abandoning the old thesis laid down by then Secretary of State, now Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes, that there is no relationship between German reparations and the debts the Allies owe the United States. This thesis was firmly supported by both the Harding and Coolidge administrations. It has now been abandoned by the "understanding" reached between President Hoover and Premier Laval.

In many quarters it was stated that Premier Laval had scored "a complete diplomatic triumph."

An extremely pessimistic view of the whole situation was taken by one influential Republican Senator who is an acknowledged authority on European affairs.

He declared he expected to see Germany default. If she does and France attempts to impose sanctions, such as re-occupation of the Ruhr, it will lead to a new war, he predicted. With reference to the Laval mission, he said:

"I am tired of these meaningless gestures. It is like trying to cure cancer with porous plasters. It is trifling with human destiny."

He grimly predicted that when the debates start in Congress upon ratification of the German moratorium the Senate would demand the facts.

London Newspaper Scores Hoover-Laval Agreement

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(INS)—A bitter attack upon the "understanding" reached by President Hoover and Premier Laval in Washington was launched by the London News-Chronicle today.

Under the headline "Hoover's Surrender to France," the newspaper said:

"The chief outcome of Laval's mission to America is abandonment by President Hoover of the leadership of world affairs he assumed with his moratorium proposal last July.

"Having secured an agreement with Laval under which the franc and dollar will prop one another up, he is not willing to respect the 'no trespassing' sign the French nailed to the Young plan."

Hoover Sends Laval Farewell Message

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Farewell messages expressing appreciation for the opportunity of conversing with Premier Laval were dispatched to him today by President Hoover and Secretary Stimson, just before he sailed for home.

templating no 10 per cent wage cuts. The 'furloughs' will serve a dual purpose. We will be able to save more than $350,000 between now and the first of the year, when the new appropriations start, and to determine whether some positions can be eliminated. If we find we can get along without the services of some people, out they will go."

Col. W. R. Dunlap, head of the Department of Supplies; Treasurer Richard W. Thompson, Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Department of Public Welfare, Edward G. Lang, head of the Public Works Department, and Health Director Charles B. Maits signified today they were ready to take their "vacations" the same as anyone else, when the Mayor "passes the word along."

POSSIBLE SAVINGS

Should Council members take a holiday without pay it would mean a saving for the city of approximately $2,000. Each Councilman receives an annual pay of $8,000. Department heads receive $8,000 yearly. The Mayor gets $15,000 per year. The city would save $750 on his salary for two weeks.

Controller James P. Kerr intends to recommend to Council that all dead wood be cut out of the city payroll, but refused to say what the recommendations would be.

Councilman Charles Anderson discussed the payroll question late yesterday with the Controller, especially the request of the Citizens' Committee and the League of Women Voters, who want a survey made.

Controller Kerr has an ambitious program for taking over all the billings for the city, now that he bills the taxes and the water rents. His next objective is the Bureau of City Property.

districts of London, but few disturbances were reported during the morning hours after the polls actually opened at 8 a. m.

VOTE IN FOG

London cast its vote in a typical late October fog, which toward noon assumed the dimensions of a "pea souper" and slowed up the polling. During the early hours the fog failed to diminish the determination of the electorate to register its choice in this historic battle, and long lines of voters, with women in the majority, waited for hours to cast their ballot.

As the morning waned, the fog became thicker and thicker, with a dull sun hanging like a bloody disc in the opaque sky. Automobiles groped their way to the polling places, preceded by election campaigners equipped with flares, torches and bells.

In some sections of the city the fog blotted out everything, demoralizing transporation. Candidates hastily sent their supporters into the streets equipped with their fog-piercing implements in a frantic attempt to get out the vote in spite of the handicaps of the elements.

SAMPLE BALLOT DRIVE CHARGED BY M'GOVERN

Republicans Shown How to Back Lawrence, Cut Him, Commissioner Declares

Thousands of sample ballots are being distributed in the city and county showing Republican voters how they can vote the straight Republican ticket with one exception—the substitution of David L. Lawrence, Democratic nominee for County Commissioner, in the place of Commissioner Charles C. McGovern—McGovern declared today.

He made the charge in the County Commissioners' meeting and displayed two of the ballots printed on paper which is the same shade of pink as that used for the official ballots.

OFFICIAL QUIZZED

Louis Golder of the Pittsburgh Printing Company, which holds the contract for printing the ballots, was called before the Commissioners and asked if his firm had printed the sheets. He said he knew nothing of them.

McGovern said that 240,000 of the ballots had been printed and were being distributed. He asked Golder:

"Would you know it, if your company printed any such number of these?"

"I certainly think I would."

Golder then explained that such work, if done in his plant, would be under supervision of his cousin. The cousin was summoned to appear before the Commissioners.

Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock, retiring members of the board, both asked the clerk to place them on record as declaring they had known nothing about the ballots until McGovern presented the samples in the meeting.

EXACT REPLICAS

The ballots which McGovern displayed are exact replicas of the official sheets to be used in the November 3 election, except they bear no facsimile of the Commissioners' seal and have markings for State Senator W. D. Mansfield, McGovern's running mate on the Republican ticket, and Lawrence emphasized.

Illustrating how a vote can be cast for Lawrence on an otherwise "straight" Republican ticket, the ballots have the name of Mansfield and Lawrence in heavy type. There is an "X" behind the line on which the word Republican appears and which is to be marked by the "straight" voters. Below that an "X" appears behind the names of Mansfield and Lawrence, indicating that while the voter wishes to vote for all other Republican nominees, he is "cutting" McGovern to cast his ballot for the Democratic aspirant.

A report was to be made to Judge James H. Gray in Common Pleas Court today by the Board of Visitation appointed by the courts to investigate the conduct of the Allegheny County Poor Board. It is not known just what the report will contain, but in a preliminary report already made by the Board of Visitation, irregularities were reported in the board's method of operation.

FIGHT ON SMITH BEFORE COURT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Into the courts of law today marched for settlement the clear-cut question of presidential and senatorial authority.

The Senate confirmed Chairman Smith, and shortly thereafter he and two other members of the reorganized Commission dismissed F. E. Bonner, secretary of the Commission, and William V. King, chief accountant.

Aroused, the Senate voted reconsideration and asked President Hoover to return Smith's nomination. Mr. Hoover declined, holding to do so would set a precedent for Senatorial dictation to every government official.

Pinchot Gives $1,000 More to Milk Fund

HARRISBURG, Oct. 27.—Announcement was made today that Gov. Pinchot had made an additional contribution of $1,000 toward the fund to supply milk to undernourished children which is being supplied at five free stations.

Last week the Governor made an appeal for funds saying that unless money was forthcoming the stations would be closed. When the campaign was inaugurated Gov. and Mrs. Pinchot made an initial contribution of $2,000.

State Vote Machine Examination Delayed

HARRISBURG, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The re-examination of the Automatic Voting Machine and the Poole Electromatic machine has been indefinitely postponed because of the illness of Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish, it was announced here today.

Tomorrow and Thursday had been set for the re-examination of the machines, which was requested by Pittsburgh and Philadelphia residents.

Coal Output Gains, Mine Mishaps Less

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Coal production increased 4 per cent and fatal mine accidents decreased 6 per cent in September as compared with August.

September's total production was put at 36,277,000 tons by the Bureau of Mines, as compared with 34,848,000. One hundred and seven men were killed, as against 114.

MISSING NURSE REAPPEARS IN TRUNK QUIZ

Desert Yields Clues in Case Against 'Tigeress;' Woman's Husband Held

By WALLACE X. RAWLES
International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—The jig-saw puzzle of the "trunk murder" case showed signs today of fitting together intoa comprehensible pattern.

Pieces in the jagged puzzle were supplied by Phoenix, Ariz., and Los Angeles investigators of the slaying of Hedwig Samuelson, red-haired invalid school teacher, and Agnes Leroi, pleasant-faced nurse, by Mrs. Ruth Judd.

From Phoenix came word that Lucille Moore, nurse friend of the slain women, was found at the home of friends where she sought refuge from a spotlight turned on her because she was believed to be an important witness. New evidence was also said to have been discovered there that filled in several "blind spots" in the story told by Mrs. Judd.

On her bed in the hospital ward of the county jail Mrs. Judd awaited the official word that will send her back to Phoenix, Ariz.

EXTRADICTION NEAR

At Sacramento, California's capital, Gov. James Rolph was prepared to hold an extradition hearing today and sign the papers which will permit the return of Mrs. Judd to Phoenix, where she will face trial for the double murder of Agnes Leroi and Hedwig Samuelson.

Meanwhile Arizona authorities continued to amass new evidence in support of their contention that the 27-year-old daughter of a Free Methodist pastor slew her two chums deliberately and not in self-defense, as she maintains. The Arizona officials announced they would seek to postpone other cases and start Mrs. Judd's trial within 30 days.

CLUES IN DESERT

From Phoenix came word that physical vestiges of the murder had been found in the desert, two miles north of that city. In the mesquite-covered brush of the Arizona wilderness Mexican woodcutters came across a blood-soaked mattress and parts of two sheets also stained with blood. These hidden articles belonged to the Leroi-Samuelson household, where Mrs. Judd and her two victims staged their fierce and fatal battle, according to Arizona officials.

Near the spot where the blood-stained mattress and sheets were found, Arizona officials discovered automobile tire tracks on a lonely road beaten through the mesquite. The tracks showed that a car had come to the spot from the direction of Phoenix and had turned back. This led to the suspicion in the minds of investigators that some motorist might have driven Mrs. Judd to the desolate desert scene and there might have helped conceal traces of her crime.

HINTS AT ACCOMPLICE

A second intimation that Mrs. Judd might have had an accomplice came from a newly-discovered witness, Fred Stone, a Phoenix hotel employe. Stone told Phoenix police that he accompanied Richard M. Schwartz, a transfer man, and another hotel worker, Frank Rock, to the Leroi-Samuelson cottage on the night of October 17. Schwartz had been summoned by Mrs. Judd to remove the trunks and he took his two friends along. Stone was quoted as saying:

"I have a positive feeling that someone was in the house besides Mrs. Judd. I base that conclusion on Mrs. Judd's actions in the house and the fact that she kept it entirely dark all the time we were there."

While Los Angeles police today continued to devote most of their attention to clearing up mysterious angles of the trunk murders, they were also occupied with an indirectly connected development, the search for Mrs. Judd's husband, Dr. William C. Judd, who is wanted on suspicion of practicing medicine in California without a license.

Dr. Judd disappeared yesterday afternoon after visiting his wife in the county jail. He later appeared and posted $500 bond.

Gov. Bryan Seeks New Nebraska Term

A movement has been started in Nebraska to urge the next Democratic National convention to nominate Bryan, brother of William Jennings Bryan, for President.

State Department Ignores Borah Clash With Envoy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(INS.)—The State Department decided today to ignore the passage at arms between Tytus Filipowicz, the Polish ambassador, and Senator William E. Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, during the Laval dinner at the French embassy here Sunday night, in which the ambassador took Borah to task for recommending revision of the treaty of Versailles.

So long as it was a verbal brush and occurred under purely social conditions, it was said, the department would take no official cognizance of the incident, although admittedly the ambassador's action verged upon a violation of the strict rules of diplomatic etiquette.

The Polish diplomat told the Senator that his declaration "might be interpreted by the nationalistic elements in Europe as an encouragement and stimulus of their activities."

Filipowicz asserted:

U. S. MAJOR HERE CHARGES WIFE THREATENED TO KILL HIM

ARMY OFFICER SUES FOR DIVORCE

Spouse Menaced Him With Gun, Poison, Hernandez Declares in Court Action

Maj. Pedro A. Hernandez, stationed here with the Regular Army, today charged his wife, Rachel, with threatening to kill him with his own gun or by poison,

The charges were made in Common Pleas Court, where counsel filed depositions following a formal suit for divorce, alleging cruelty and indignities.

The suit, filed against Rachel A. Hernandez, formerly of Wilkes-Barre, states the threats to kill were made in Porto Rico in 1930. Maj. Hernandez is a son of Jose C. Hernandez, former chief justice of the Supreme Court of Porto Rico.

'SUICIDE ATTEMPT'

The deposition further alleges that Mrs. Hernandez tried to commit suicide, but that the army officer knocked a vial of poison from her hand.

He gave his address as 445 Marietta avenue, Mt. Lebanon, while she lives in Lebanon Hall, Mt. Lebanon.

"Foreigners, especially half-black Porto Ricans, are all crazy and should be wiped off the earth."

On one occasion, according to Hernandez, his wife tore his clothing and to keep peace with her, he alleges, he sent her to California. When she returned she said she had had the best time of her life since she was married, according to his allegations.

Mrs. Hernandez alleged that on one occasion when she and her husband had been visiting Col. and Mrs. Jarvis Bain, her husband refused to speak to her or to take her home. Col. Bain ordered the official car for them, but her husband walked home, Mrs. Hernandez alleged.

SEPARATED SINCE MARCH

The couple have been separated since March, 1931. The Major, it was said, is giving her an allowance of $150 a month. Permission has been asked to file depositions from friends of the couple in San Juan, Hawaii, Fort Leavenworth, California and Texas.

Among depositions filed was one from Mrs. Eben Swift, wife of Col. Swift, in behalf of Mrs. Hernandez. Mrs. Swift testified she had accompanied the couple to the Pittsburgh Club, the Keystone Club, and numerous bridge parties.

Mrs. Swift knew of no mistreatment, she said, although she had been told, according to her deposition, by Mrs. Hernandez, that Mrs. Hernandez had some complaint against the major.

Pinchot's Secretary Arrested as Speeder

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—A man giving his name as Stephen Stahlnecker, secretary to Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, forfeited $15 for failing to appear in Traffic Court here yesterday on a charge of speeding.

Stahlnecker was arrested by policemen, who said he was driving 40 miles an hour over a city bridge.

MORBID O'NEILL DRAMA HAILED MASTERPIECE

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Eugene O'Neill, like some Gutzon Borglum carving a giant drama from the cold stone of an ancient Greek tragedy, had created today in "Mourning Becomes Electra" what critics generally called his masterpiece.

The dramatist's 14-act, three-in-one opus was given its premiere yesterday. The curtain rose on the first of the three consecutive dramas, "The Homecoming," at 4 p. m. At the conclusion of "The Homecoming" at 6 p. m. there was a dinner intermission, following which the other dramas, "The Hunted" and "The Haunted," were played. The performance ran past 11 o'clock.

MORBID MOOD

O'Neill has based the mood of this new drama upon the Greek tragedy "Electra," and one feels the unalterable doom of death throughout the performance.

Alice Brady, Alla Nazimova and Earle Larimore won long ovations from the first-night audience for their performances. Miss Brady is the only member of the cast who appears in every act of the play. All critics praised her performance as the greatest in her long career.

The scene of "Mourning Becomes Electra" is placed in a New England seacoast village. The Mannon family overshadows the town, and itself is overshadowed by death.

MURDER, DOUBLE SUICIDE

Gen. Mannon returns home from the Civil War to be greeted by a betraying wife, who climaxes her hatred for him by murdering him in his own bed. The daughter, Vinnie, vows revenge, but she is unable to gain the co-operation of her brother, who believes his mother innocent.

In the end the son discovers his mother's guilt. The puritanical persecution of Vinnie drives both the mother and the son to suicide. And Vinnie, half puritanical witch and half pagan, is sole survivor and is condemned to pay for her sins of asceticism by living among the ghosts of those who have died.

The play is marked by the morbid, introspective characterizations seen in most O'Neill works. The revealing scalpel of his pen exposes so many abhorrent and depressing human traits that the audience was stunned into several moments' silence at the final curtain before it began an ovation that lasted for fully 10 minutes.

RUTH NICHOLS WAITS REPAIRS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Eager to take to the air again in continuance of a flight in which she was believed to have set a woman's non-stop distance record, Miss Ruth Nichols, Rye (N. Y.) aviatrix, spent today here awaiting the arrival from New York of Clarence Chamberlin, her advisor in aeronautical exploits.

She spent considerable time watching experts work on her monoplane, which was damaged by fire yesterday while she was preparing to hop off for New York in an attempt to set a new record between the two cities. The plane, which Miss Nichols valued at $25,000, was damaged approximately $10,000.

Miss Nichols landed here Sunday morning after having flown approximately 2,000 miles from Oakland, Cal. Chamberlin was expected to arrive tonight to make plans for continuance of Miss Nichols' trip to New York.

GHOULS FEARED AT EDISON GRAVE

Guard Continued After Withdrawal of Soldiers; Vandals Raid Birthplace

International News Service.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 27.—An unceasing vigil is being kept "for an indefinite period by West Orange police over the grave of Thomas A. Edison in Rosedale Cemetery against any posible attempts by ghouls to steal his body or the $15,000 bronze casket in which it rests.

Arthur L. Walsh, vice president of the Thomas A. Edison Industries, Inc., declared the guard will be kept about the grave against "any eventualities."

The "eventualities" were the possible rifling of the grave by ghouls for the bronze coffin or the brain of the dead man.

Edison's brain, it is conceded, is the greatest that was ever imprisoned in the skull of a human being. As such it is of tremendous interest to scientists who, it was said, would pay its weight in gold for a chance to dissect it.

BIRTHPLACE LOOTED

MILAN, O., Oct. 27.—(INS.)—Civilian guards probably will be stationed at the birthplace of Thomas A. Edison here for the first time next Sunday to prevent a continuation of the vandalism by souvenir hunters which began after the noted inventor's death.

Hundreds of motorists, many of them from distant points, have visited the "little brick house on the Hogback," since Edison's death, and many have cut pieces of bark from the trees or have chipped bits of brick from the walls, according to Miss Marietta Wadsworth, present occupant of the dwelling.

Pastor Scores Legion Acts In Explaining Resignation

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Oct. 27.—The Rev. Samuel L. Maxwell, pastor of the Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church, chaplain in the United States Navy during the World War, and member of the American Legion since 1920, in a sermon gave his reasons for resigning from the legion stating that his resignation and statements must not be construed as a reflection on the local post of the legion. He gave as his reasons:

First—The resolution passed at Louisville, Ky., in 1929 in which the Federal Council of Churches was listed among the quasi-religious, pacifist, radical and communistic organizations allegedly lobbying in the legislative halls of the country.

Second—The action of the 1931 convention at Detroit asking Congress to submit the question of prohibition to the states.

Third—The entrance into politics.

With regard to the first he said:

"This was uncalled for, unjust and a nasty slap at my church. In spite of the fact that the Council invited the Legion to investigate its activities, nothing ever came of it."

As to the second he said:

In regard to the third, he remarked:

"Because a man was in the service for six months or a year is not sufficient reason why he should be given public office."

Youth Hurt By Cue In Pool Room Row

Tightens Grip on Chinese Soil, Disregarding Plea Of League for Withdrawal

By JOHN GOETTE

International News Service.

PEIPING, Oct. 27.—Japan today went ahead with extensive plans for expanding the area occupied by her troops in Manchuria and for tightening her grip on Chinese soil already under her military control, utterly disregarding the League of Nations' plea for evacuation before November 16.

The operations of Japanese troops preparing to winter in the Alsace-Lorraine of the Far East were described to International News Service today by Lieut. C. C. Brown, of the United States Marine Corps, who has just returned from a month's tour through the Manchurian "war zone." Brown said:

"Physical evidence is not lacking that the Japanese high command has no intention of relinquishing military control of occupied areas which I personally visited, including Mukden, Kirin, Changchun and Chuliuho.

"The Japanese are conditioning former Chinese barracks, as well as railroad buildings at various points, for winter occupancy despite the fact that the weather is still of the mildest."

(Copyright, 1931, by International News Service.)

TOKIO, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—With her grip extended from Manchuria into Mongolia, Japan explained today to the capitals of the world why she considers as not binding the League of Nations' formula for settlement of the Sino-Japanese dispute calling for evacuation of Chinese territory by Japanese troops by November 16.

The statement reiterated Japan's contention that the "whole Manchurian affair was occasioned solely by a violent and provocative attack by the Chinese army on the South Manchurian Railway zone, which is under Japanese treaty control.

CRITIC ASSAILS INTERNATIONAL ART WINNERS

Cortissoz Finds Carnegie Paintings 'Repulsive' And Scores Taste of Jury

Royal Cortissoz, veteran New York art critic, last night, in a lecture in Carnegie Music Hall, waved the American flag over the International art exhibit, branded the leading prize winners "ugly and repulsive," and attacked the jury that awarded the prizes. Of them he said:

"The old assertion that 'artists alone should sit in judgment' got a body blow when this jury functioned."

The world of art lacks leadership as much as the economic and political world, he said, explaining, however, that "the international exhibit is representative and better than its prizes."

SCORES MODERNISTS

Cortissoz hammered mercilessly at the modernists, ridiculed the Matisse, Picasso and Segonzac pictures as "sloppy and slovenly, without design or color," and lauded as "exponents of beauty" painters recently dead, or those who for the most part were well on in years. He declared he found a few young men who showed promise, principally among the Americans and British.

First, "Suicide in Costume," by Watkins—"With artistic quality, obscene and revolting and ugly; lacks style. Produced as a stunt by a rather clever and promising young man."

Third, "Avenue of the Bois de Boulogne," by Dufy—"A jest, or what we call pulling a man's leg; not painted, just scribbled like an inadequate design for wallpaper."

First honorable mention, "Deserted Mill," by Judson Smith—"Artist added beauty to subject; painted with somewhat of a heavy hand, and unfortunate composition; fairly good, but not remarkably good."

Second honorable mention, "Still Life," by Kuniyoshi—"The sofa is at odds with the floor, and the objects on the sofa at odds with the sofa; color dull, painting crude."

He added:

GREETED BY 2,000

Cortissoz was greeted by an audience of 2,000, which applauded his selections of representative art.

In explaining his aversion to the first prize, "Suicide in Costume," the critic was careful to state that the subject was not in itself objectionable, since violent death has through the ages been the subject for great painters. But Cortissoz insisted that this picture had no design, adding:

CITY ASKS BANK TO REOPEN

Mayor Charles H. Kline today was scheduled to sign a petition making the city one of the more than 2,000 depositors requesting the State Banking Department to reopen the closed Pennsylvania Bank and Trust Company.

The city has more than $100,000 on deposit in the closed institution. The resolution asking that the Mayor act in his official capacity for the city was passed unanimously in Council yesterday. It was introduced by Council President John S. Herron, who said the petitioners have assured the state Banking Department they will patronize the institution and agree to make withdrawals in small necessary sums, if the reopening is permitted.

Hearing has been fixed for November 5 in Common Pleas Court on the petition of George F. Taylor, Jr., Special Deputy Banking Commissioner, in charge of the Pennsylvania Bank and Trust Company, for the return to the bank by the City of Pittsburgh of $113,000 of bonds securing the city deposit of $100,000 in the bank at the time of its closing, September 25.

The contention is that a bond which had been recalled by the United States Casualty Company continued until 1:15 o'clock the afternoon the bank closed and therefore is the security for the deposit and the corporate bonds may be released.

Magyar's Wedding Delays Duel of Sea Fliers

BUDAPEST, Oct. 27.—(INS.)—Postponing a scheduled duel with his companion on a non-stop trans-Atlantic flight, Alexander Magyar, of the Hungarian Army Reserve, was married here today to Georgia Santelli, divorced wife of an Italian diplomat.

Magyar was to have crossed swords with George Endres, who flew with him from Newfoundland to Bisck, Hungary, this summer, the challenge being issued after a long campaign of abuse and slander waged equally by both men.

The fliers, however, decided to wait until after Magyar and his bride return from their honeymoon in the United States before engaging in combat.

Mme. Santelli divorced her diplomat husband to marry the Hungarian ace, as a result of which her wealthy father disinherited her. He was reported to oppose the match because of gossip Magyar already was engaged to a Detroit girl.

MILLS RESUME AT HOMESTEAD

cial interests as very significant were:

H. J. Heinz Company—Purchases by large buyers in increasing volume and in excess of the same period last year.

Pittsburgh department stores—Generally increased number of customers and sales as compared with 1930.

American Window Glass Company—Better sales during the past week than for any week in the year.

The F. W. Dodge Agency—Building construction in the tri-state district showed Pittsburgh and Dayton were conspicuous for gains over 1930 in the latest monthly summary of the cities of the district.

Value of building permits issued in Pittsburgh for September increased [illegible] per cent over August of this year and 76 per cent over September of last year.

MORE BUYING

A leading merchant reported 20 per cent more buyers from department stores both in Pittsburgh and the country generally attended the fall openings in New York City than attended last year and that buying was on a liberal scale. This information was corroborated by the statistical department of the Chamber of Commerce from reports of leading statistical agencies that during the month of September for the first time in many months commodity consumption exceeded production. It was also reported that commodity prices were becoming more stabilized and that a better sentiment and an increase of confidence was manifesting itself in business.

An important stimulant to business, the meeting showed, comes from the establishment of the $500,000,000 bank credit corporation which will be put into operation soon in accordance with the plan of President Hoover and which will unquestionably be a constructive force in releasing credit and maintaining public confidence.

Another important aid in these matters, the directors indicated, will come from special public improvements now under consideration by federal, state and local governments, all of which in reducing unemployment will stimulate many lines of business.

Frank E. Troutman, general manager of the Standard Plate Glass Company at Butler, announced that the plant is employing 208 men on day and night shifts and producing 10,000 square feet of glass daily.

M'GOVERN, BARR TO BE HONORED

Independent organizations of the East End wards are to hold a testimonial dinner for County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern and former Senator C. M. Barr at McCann's, North Highland avenue, tomorrow night. Barr and McGovern are Independent candidates for County Commissioner.

Deputy Attorney General Ralph H. Smith will be toastmaster. The invocation will be delivered by the Rev. A. R. Robinson, of the Sixth United Presbyterian Church, and the benediction will be pronounced by the Rev. James R. Cox, pastor of Old St. Patrick's Church.

In addition to McGovern and Barr the speakers will be W. Clyde Grubbs, John M. Henry, Edward O. Spotts and George Wick.

Swissvale Party Slates Candidates

The Square Deal party of Swissvale Borough, advocating the election of County Commissioner C. C. McGovern and former State Senator C. M. Barr for County Commissioners, has slated candidates for borough offices, according to Secretary David E. Hartstein.

They include Thomas A. Maguire, for Justice of the Peace; Hartstein, John S. Soles and J. H. Anderson for Council; W. E. Thompson and Lucy S. McCann for School Directors, Jack J. Rome for Constable, and James F. Mullen for Auditor.

Judge Leaves Cash To Nurse, Secretary

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The will of Judge Joseph H. Taulane, of the Common Pleas Court, probated yesterday, bequeathed $35,000 to Mrs. Frances B. Struse, who was his nurse for a number of years, and $15,000 to Miss Alice E. Moore, his secretary. After a number of smaller bequests, the estate, valued at more than $200,000, was left to his three sisters and other relatives.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Oct. 27.—Mrs. Emma Hunbird, widow of Justice Jacob B. Hunbird and society leader here, died last night in Berkeley Springs, W. Va., from a broken back suffered in a fall on the stairway of the home of her niece, Mrs. Herbert Tobias, where she was visiting.

Mine Sniper Guilty, Given 18-Year Term

WINFIELD, W. Va., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Ernest Landers, Raymond City miner, entered a plea of guilty to second degree murder today for the "sniper" slaying of Cyrus Spaulding during the mine strike last summer and was sentenced to 18 years in the state penitentiary by Judge Thomas R. Shepherd.

Worker Hurt Fatally By Steam Shovel

BEDFORD, Pa., Oct. 27.—Otis P. Jewett, 32, of Cumberland, Md., working on the new Cumberland water supply dam, in this county, was injured fatally last night when struck on the head by a steam shovel.

BORAH OF IDAHO, most influential man in the Senate at present, BECAUSE HE SAYS SOMETHING, demands complete revision of the Versailles Treaty. The same demand is made by Mussolini, boss of far away Italy.

Mussolini wouldn't understand Borah. Borah wouldn't understand Mussolini. But they both understand the Versailles Treaty.

With the help of amplifiers Mussolini talked to a million of his followers packed in the 20-acre Piazza Del Plebiscito and adjoining streets and squares.

Borah is heard by all of the one hundred and twenty-three millions that read newspapers here.

North Borough Group Hears Musmanno

Representative M. A. Musmanno, who won the Republican nomination for one of the four judgeships of County Court to be filled at the election November 3, addressed residents of the North boroughs at a Republican meeting last night in Elliers Grove.

Musmanno spoke in behalf of his own and the candidacies of his colleagues, Judges Sara M. Soffel, Richard A. Kennedy and D. Paulson Foster.

Garage, Two Autos Destroyed by Fire

A fire in a garage owned by William Patton at Fullerton street and Wylie avenue last night destroyed the one-story building and two automobiles. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

MEETINGS OPEN FOR LAWRENCE

Attorney W. N. McNair, Democratic campaign manager, today announced the first of a series of noon meetings in headquarters, 432 Diamond street, in the interest of David L. Lawrence's candidacy for County Commissioner.

Ralph E. Smith was to preside. Scheduled speakers include Attorneys B. B. McGinnis and W. B. Foster.

Lawrence's headquarters yesterday announced receipt of a letter from J. S. Villella, chairman of the Italian-American Political Club of Oakmont, stating the organization has indorsed Lawrence for commissioner.

Lawrence outlined his platform at the luncheon meeting yesterday of the Hungry Club in the Fort Pitt Hotel. He said:

"I stand for a reduction in taxes consistent with the proper conduct of the business of the county. I favor cleaning up the election frauds in Allegheny County. I stand for the reorganization of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes and will vote for a man for chairman of that board who has an expert knowledge of real estate values and I will insist as a Commissioner that a plan be devised that only those entitled to vote will be on the assessment lists so that phantom and illegal voters will be eliminated."

Independent Slate East End Speakers

J. Garfield Houston is scheduled to preside at a meeting tomorrow night in Liberty School, Ellsworth avenue and Ivy street, in behalf of County Commissioners C. C. McGovern and former State Senator C. M. Barr, Independent party nominees for County Commissioner. Mrs. Frank J. Boyle is in charge of arrangements.

Other speakers listed include Attorneys Edward O. Spotts, W. Clyde Grubbs and John M. Henry, Deputy Attorney General Ralph H. Frank and Edward C. Boyle.

American Princess Scores Lady Astor

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—(AP.) — Princess Cantacuzene, granddaughter of President Grant, at a meeting of the Republican women of Pennsylvania yesterday, denounced Lady Astor for accepting Russia's invitation to visit the Soviet last summer and "finding nothing to criticize there."

The princess, who recently returned to this country from France, said:

"Lady Astor's actions were humiliating to all women."

Pay for Chicago Teachers Assured

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—An early pay day for 12,000 Chicago school teachers, who have been living on promises since April, has been assured.

The Chicago Surface Lines agreed to buy $2,250,000 of tax anticipation warrants issued by the city, county and school board. The money will come shortly from the company's reserve for taxes and the warrants will be turned in as payment of taxes when they fall due.

Turco-Balkan Pact Recognizes King Zog

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Turkey has recognized the government of King Zog I, of Albania. Telegrams of recognition were sent by President Mustapha Kemal to the Albanian king and to the heads of other Balkan countries at the conclusion of the Turco-Balkan conference at Angora.

The conference adopted resolutions establishing an inter-Balkan chamber of commerce in Istanbul and an inter-Balkan tobacco bureau at Salonika.

5 Air Crash Deaths Laid to Wing Flaw

ALLIANCE, Neb., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—A coroner's jury has decided the deaths of five persons in an airplane crash Sunday were caused by "defective fastening of a wing."

The plane, a passenger ship piloted by William Davee, 23, of Alliance, fell when a wing collapsed. Federal Inspector H. Montee examined the wreckage and said he found a cracked strut and a freshly-broken control wire.

Co-eds Veto Plan To Share Cost of Dates

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Should the girl pay half the cost of the date? No—the reply coming en masse from the co-eds of the University of Chicago and of Northwestern University in reply to a suggestion made by President George Thomas, of the University of Utah.

June Mason, secretary of Northwestern University's junior class, asked: "Why should we? We never have, we never should and we never will."

Pittsburghers Get 2 Years in Auto Theft

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Two Pittsburgh men were sentenced to serve two years each in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., when they pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick yesterday to a charge of violating the Dyer act. They were William G. Karnes and Clyde Dickinson, who admitted driving a stolen automobile from Erie, Pa., to Mishawaka, Ind., where they were arrested.

Paraguay Leader Seeks New Cabinet

Navero, who was Vice President under President Jose Guggiari, became head of the government after Guggiari resigned in the midst of widespread public agitation over his conciliatory policy in the Bolivian boundary dispute.

Choir Singer Hurt, Sues for $50,000

Gonzales Lockhart, of Selma, Ala., formerly choir singer in Crafton, asked $50,000 damages for injuries in a bus accident in a suit against the Greyhound Lines, Inc., filed in Common Pleas Court. Miss Lockhart alleged she was attempting to leave a bus at Dormont, which had brought her from Columbus, O., August 11, when the driver suddenly applied his brakes at Potomac and West Liberty avenue, and she was thrown against the front of the bus. She averred her earnings as a radio and choir singer have been impaired as a result.

Love Is a Beautiful Thing

MR. X WAS in love. Hopelessly, sadly, nonsensically in love. You can take my word for it, folks, he was absolutely gone. Whenever the radiator started to hiss it sounded to him as though the birdies were twitting in the springtime. Any punk movie in which the heroine got her man was the last word in art to him, and a slice of dry bread tasted like a Moore's steak as long as she was with him. In other words, the poor boy was on the verge of insanity.

Our friend was lucky the story didn't get into the papers, and I trust he will not resent me running it here. If he does, I'm sorry. The yarn will have to go just the same. When you already have a million enemies, the next one isn't so hard to take. At any rate—

Mr. X is one of the finest young comedians in the City of New York. That is to say, while he hasn't [illegible] the top just yet, it's only a question of time until he hits [illegible].

About a year ago he went for the [illegible] you about in the opening paragraph. And he got a break [illegible]. The girl seemed [illegible] health for him. Of course, [illegible] such a break [illegible] depends on the mood you [illegible] when you read the story.

Everything was going beautifully then, when the girl's parents heard about the situation. Her mother went [illegible] for a heavy mouthful, but it was the old man who went in for the dramatics. He told the sweet young thing that no daughter of his was going to marry an actor. He pointed out the pitfalls in store for the gal and he insisted that no stage player was worth his weight in feathers. And so [illegible] did he talk that before he was through his daughter was inclined to believe him.

So she went to Mr. X and told him what had happened. The comedian thought the Chrysler Building had toppled upon him. After he had regained his breath he took the girl's hand and begged for one favor.

"I can't let you go like this, Alice," he pleaded. "You mean everything in the world to me. Let me take a stab at talking to your father. If he still feels the same way I'll step out of the picture."

The father wasn't so hot about the idea when it was first proposed, but he finally agreed. Accordingly, while the sweet young thing sat in another room on an eventful evening some six months ago, Mr. X pleaded his case.

He told of his love for the beautiful damsel. He swore that no other girl would ever mean a thing as long as he lived. He pledged himself to a life that would be devoted to waiting upon her. He said this. He said that. In short, he said everything a young man says before marriage—and generally forgets shortly afterward.

But when he was all through daddy had done nothing but finish his cigar.

"Mr. X," he asserted, "you're not a bad young man, as actors go. It is with genuine regret that I tell you that you have been pleading a vain case. I will not permit my daughter to marry you."

The comedian stood up. His hands were shaking, but he bowed low.

"As you say, sir," he murmured. "Good night."

He walked from the room. But instead of going to the door he found his way to the bathroom. And a few moments later the apartment resounded with the prettiest type of screams.

Mr. X, it seems, had sliced his wrists with a razor. He had stumbled into the living room in a very gory condition and had fallen at the dainty feet of the girl he adored.

"This is what your father's decision means to me," he had sobbed. "I die for you. And I die willingly."

As the girl and her mother did nothing but scream, it was up to daddy to relieve the situation. This he did by calling the family doctor from a neighboring address.

The doctor did whatever it was that medicos do in such cases. He did the best he could under the circumstances, and then insisted upon taking Mr. X home himself.

"The boy is in an hysterical condition," he told the father, "and he needs me with him. I will see that he has the best of treatment, and I can assure you that nothing will reach the papers unless he himself talks."

The doctor proved to be the kindliest of souls. He escorted the comedian home and did his very best to soothe the boy.

"I'm going to call a nurse," he asserted as soon as he had his patient in bed, "and I'll be around again early in the morning. Meanwhile I want you up as soon as possible. Only a fool will kill himself over a woman."

Mr. X bit his lip.

"Then I'm the worst kind of a fool," he groaned, "because I'm not through yet. I bungled the job this time, but I'll make good the next. I can't live without that girl."

The medico shook his head and walked up and down the room. Then he sat upon the bed and placed a hand on Mr. X's shoulder.

"My boy," he murmured, "I'm going to do something that is highly unethical. It's something that a doctor should never do, and it's something I have never done before. In this case, however, I feel that it's necessary.

"Do you know what type of girl she is? I do. I've been treating that family for a number of years and I've seen that child do things that would positively amaze you. Do you know that she has the most violent temper I have ever encountered? I do.

"It will probably surprise you to learn that I was called in about two years ago because the girl had taken a fit. She had broken everything within reach and was tossing plates at her father and mother when I arrived. She is subject to such attacks. They may occur at any time.

"More than that, even in her right mind that child is cold and jealous. I have seen her do things that were astonishingly cruel. You are far from being the first man she has made miserable."

A new light had crept into Mr. X's eyes.

"Are you sure, Doc?" he muttered. "Are you sure?"

"Positive," replied the doctor softly. "When I tell you that you have had a narrow escape in two directions I mean exactly what I say. You are destined for big things upon the stage, and that girl would only ruin you.

Mr. X's eyes expressed his gratitude.

"That's all right, my boy," replied the doctor. "I'm just trying to do the human thing, that's all."

The boy kept his word. He never called the girl again. And, would you believe it, he never even received an invitation when, three months later, the doctor married the girl.

PITT TO ASSIST FOOD SURVEY

Research facilities of the University of Pittsburgh and assistance of the teaching staff and students have been made available by Dr. R. W. Watkins, director of the university's bureau of business research, to the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce for its program of developing better merchandising of food products in Pittsburgh, G. E. Bittner, Department of Commerce representative in charge of the work here, announced.

Pitt students of merchandising will help in gathering information about the flow of food products through Pittsburgh's wholesale and retail channels, and the work of collating and analyzing the findings will be undertaken by university experts.

RAIDERS SEIZE STILLS, RUM

Stills and intoxicants were seized yesterday during raids by federal prohibition agents and state constables. Included among the places raided were: Building at 2839 Preble avenue; building at 2141 Charles street; dwelling at 209 Cremo street; building at 110 Rebecca street, North Braddock; building at 1110½ Rebecca street, North Braddock; garage at Oakmont and Pitcairn roads, North Bessemer; house at 502 Island avenue, McKees Rocks, and a poolroom at Horning mine, Baldwin Township.

Moonshine and gin were reported confiscated when county detectives yesterday raided an establishment at 75 Magee street. Patrick Morda, arrested by detectives, was held for court at a hearing before Alderman Thomas Flanigan on a charge of violating the Snyder act.

Deer Dine at Camp While Nimrods Hunt in Vain

BOISE, Idaho, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Hopeful of adding fresh venison to their bill of fare, J. D. Rigney and M. A. Kigner, members of the Idaho Public Utilities Commission, departed from their hunting camp near Troutdale.

Empty handed they returned to find their celery and lettuce had been eaten by a band of deer which trampled the camp into wild disorder and departed.

The next day, however, the hunters bagged their deer.

BUS, AUTO HIT; THREE HURT

Two women and a man were in hospitals today, one of them in a serious condition, as the result of a collision between an automobile and a bus of the Great Eastern Stage line in the Steubenville pike, near the Summit House, early today, according to police.

The accident occurred, police said, when an automobile driven by Francis McConnell, of 214 Purley street, Sheraden, collided with the bus. Susan Testok, 18, of 328 Ella street, McKees Rocks, a passenger with McConnell, was taken to the South Side Hospital suffering a possible fracture of the skull. Mrs. M. R. Jenkins, 24, of 652 East One Hundred and Seventeenth street, Cleveland, O., a passenger on the bus, and McConnell were treated at Mercy Hospital, McConnell suffering a fractured left arm.

Lingerie Opportunities at HORNE'S

We've raved about lingerie sales before . . . but we've never had a sale of intimate apparel anything like this one! When you see beautiful Horne quality silk lingerie for just $1.00 . . . and imported silk underthings that are entirely hand-made, for $1.95—you'll look twice at the price tickets (as we did) to be sure you aren't seeing things! Such values as these will certainly make you realize that Christmas is less than two months away!

All the Silk Lingerie in this Sale is of that Lovely Soft-finish French Crepe or Milanese Glove Silk

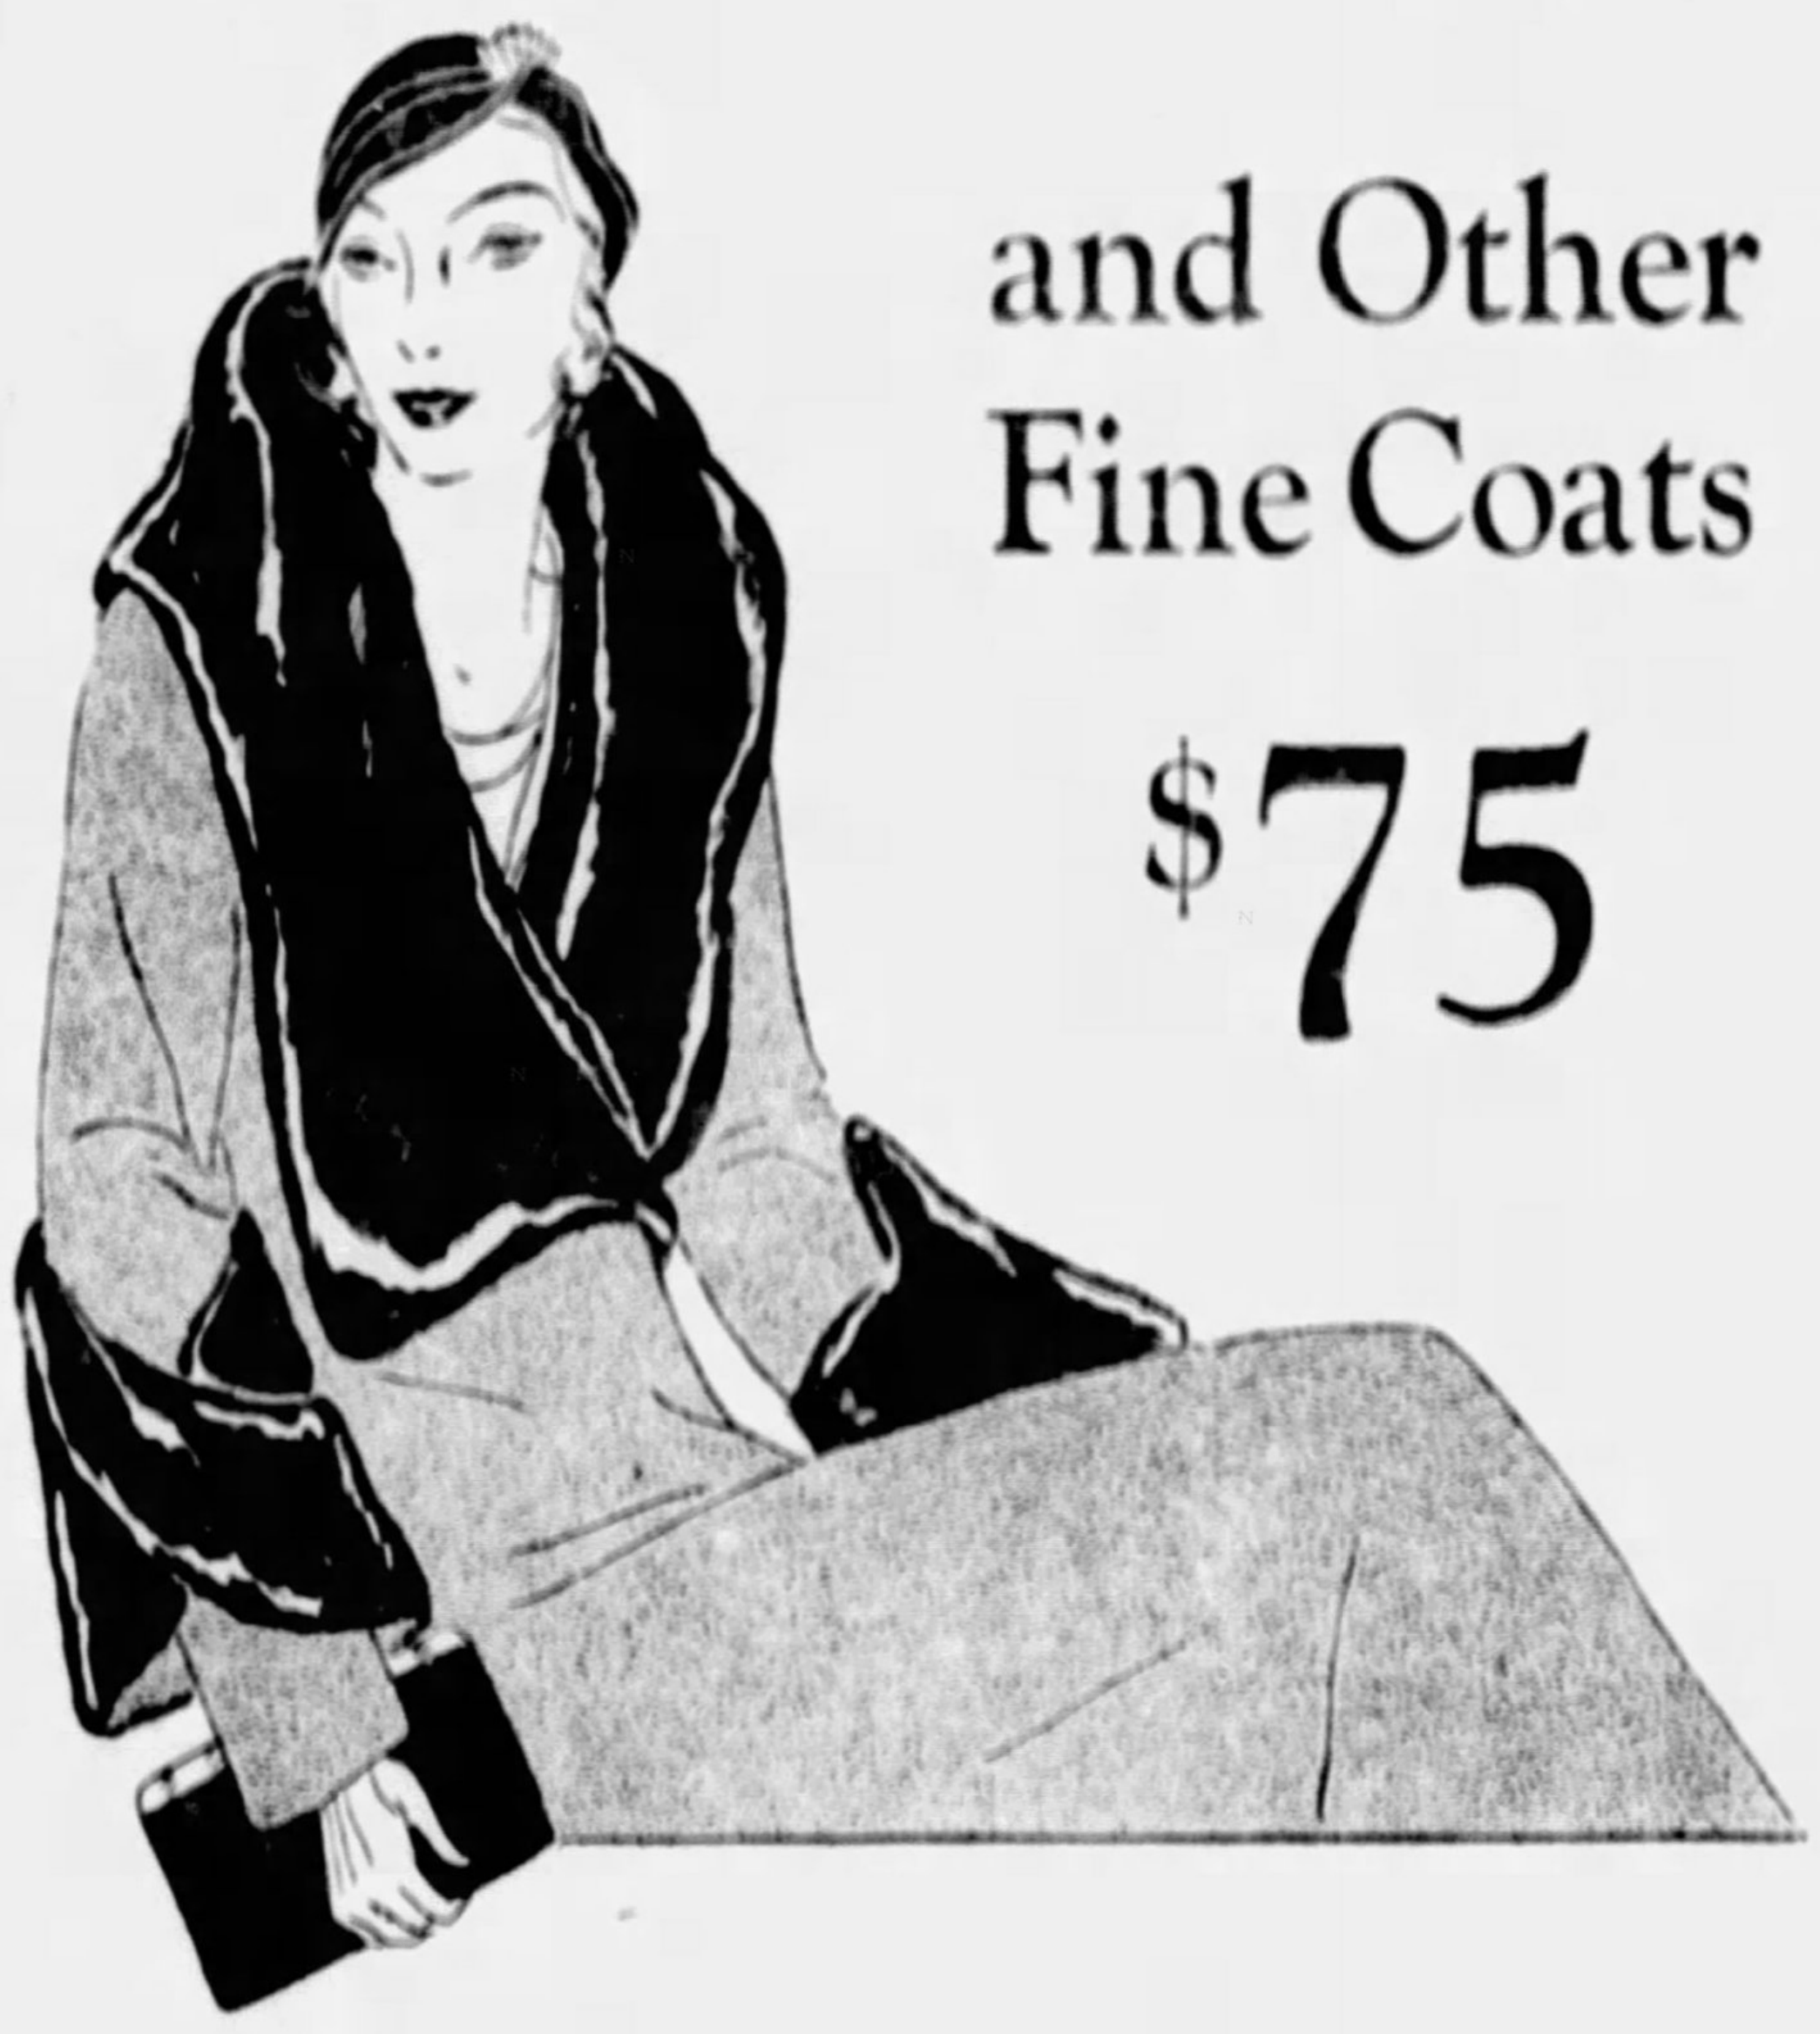
Barbara Lee



and Other Fine Coats $75

Our collection of fine, dressy coats at this price has been a revelation to those who have decided that, this season, they will have to limit themselves to considerably less than a hundred dollars for a winter coat.

The list is headed by Barbara Lee coats—superior coats, richly fur-trimmed, the models chosen by a country-wide fashion committee — and other coats of equal quality. Trimmed with fine grades of beaver, Persian lamb, kolinsky, Jap mink, kit fox, skunk, caracul, red fox, dyed fox, and krimmer.

Women's regular sizes 34 to 44. Short women's sizes 33½ to 45½. Misses' sizes 12 to 20.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

It was a [illegible] house indeed at the Alvin last night that rocked with laughter at "There Goes the Bride." I noticed Mrs. [illegible] M. Jones, III, as she entered the house, wearing black velvet with a matching wrap, and Mrs. Alan Magee Scaife [illegible] red velvet. Virginia Gordon, chatting in the foyer during intermission, wore black [illegible].

Mrs. [illegible] Patterson was among the first-nighters too and the J. Potter Gillespies with Mrs. Gillespie in a gown of black chiffon and sequins. Rita Borntraeger represented the debutante set, appearing in a flowing gown of black velvet having the decolletage outlined with rhinestones.

Bertha Brooks, another member of the younger set, chose black lace for her costume and Mrs. Sidney A. Stewart wore blue crepe. I caught a glimpse of Mrs. John F. Walton in black velvet with a matching wrap having a narrow band of bunny at the neckline. Mrs. Blair Childs' gown was of heavy cream satin and Mrs. William Larimer Jones, Jr., was stately in black velvet having a cape of the same material edged with a wide band of galyak.

Black Velvet

Mrs. James McKay chose powder blue satin and Mrs. Herbert A. May, black velvet. I noticed the Frank Webermans chatting at the intermission, and Mrs. Weberman was wearing black crepe embroidered with sequins. Mrs. Arthur P. Woolfolk wore black chiffon with a black velvet wrap and I caught a glimpse of the Gordon Kings.

Mrs. Alexander Mann was gowned in wine-red crepe with a hip-length jacket of gold cloth.

Electric blue crepe was the choice of Emily Frew and black velvet with an ermine coat that of Suzanne Trimble.

Mrs. A. Rex Flinn and Mrs. T. Howe Nimick were chatting in the foyer, and Mrs. Nimick was wearing a gown of deep ivory satin. I saw the J. O. Burgwins as they were leaving the theater, with Mrs. Burgwin in black velvet and ermine and the Junior George I. Craigs. Mrs. Craig wore a smart gown with the skirt of scintillating black satin and the bodice of cream colored satin with which she wore a wrap of black velvet. Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Jones II, too were among the spectators, with Mrs. Jones appearing in black velvet with an ermine wrap.

Bride Feted

No prospective bride ever lacks entertaining, and no exception is Mary Caroline Copeland, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Charles D. Copeland, of Greensburg, whose marriage to Paul J. Sturgeon, son of the William Carroll Sturgeons, of Greensburg, will be solemnized tomorrow. The wedding is taking place at 7 o'clock in the evening, you know, in the First Presbyterian Church of Greensburg.

Many and varied have been the parties given these past few weeks for Mary and the final pre-nuptial event takes place this evening in the Greensburg Polo Club. It is the rehearsal dinner, and the hosts are the Maitland A. Wilsons, of Greensburg. Mrs. Wilson is to be the matron of honor at the wedding and Mr. Wilson will be an usher.

Women Will Try to Persuade Pupils To Go Through With Courses And Give Assistance

Preliminary steps towards the organization of an Allegheny County Stay in School Committee were taken yesterday at the first conference held by the educational committee of the Allegheny County Federation of Women's Clubs. To the meeting, Mrs. D. Edwin Miller, educational chairman, had invited prominent educators and representatives of welfare organizations, especially those interested in scholarship work, with the idea of establishing a scholarship clearing house.

The new committee, which will co-operate with President Hoover's back-to-school movement, will be open to any association or individual, and its principal object will be to stimulate a desire to remain in school with assistance towards that end as a secondary objective.

Mrs. Miller pointed out the advisability of a continuance of education particularly in high school, where the question of unemployment entered into the case.

Attend Luncheon

At yesterday's luncheon meeting which was held in Kaufmann's, were Mrs. John M. Phillips, first vice president of the State Federation; Dr. E. N. Clopper, of the Federation of Social Agencies; Dr. R. M. Sherrard, representing Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of city schools; Mrs. Frederick B. Chalfant, of the Board of Education; Dr. Roswell Johnson, of the Able Youths Committee; Miss Martha Hoyt, Frick Training School; Mrs. Sadie L. Gleason, of Juvenile Court; Miss Helen Hart, Kingsley House; Mrs. C. S. Hutchison, Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club; R. E. Iffert, Allegheny County Joint Committee on Scholarship Aid; Miss Aida C. Bishop, Phoebe Brashear Club; Anthony M. Goldberger, University of Pittsburgh; C. F. Lewis, Buhl Foundation; Mrs. Mitchell B. DeGroot, Council of Jewish Women; Mrs. C. A. Rehtmeyer, City Parent-Teacher Association; Miss H. Marie Dermitt, Allegheny County Civic Club; Mrs. R. T. Lewis, Sheraden Woman's Club; Mrs. Hubert Chapman, Daughters of the American Revolution; Mrs. W. H. Reinherr, Homewood Women's Club; Miss Matilda Orr Hays, Congress of Clubs; Mrs. W. H. McCombs, Carrick Mothers; K. D. Magruder, Committee on Penal Affairs; Mrs. A. C. McMillan, Goodwill Industries Auxiliary; Mrs. T. S. Loring, Crafton Woman's Club, and Mrs. E. F. Waldschmidt, Home and Hospital Club.

To Break Ground

The ground-breaking ceremonies for the $70,000 addition to the College Club on Friday afternoon promises to be one of the most important affairs the organization has ever had. Mrs. William Reed Thompson, honorary president, will break the ground and will make a brief address as will also Dr. Cora Helen Coolidge, who in 1908 organized the club of 19 women.

Today, when the club has occupied its own home for 10 years, the membership numbers 500 and it is interesting to note that of the purchasers of the $77,000 worth of bonds put out to finance the new building all but 10 are club members. The ground-breaking is to take place immediately after the regular Friday lecture and before the customary tea.

Again the College Club is offering its members a month of varied interests, beginning on November 6 with a visit to the International Art Exhibit under Miss Margaret Lee's guidance. After the gallery tour the members will return to the clubhouse for the customary Friday afternoon tea. On the thirteenth, "Who Wants Credit?" the playlet written last year for the Twentieth Century Club's contest by Mrs. Kirkland W. Todd, will be produced by the author and Miss Eleanor T. Grier and there will be music by Jean McCrory Newman.

"The Official System of Contract Bridge," a talk by Capt. Fred G. French, president of the American Bridge League and head of the Pittsburgh Bridge Club, is scheduled for the following week and a musical program is the event listed for the last Friday of the month. This program will be given by Miss Mildred Carlson, piano; Joseph Grecco, violin, and Miss Ruth Parker, soprano, with Mrs. Fred A. Harvey accompanying.

* * *

Mrs. W. L. McDaniel entertained the fine arts department of the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club yesterday. The program consisted of songs by Mrs. E. E. Ludwig, accompanied by Mrs. F. H. Carson and biographies and readings from Edna St. Vincent Millay, Sara Teasdale and Margaret Widdemer, by several of the members.

Mrs. Gensemer, the former Miss Elizabeth Zeigler Clark, niece of Edward Pitcairn, Woodland road, pictured in her wedding dress.

Dr. Franklin Randolph Married To North Carolina Girl; Will Live in South

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew S. Melville, of Lenair, N. C., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Frances Emily Melville, to Dr. Franklin Randolph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anson D. F. Randolph, of Wilkinsburg, which was solemnized on Saturday, in the Melville home. Officiating was the Rev. A. H. Barker. The ceremony took place at 4 o'clock, under an arch of sweet alyssium and fall flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of deep blue velvet with a matching hat and carried roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Elizabeth Randolph, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor, wore black crepe Romaine and Chantilly lace and carried pink roses. Bruce Melville, brother of the bride, served as best man, and the ushers included Robert Armstrong. Louise and Helen Smail were the small flower girls, and Douglas Smail and Junior Rombough were pages. Miss Doris Head, of Newburgh, Ontario, sang, accompanied by Miss Elsie Smail, of Madoc, Ontario.

There was a wedding dinner at Island View Inn for 60 guests, after which Dr. and Mrs. Randolph left by motor for Pittsburgh. They will make their home in Lenair later.

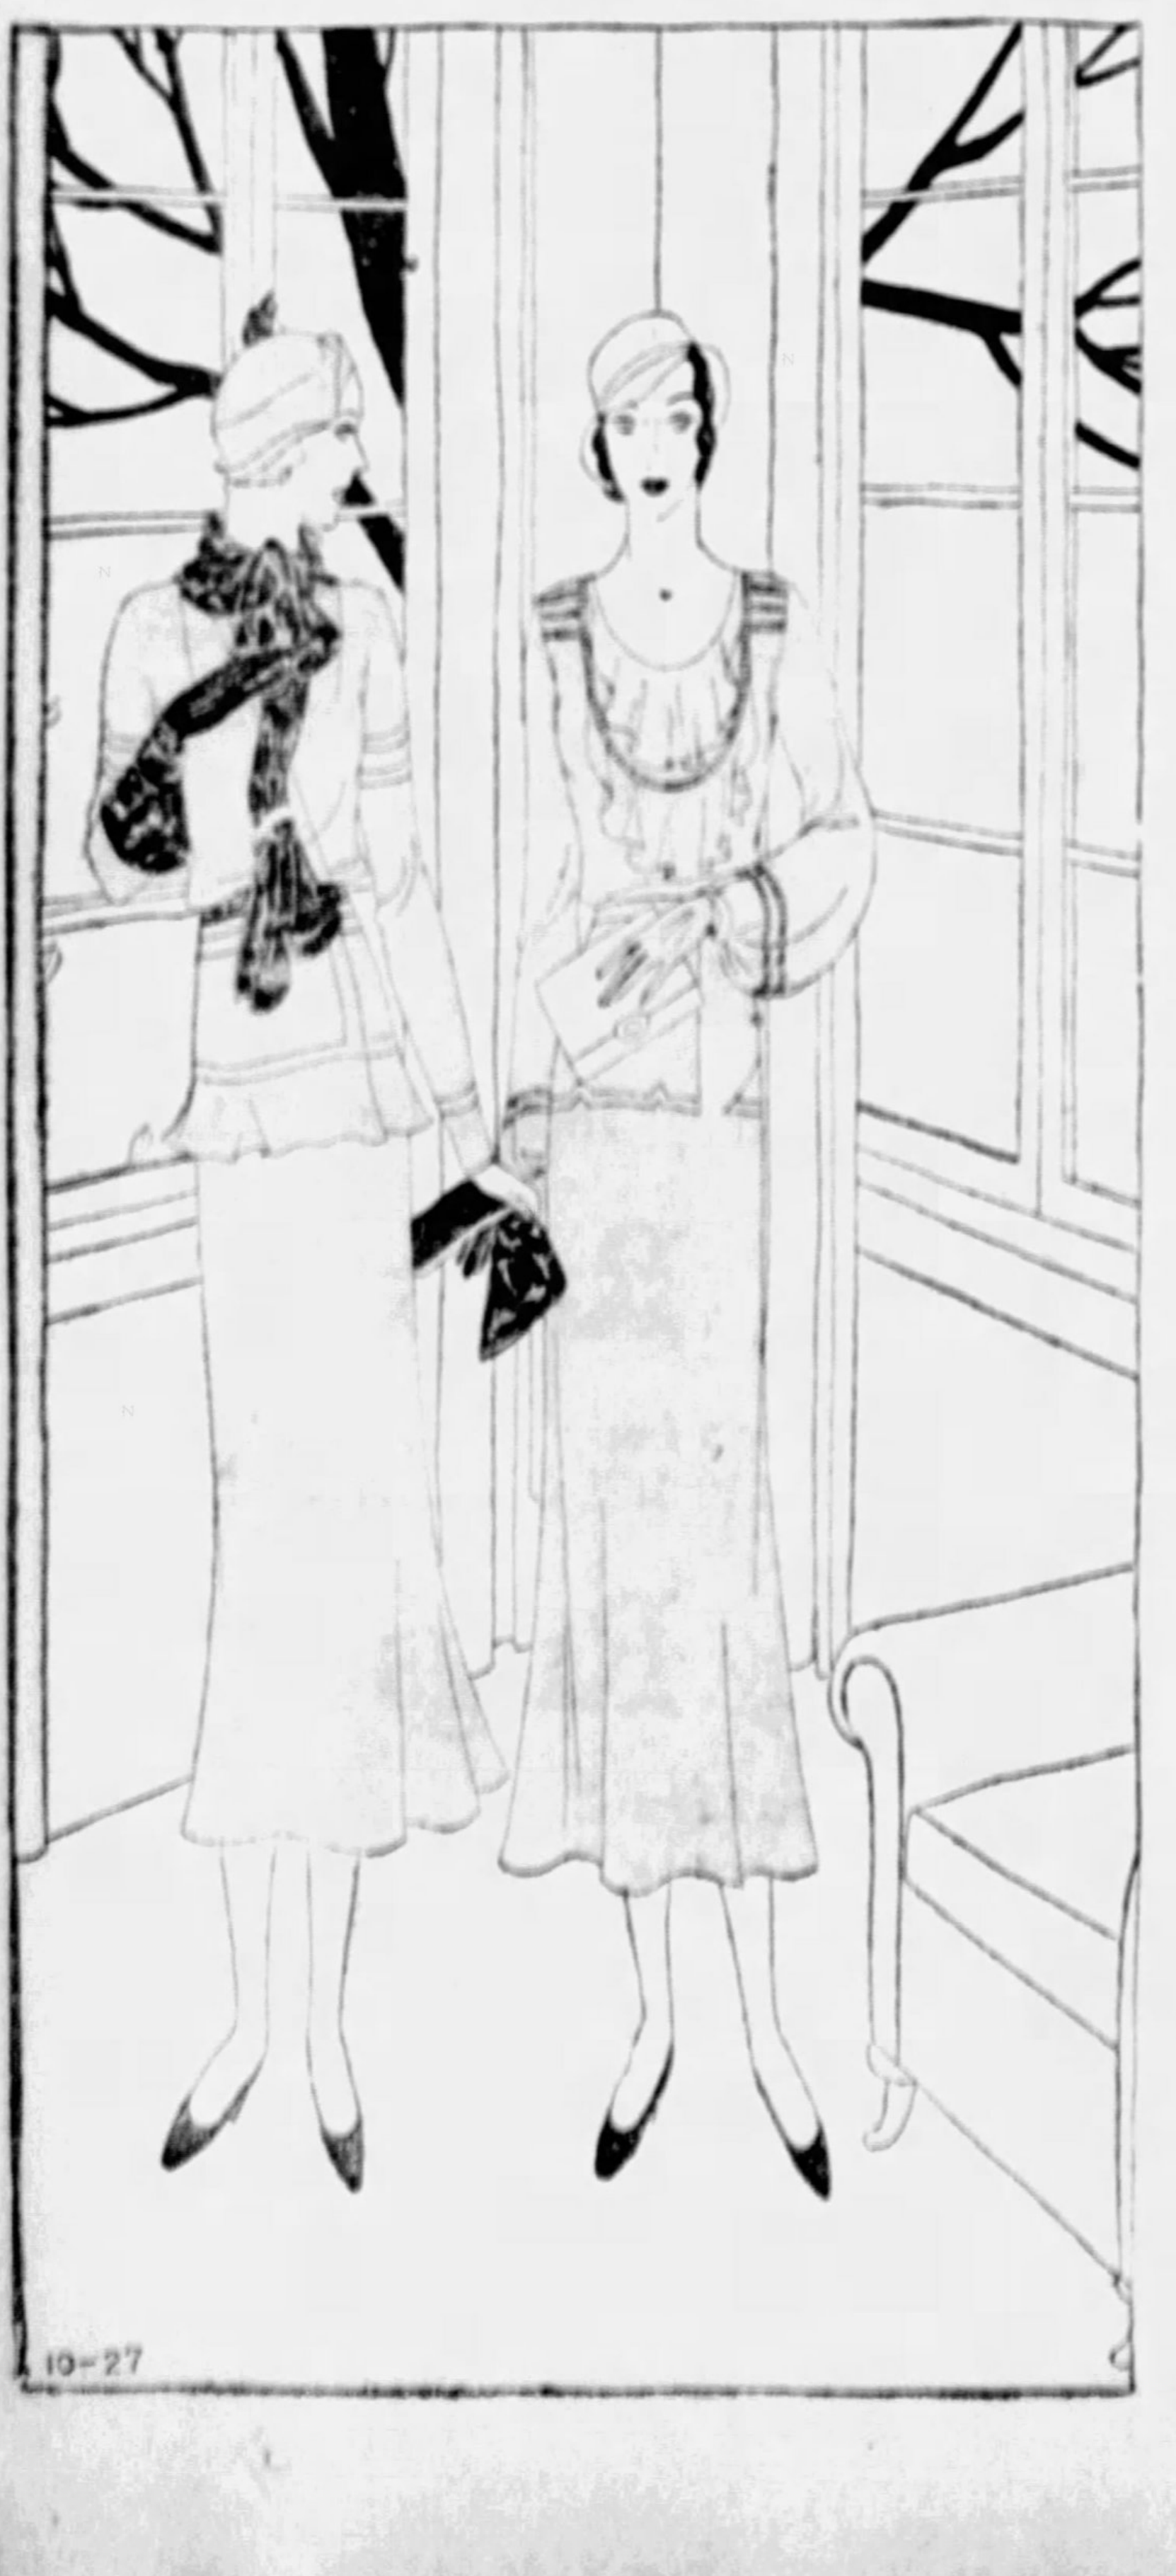
PERFECT ENSEMBLE NEEDS MATCHING ACCESSORIES

—Sketched in Paris—



Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—No longer is a suit contented to stand on its own merits or by itself. It demands its own matching blouse, and even gloves and a hat to complete the scheme and turn it into a smart ensemble. One of the newest ideas is to trim the suit with a flat fur and use the same pelt for the gloves or for trimming the felt hat made especially for wear with the suit. All thought of a deliberate effect or of monotony is most cleverly avoided, the result being carelessly harmonious in appearance, but awfully neat and smart. Paris has taken tremendously to the complete walking ensemble and these models are selling rapidly. They are fresh and youthful looking and disguise their tailored air with soft feminity that never becomes dressy or too obvious. Green or red with black are two color combinations much in demand for clothes of this type. They add a cheerful note that is most welcome and most necessary just now.

* * *

TODAY'S DRAWING for this paper shows a splendid example of a suit with its own accessories. It is by Bernard et Cie and is in tomato red woolen with a fancy weave. The lower part of the jacket has a shallow, slightly circular peplum. There is a black and silver mesh belt. The scarf is detachable and passes through a narrow strap in front. It is of black galyak and so with the suit we have gloves of black suede with deep cuffs of matching black galyak. Good looking, isn't it?

* * *

THE SECOND SKETCH shows the very own blouse of our natty red woolen suit. It is in matching red chiffon to complete the ensemble effect. It has double jabots in front and wide fagotting done in the same shade of red and the blouse is soft without being fussy. The fairly long skirt buttons at the left hip with a pointed tab.

Strange Plague Hits Virgin Island City

CHRISTIANSTED, St. Croix, Virgin Island, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—A strange fever, in which the patients are stricken with amnesia, has become epidemic here within the last two weeks, filling the hospital with nearly 100 cases.

Kidnaper's Idea For Invention Stays Term

ST. PAUL, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—A judge's interest in science enabled a confessed kidnaper to seek perfection of an invention today instead of beginning a 25-year prison term.

As a result, A. A. Robbins, admitted participant in a plot carried out a month ago, was in the county jail toiling over charts of what he said was a chemical process which would "revolutionize the manufacture of paper and paint."

He received an indefinite stay of commitment yesterday after telling Judge Gustavus Loevinger he feared prison routine would interfere with continued development.

Robbins said his formula provides use of a farm by-product of little value now, but declined to reveal its exact nature.

THINGS WORTH SAVING FOR . . .
Does your MENU depend on YOUR PANS?
ALL you housewives have experienced it—that "lost" feeling you get when you suddenly need some kitchen utensil you don't have. Perhaps you wanted to prepare some special dish . . . or cook a meal for ten . . . and you just didn't have the pots and pans you needed.
Wouldn't it be fine—you culinary artistes—to have exactly the right utensil for every purpose? A complete set of aluminum or enamel kitchen ware? Stores now are selling sets of just the pieces for a family of two, of four, or of any size.
You can have a kitchen set like that. And easily, too. Start a savings account with the Farmers Deposit National Bank today. Then deposit a little money regularly in it—and very soon you'll have saved enough to buy the kitchen set you want.
WHAT DO YOU WANT very much? You'll get it sooner—whatever it is—if you start your savings account today. And the sooner you start, the more interest you'll get. Just step inside—deposit a dollar or more—say "I want to save."

MAN, INJURED IN CRASH, DIES IN HOSPITAL

Avalon Store Damaged By Auto; Driver Held After Striking Police Car

Rudolph Paronyith, 49, of 418 Woodward avenue, McKees Rocks, died last night in Suburban General Hospital from injuries suffered Sunday when the automobile in which he was riding crashed into a store in California avenue, near Avalon Police Station. Stephen Mulect, of Woodward avenue, driver of the car, posted bond for the inquest.

Joan McGrill, 9, of 1016 Powell street, was injured last night while crossing West Carson street when she was struck by an automobile driven by Charles T. Brown, 37, of Aliquippa, according to police. The child was removed to Ohio Valley Hospital where her condition is reported as serious.

After he crashed into a police radio car in Neptune street, Joseph Graheck, 33, of 106 Dilworth street, was arrested, charged with violating the automobile laws.

Sideswiping a pole at Washington and Castle Shannon roads, in Mt. Lebanon, after, police say, he fell asleep at the steering wheel of a produce truck which he was driving, William M. McClelland, Canonsburg farmer, escaped injury, early today. The truck was demolished.

Two youths were in the McKeesport Hospital suffering injuries received when an automobile in which they were riding was sideswiped by a hit-run driver in Foster road, near McKeesport, last night. They were William Oakley, 22, of 2418 Cronemeyer street, and John Serense, 19, of 2008 Oriole street, both of McKeesport. Serense received a broken collarbone. John Kiskaggen, 39, of 2313 Fifth avenue, McKeesport, a third passenger, was given first aid at the hospital.

Harry Booth, 36, of 314 West North avenue, was in the Pittsburgh Hospital suffering body lacerations and bruises when a machine which he was driving was sideswiped by a hit-run driver in the Aspinwall extension of the Freeport road early today, according to police.

Hays Asks Workers To Aid Unemployed

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—A call to every man with a job, with an income, to contribute to the relief of the unemployed was issued last night in a radio address by Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America. He said:

"The so-called rich cannot do it alone. Any dollar trembling in a check book or hiding in a savings account—that stops its ears to a child's hungry cry, or looks away from women shivering in the cold—is a dollar that your own family would prefer not to inherit."

Cambria Slayer's Death Date Set

HARRISBURG, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The week beginning Monday, November 30, was set today by Gov. Pinchot as the date for the execution of Harry Starchok, Cambria County, at Rockview Penitentiary.

Gasoline Station At Sharon Bombed

SHARON, Pa., Oct. 27.—No one was injured when a bomb wrecked the filling station owned by George Rockneck on the Sharon-Youngstown road early today.

Harmless Way to Remove Corns in 3 Minutes
No more 3 or 4 days' wait, and endless coaxing and soaking besides. Now, thanks to a new chemical discovery, you simply apply a few drops of soothing, comforting Shur-Off and wait just 3 minutes. All pain, all tenderness and soreness leave, the deadened and calloused skin softens, loosens and you can remove the corn then and there. No pain, no trouble, no danger of irritating healthy skin. Your sorest corn or callous is out, your pain and misery goes and again joyous foot comfort is yours. Your druggist has Shur-Off—only 50 cents and he will guarantee to refund your money if not delighted with results. Try Shur-Off tonight—it's economical, too. One bottle removes 8 corns or callouses.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Now it [illegible] explorers who are elbow[illegible] way to the microphones, [illegible] adventures in far off corners of the world. And they are coming en masse.

There was a time when they came separately, were given expansive ballyhoo, spoke their pieces to the world. Radio seems to have herded them all in New York, bound them into an apparently friendly fraternity, guided by the spirit of one for all and all for the eardrums of America.

Recently, adroit Lowell Thomas assembled them to further the publicity of his new book. And did they help! Even aviators are no more friendly disposed toward each other. . . . Visible in their midst, too, is debunker Carveth Wells, known to listeners as the chief pin-pricker of big game hunting. . . . The spirit of debunking increases on the air waves, and that is good news, though it doesn't use its barrel staves to any extent on commercial sponsorship.

Followed to its logical end, of course, debunking itself will have to be debunked. . . . And then where will we be?

* * *

Comes to Town Hall for a recital the two piano team, Fray and Braggiotti. With neither hot Harlem jazz nor maudlin Broadway ballads listed—only those composers whose feet have touched the clouds. . . . Broadcasters once a year put aside their mask of sophistication, go in for the pastoral excitements of corn-husking. All for the farmer's wife and kiddies. . . . Even broadcasters have found they must not neglect the farmer's wife and kiddies, though most of their attention to date has been directed to the airing of hillbilly ballads. . . .

Considering the wealth of talent at its doorsteps R. K. O.'s theater-of-the-air could be one of radio's outstanding programs. . . . Those fabulous figures known as chorus girls are just reaching the microphones. It is still a matter of curiosity to us why the broadcasters don't make use of the talents of Hugo Riesenfeld. Riesenfeld is responsible for introducing more originality into the movie orchestra than anyone else in the whole land, yet radio, ever clamoring for originality, has not beckoned him.

They say there are 14,000 musicians in New York and 12,000 of them idle. Radio uses only a small percentage of them. Those lucky enough to have stormed the broadcasting gates are heard over and over again during the day, roaming their way from Broadway to Bayreuth. . . . Many of those who are on the radio payrolls don't take their music too seriously, recognize that it also teems with shams and pretense. . . . Wonder if John McCormack is wearying of those ballads most closely identified with him. None of them was heard in last broadcast.

We Now Present

By Darrell V. Martin
Radio Editor

Darrell V. Martin

KATHERINE MAYO, author of "Mother India" and "Isles of Fear," will speak on KDKA at 8 o'clock tonight . . . Miss Mayo's indictment of social conditions in India has been the cause of widespread discussion and was commended by Mahatma Gandhi, Indian leader . . . Other speakers in this new series of writers will include Faith Baldwin, the Grand Duchess Marie, Corey Ford, Robert Sherwood, Frederick Allen and Alice Duer Miller . . . Kate Smith will be Walter Winchell's guest on WJAS at 8:45 . . . Oley Speaks' delicate "Sylvia" will be sung by Alice Mock and chorus on KDKA at 9 . . . WCAE has several attractive features including Crumit and Sanderson at 8, the ever delightful Musical Magazine at 9 and the Brush Man with Don Voorhees' Orchestra at 9:30.

Question a Day:

What is the theme song of the Black and Gold Orchestra?—Edythe G., Freedom, Pa.

Answer—"My Reverie."

"The Buckeye Battle Cry," now the gridiron song of Ohio State University, was written more than a decade ago by Frank Crumit. . .

Beginning November 3, Ben Bernie's 15-minute period on CBS-WJAS is to be increased to 30 minutes. . .

John Holbrook, NBC announcer, and Catherine Renwick (Mystery House and other plays) have announced their engagement. . .

Lanny Ross is to be Don Voorhees' guest on NBC-KDKA Thursday night at 9:30. . .

Hollywood has beckoned Kerry Conway, coach of WOR announcers, to edit script and coach the movie stars in pronunciations of the effete east . . .

Miss W. L., Dormont—Frank Knight is 35, tall, handsome and mustached . . . married . . . he served in the British Army during the World War, was wounded at the Somme . . .

So Mayor Matt Thompkins is to be opposed for reelection by Mrs. Templeton Jones, exponent of women's rights!

Out of town tonight—Red Nichols, WABC and Jack Denny, WEAF, WTIC, WGY, at 11:30; Rudy Vallee, midnight; Paul Whiteman, WJZ, WGAR, 12:15 a. m.; Freddie Martin, WABC, 1 a. m.; Fletcher Henderson, 1:30 a. m.

a fruit that is Never Picked

Seems strange, doesn't it? But SUNSWEET California Prunes are never picked from the trees like ordinary fruits—and never knocked from the trees, like some ordinary prunes! They hang till so saturated with sunshine and so heavy with natural fruit sugar they drop from the trees of their own weight. These last few days on the trees give them a wealth of healthful goodness you will never find in ordinary prunes. Be sure to insist on genuine tree-ripened SUNSWEETS for your protection. Buy them in the clean, handy 1- and 2-lb. cartons.

Downtown Komic Chapter Holds Election

While traffic officers on the South Side and West End were busy early last Saturday morning steering hundreds of children safely over the Smithfield street and Point bridges downtown police had their hands full with a similar procession of youngsters city-bound from the Hill district.

All were headed for the Harris Diamond street theater to attend their meeting of the Warner Theaters-Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club. Still enthusiastic over the good time they had at the earlier meeting and spurred on by the announcement that Dimlings candy would be distributed gratis to every child, was a happy lively throng that greeted Manager William Pearce when he stepped upon the stage.

Officers were elected for a term of four weeks. The grand jester will be Joseph Mowod and the board of governors is composed of Mary T. Colosimo, Helen Veronica Offig, Richard McCormick, Henry Hanna, Emily Veronica Solomon and Dominic Ambrose. When the officers had taken their places on the stage, the audience repeated the club pledge under the leadership of the grand jester.

After the distribution of candy and prizes, James Darwin, ventriloquist and magician, kept the members laughing for about 15 minutes. Then Honus Wagner, popular veteran ballplayer, gave an interesting and amusing talk.

Among the treats announced at the Harris next Saturday morning are a barrel of fun in which there will be many attractive prizes and pay day, meaning that each boy and girl will receive an envelope containing a coin.

ETNA HARRIS CONTESTS

There was much merriment at the Harris Theater, Etna, meeting. Between the harmonica contest, won by Jack Heffler, and the Joe E. Brown contest, won by Jerry Weidle, there was no end of fun. The first prize in the barrel of fun was won by Dick Lyons, Jr.

The officer elected last week conducted the meeting.

CAMERAPHONE CHAPTER

The orchestra that entertained at the Cameraphone meeting has attracted a lot of attention. It is known as the Lapertche Orchestra and is composed of Henry Amaroso, Leonard Lapertche, George Hurst, Eddie Metcalf, Henry Pupa, Henry Lapertche, Mike Capossoli and Billy Esche.

PRIZE WINNERS

Fleece-lined coats were won by Margaret Sullivan and Reed Juhling, Cameraphone chapter; Martin Rothman and Norma Squitieri, Manor chapter; Billy Milliken and Dorothy Webb, Rowland chapter, and Dorothy Senheiser and Paul Williams, South Hills Harris chapter.

HOW TO JOIN

Every boy and girl desiring to participate in the activities of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club is invited to send in the application blank on this page. They will get in return an official button, membership card and will also be assigned to a chapter.

Never before was Cab-riding so cheap in Pittsburgh . . . .

Nothing succeeds like success. Green & Yellow reduced cab rates. More people riding. More folks taking longer rides in cabs.

Lots of folks finding it's cheaper to use a cab to and from business than to drive a private car with parking worries.

The reduced rate has increased our phone calls enormously. And we're right on the job to take care of them.

Parents of school children find it cheaper to use our cabs to transport kiddies to and from school than to use their own private car.

The luxury of Green & Yellow appeals to the fastidious . . . for theatre dinner parties . . . for social calls.

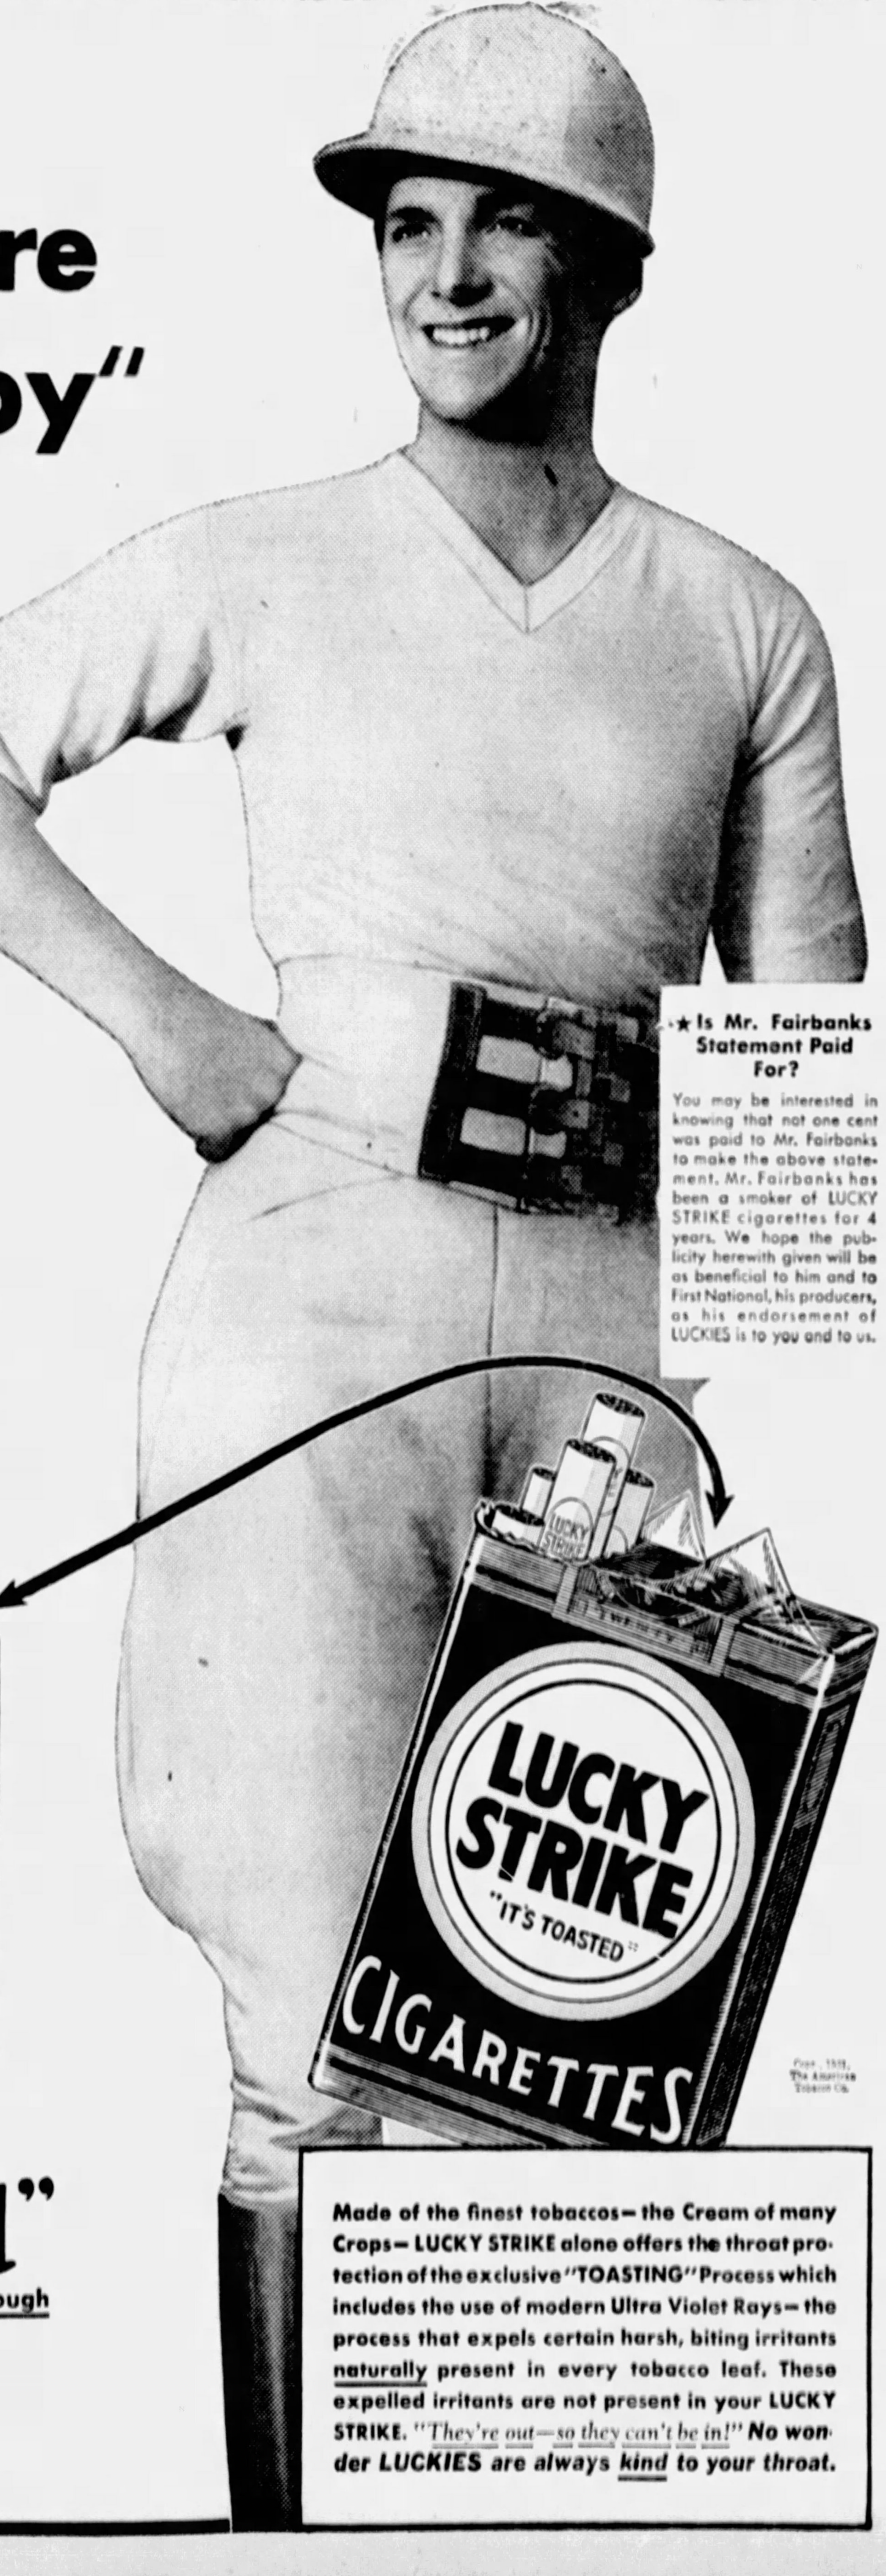
"LUCKIES are my standby"



"Luckies are my standby. I buy them exclusively. I've tried practically all brands but Lucky Strikes are kind to my throat. And that new improved Cellophane wrapper that opens with a flip of the finger is a ten strike."

Douglas Fairbanks Jr.

★ Is Mr. Fairbanks Statement Paid For?

You may be interested in knowing that not one cent was paid to Mr. Fairbanks to make the above statement. Mr. Fairbanks has been a smoker of LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes for 4 years. We hope the publicity herewith given will be as beneficial to him and to First National, his producers, as his endorsement of LUCKIES is to you and to us.

It didn't take Douglas Fairbank's, Jr., long to live down being just "Doug's boy, Doug!" By the time the youngster had turned twenty-one on two heels, he was a fine actor and full-fledged star. His new picture is "I Like Your Nerve," a First National film.

ELECTION FRAUD ARRESTS NEAR

the witnesses had been present at Friday's hearing, and offered testimony to the effect they had been told not to go to court.

Mrs. Mary Hozak, of 417 Patton street, Wilmerding, who is not a citizen, but whose name appears twice on the register assessor's list, said she had been told to stay out of court. She testified:

"Patrolman Moody Champ, Joe Capo (the register assessor) and John Tuker came to my house. Tuker said: 'This is the assessor. Tell him how you spell your name.'

"Then he asked me if I was going to court and I told him I would go if I had the carfare. Tuker told me it would be better if I stayed home and he said that if I heard anybody knock on my door, to hide myself."

Anna Wojnar, of 423 Patton street, Wilmerding, corroborated Mrs. Hozak's testimony. She said she heard the conversation from the doorway.

CAPO'S DEFENSE

Attorney John T. Philpott, representing Capo, called Capo to the stand in his own defense. Capo, asked to explain how he made up his list, testified:

"I go from house to house and then in the evening I wait around the street corners and fellows come along and give me names and I put them down."

Capo was grilled by Sniderman about fictitious names found on his lists and reiterated that he didn't know how the names got on the lists.

Sniderman's attack was centered around Frank Matarazzo, of 145 State street, Wilmerding; John Henry and John Cremity. Defense witnesses testified that Frank Matarazzo was non-existent, and that John Henry and John Cremity were one and the same person.

At the completion of the plaintiff's case, Attorney Philpott asked that the petition be dismissed because none of the allegations had been proven. Judge Macfarlane denied his request with the statement:

"It has been proven by your own admission that names of four people who are dead appear on the list, and that there is no John Henry, and that there is no Frank Matarazzo."

Communist Leader Driven From Iowa

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—George Papcun, 29, Communist, organizer in Council Bluffs, last night was taken 14 miles east of Council Bluffs by 12 unidentified men and ordered "to keep on going."

The seizure of Papcun followed his arrest on charges of disturbing the peace of a City Council meeting a short time before.

Train Wreck Plot Foiled by Youth

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—A 12-year-old boy last night frustrated an attempt to wreck the Western Express, fast Boston and Albany train to Buffalo and western points, by notifying police after he had been beaten by the alleged train wreckers.

The boy, Edward Hogan, told police he saw two men piling ties on tracks near Faneuil station.

Upset Not Serious If Bowels Get This Help

When you're out-of-sorts, headachy, dizzy, bilious, with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy—don't worry. It's probably constipation.

Take a candy Cascaret tonight and see how quickly your trouble clears up. No more headache; no gas on stomach or bowels. Appetite improves; digestion is encouraged. Take another tomorrow night and the next night. Get every bit of the souring waste out of your system. Then see how bowel action is regular and complete.

Cascarets are made from cascara which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. Ten cents at all drug stores.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To quickly end stubborn coughs due to colds, it is important to soothe the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, saves money, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

SEEK 2D WARD 'PHANTOMS'

Although 150 persons from the Second Ward were subpenaed, only 25 appeared before the vote probing grand jury today. Many of the remainder were believed to be phantoms.

The subpenas were served last night by County detectives, after the grand jury had spent a busy day hearing other Second Ward witnesses. Most of these were said to be persons in whose names tax receipts had been taken out by someone else, the name erased and another name inserted, upon which someone else voted. It was to ascertain who was responsible for taking out the tax receipts and altering the name, that the many witnesses were being examined.

Thomas Geary, Republican nominee for Alderman in the Second Ward, was one of the witnesses examined yesterday. It was stated that Geary had not procured tax receipts for others, and was being questioned along other lines.

HOOVER AGAINST FILIPINO AIMS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—President Hoover told newspapermen today that immediate independence for the Philippines without assured economic stability would lead to disaster in the islands.

The President said the government must be assured of stability before independence could be granted.

The President said the matter was discussed at length at the cabinet meeting, but no conclusions as to policy had been reached. Independence at some time or other, directly or indirectly, has been promised the islands by every President and Congress since the United States took charge of the islands. The President said:

"The problem is one of time."

Pinchot Cuts Use Of State's Autos

HARRISBURG, Oct. 27.—Orders restricting the use of state-owned automobiles were issued today by Gov. Pinchot to department heads. Employes who violate the rules are liable to a week's suspension without pay.

In the future no state-owned automobile will be assigned to any individual except officers stationed outside of Harrisburg to whom the use of a machine is essential; inspectors or executives whose duties require them to be on the road; state-owned institutions and department heads whose duties include the inspection of state work scattered throughout the commonwealth.

Pittsburgh Divorcee Sues Detroit Man

DETROIT, Oct. 27.—(INS.)—Mrs. Alice M. Hine, Pittsburgh divorcee, today filed suit for $100,000 damages against Homer H. Johnson, Detroit advertising executive, charging that Johnson was the father of her child recently born.

Mrs. Hine revealed an acquaintanceship which started when she was employed in the home economics department of a large Pittsburgh concern while Johnson was handling its advertising account.

Berenguer Released To Visit Ill Mother

MADRID, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Former Premier Damaso Berenguer and his brother, Frederico, charged with political crimes against the republic, have been temporarily liberated from prison so that they could go to the bedside of their mother who is critically ill.

The authorities exacted from them the promise that they would return when her condition was better and did not place them under guard.

Mine Crews Still Dig For 6 Entombed Men

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 27.—(INS.)—Rescuers today continued to dig their way through a barrier of coal and rock to reach six men who were entombed Saturday night in the Mocanaqua mine of the West End Coal Company. Only faint hope of finding them alive was held out.

The squad of workmen reported slow progress, as further slides and water seepage provided handicaps.

Davison Unhurt As Plane Crashes

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., Oct. 27.—(INS.)—A plane in which F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war in charge of aviation, was a passenger was damaged when it landed here today but neither Davison nor the pilot was injured.

School for Dry Agents Opens Here

A two weeks' school for prohibition agents in the Pittsburgh area opened in the House building today in charge of Attorneys Joseph Piper and H. S. Hiller, of Washington.

Face Disfigured With Large Pimples. Healed by Cuticura.

"My face was disfigured with pimples that were hard, large and red. They were in blotches and festered and scaled over, causing an itchy feeling. The pimples were very sore and sometimes I was ashamed to face people because of the disfigurement. The trouble lasted more than a year and a half.

"I used other remedies but they were of no use. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me, and in two and a half weeks I was completely healed." (Signed) Edward Smith, 201 Hayes St., Chester, Pa., April 1, 1931.

HARMONY LINE PLAN FOUGHT

HARRISBURG, Oct. 27—(AP)—Robert White, city solicitor of New Castle today lodged a vigorous protest with the Public Service Commission against the application of the Pittsburgh Harmony Short Line Motor Transportation Company for a permit to carry merchandise over a direct route between New Castle and Pittsburgh.

White charged that motor trucking companies are cutting into the revenue of railroads and declared that the three railroads now serving New Castle are assets the city cannot afford to lose. David I. McCahill, for the applicant, charged that White was not acting in good faith.

The bus company's petition asked for a rehearing on the original application, the certificate having been refused previously. The bus company has a right to haul between the two cities by way of Butler and seeks to shorten the route, via the Perry highway to Zelienople and through Ellwood city. The company also asked for a more direct route between Beaver Falls and Ellwood City.

NAVY OBSERVES 156TH YEAR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27—(AP.)—The glories of the past and the hopes of the future are entwined today in the Navy's Observance of its one hundred and fifty-sixth birthday.

In a world-wide movement, the limitation of its strength through a holiday on construction is under consideration. A slice of $60,000,000 from its next budget is before the administration.

But, on the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt, an ardent exponent of its upbuilding, the Navy paused for its annual ceremony. Sea-faring routine slipped from the decks of many ships in port and the service kept open house for the nation.

At Lakehurst, modernity was symbolized in the dedication of a new queen of the air—the giant airship Akron.

Clara Blames Grip For Canceling Trip

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—A severe attack of grip caused Clara Bow to turn back from a vacation trip to New York, she said today at her Beverly Hills home, where she is under the care of a physician.

Gunmen Get $6,000 In Baltimore Bank

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27—(AP.)—Two armed men today held up the cashier and a clerk of the White Hall Bank and escaped with $6,000.

DR. RYAN URGES 5 BILLION LOAN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27—(INS.)—The Rev. Dr. John A. Ryan, noted economist and humanitarian, today called upon Congress for the prompt enactment of a $5,000,000,000 public works program to break the economic depression.

The vast enterprise, he declared, should be financed by 4 per cent government bond issues to be paid for by increased taxes on high incomes and large inheritances. Failure to adopt such a constructive plan, Dr. Ryan warned, will mean "increased pressure for a dole."

He submitted his far-reaching program and views before the La Follette Senate Committee conducting an extensive study into the causes of business depressions and their possible solution.

Florence Easton Weds N. Y. Banker

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Mme. Florence Easton, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company for many years, was married Friday to Robert Stanley Rogers, banker and broker of New York, at Bedford, N. Y., it was announced yesterday.

Mme. Easton obtained a divorce two years ago from Francis MacLennan, the tenor, to whom she was married more than 20 years ago in London.

Lamont Ends Study Of Rail Securities

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The administration has completed its study of railroad securities but will hold action in abeyance until railroad executives decide what they will do with the Interstate Commerce Commission's rate proposals.

The study was made by Secretary Lamont. He reported to the President today and it was decided that nothing would be done until the railroad executives had acted on the proposal to pool rate increases.

Hearing Waived For Webster Drew

BRADFORD, Pa., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Counsel for Webster G. Drew, Bradford city treasurer, charged with embezzling more than $150,000 of school funds, waived a preliminary hearing today and his bond was set at $150,000.

Drew is under guard in the Bradford Hospital. Papers to commit him to jail were turned over to County Detective J. J. Allison for service after his counsel had waived a hearing. If bond is furnished for his release, it must be approved by the District Attorney's office.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

SCHOOL TAX REDUCTION IMPOSSIBLE, AARON SAYS

ANNUAL EXHIBIT OF PAINTINGS ON VIEW

Associated Artists' Works Present Interesting Pittsburgh District Scenes

The fourth annual autumn exhibition of paintings by members of the Associated Artists of Pittsburgh is on view at the Kaufmann galleries through November 7.

This exhibition is one in which any member of the Associated Artists may participate, unhampered by juries of selection.

Some 52 women and 30 men contribute 135 paintings to this season's show of medium size canvases which are arranged in a series of small galleries.

Penelope Redd

Anna Belle Craig makes an appropriate gesture in her decorative genre painting of the escalator in Kaufmann's. Some enterprising citizen should organize a show of Miss Craig's columnist-like chronicles in pictorial art of average Pittsburgh activities. She has painted a series during the past decade.

Two other women painters who give refreshing comments on Pittsburgh are Mary Shaw Marohnic in a view of the city from the West End and Dorothy Hambly Ellen in a Fox Chapel residence.

Many of the women painters send canvases with personal points of view that recommend them to the visitor, particularly, Bertha Gill Johnston, Louis Pershing, Esther Phillips, Rachel McClelland Sutton, Elizabeth Robb, and Anna Woodside. Esther Topp and Marcella Comes, both recently returned from European study, have evidently not yet received their luggage.

PAINTINGS BY MEN

Among the men painters, Raymond Simboli's virile farm study and Milan Petrovits' charming Arcadian landscapes are notable.

Joseph Meyers sets himself a difficult probem in converting the "South End of the Liberty Tubes" into the pictorially compelling. Incredibly enough, he has succeeded.

Dorothy Bugher sees a typically French travel subject of a village church in an individual way.

This exhibition warrants a return visit to study many of the pictures for future comment.

Squirrel Hill Joins War on High Taxes

The Squirrel Hill Board of Trade has added its request to several others from various civic organizations here for a reduction in the city's 1932 tax millage, Council was informed today.

In a resolution adopted at a meeting last week and given Council for action by its finance committee today, the Board stresses curtailment of unproductive activities and elimination of all unnecessary employes in an effort to bring about the tax reduction.

Ex-Navy Man Recalls 4-Year World Cruise

ANDREW C. SWEITZER

Carnegie Resident To Aid Cruiser Bell Ceremony

Andrew C. Sweitzer, 42, of 713 Idlewood avenue, Carnegie, claims to be the only man now in the Pittsburgh district who served aboard the cruiser Pittsburgh, then the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, on its four-year cruise around the world from 1906 to 1910. The late Charles Weyman, formerly of Veteran street, and George Lay, now in the Merchant Marine, were the only other two Pittsburghers on the ship during this "pathfinder" cruise, he said.

Sweitzer will participate in the presentation and dedication exercises at Carnegie Hall tomorrow night, when Halsey Powell, former captain of the Pittsburgh, presents the cruiser's bell to Samuel Harden Church for Carnegie Institute. Sweitzer enlisted in the navy in 1906 at the age of 16. He said:

"On that trip around the world, the Pittsburgh, or Pennsylvania, as it was then, set a new speed record from San Francisco, covering 2,100 miles in 117 hours, with an average speed of 17.82 knots an hour."

The ship was the largest cruiser afloat at that time, he said. It was launched August 22, 1903, and commissioned March 10, 1905. The cruiser crossed the equator five times during the cruise.

Sweitzer served during the World War in the 319th Infantry and received the Verdun and Victory medals for service in St. Mihiel and the Meuse-Argonne. While in the Navy from 1906 to 1910, he was quarantined for 21 days on the Island of Molokai, leper settlement, while assigned to escort some doctors there on a Navy launch.

There were five Americans on the island at the time, he said.

Avalon High School Plants D. A. R. Trees

Tree planting ceremonies were held yesterday on the Avalon High School grounds under the auspices of the John Neville chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, with Mrs. J. S. Kelso, regent of the chapter, in charge. C. A. Evans, principal of the high school, accepted the trees in behalf of the school. The dedicatory address was delivered by the Rev. J. Norman Hunter, pastor of the Avalon Presbyterian Church, and S. T. Perley, supervising principal, presided.

Verona Jobless March Fails

SERVICES SET SUNDAY FOR NEW CHURCH

Calvary and Buena Vista Congregations Joined By North Side Merger

Members of the merger committee, who yesterday announced the merger of the Buena Vista Methodist Episcopal Church and the Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church, Beech and Allegheny avenues, said today that first services in the merged institution will be held Sunday in Calvary Church.

The merger of the churches, two of the largest on the North Side, is a part of a move toward more efficient evangelism on the North Side, it was said by church leaders. The Buena Vista church, the second oldest on the North Side, has a membership of 358, and a Sunday school enrollment of 200, and Calvary a membership of 500 with a Sunday school of 400.

DR. M'INTURFF, PASTOR

The new church will be in charge of the Rev. Dr. J. A. McInturff, pastor of Calvary Church. The Rev. Dr. J. H. Enlow, of the Buena Vista congregation, will go to Sharpsburg, to which town he was transferred at a recent conference of the Methodist church in Indiana, Pa.

Merger of the churches was decided upon at a corporation meeting September 28, and was sanctioned by Bishop Herbert C. Welch and other Methodist leaders in the Pittsburgh district.

The property of the Buena Vista church will be sold, it was announced, proceeds to be used to establish an endowment fund, interest from which will be used to carry on church activities.

The Buena Vista church was established in May, 1838, and was known as the South Common Church. When Christ Church, at Penn avenue and Eighth street, burned, in 1892, the congregation divided, one section erecting an edifice at Center and Liberty avenues, the other establishing Calvary Church, at Beech and Allegheny avenues. This congregation was strengthened by the merger with the Union church in the fall of 1919.

Church Arranges Benefit Card Party

A benefit card party will be held in the Annunciation Church, Charles street and Norwood avenue, North Side, tomorrow evening.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 27.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, was sponsoring a bill in the state for reforestation and Al Smith said it was unwise, wrong in principle, entirely without precedent, wholly undesirable, misleading, confusing and badly drafted. He didn't exactly want to find fault, but he just couldn't hardly reconcile himself to agree with it in its entirety on account of them both being members of the same great political party.

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

Auto Maker Offers Free Gas, Repairs for Year

The American Austin Car Company, of Butler, announced today that, effective at once, it would furnish gasoline, oil, tire and parts replacements and repairs and general service free for one year for each Austin sold in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Butler.

No time limit was placed on the offer. Russell K. Jones, vice president in charge of sales, said the step was taken to prove to the public the validity of economy claims made for the midget car.

A limitation is placed on the yearly mileage of the "free motoring" offer. If the car is driven more than 7,500 miles, the offer is terminated when the speedometer registers that figure.

Coupons for gasoline and oil are to be issued on Gulf stations and will be honored wherever that company operates. Servicing, repairs and replacements will be taken care of at factory-supervised service stations in each of the three cities. Pittsburgh's is at 6318 Penn avenue.

No change was made in the price of the cars which deliver for a general price of $435.

Johnstown Building Destroyed by Fire

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 27.—(INS.)—The Greer Building, a five-story business block, was destroyed by fire today, with loss estimated by firemen at $75,000.

Carnegie Man Killed By Auto Fumes

Jeremiah Smith, 62, of 424 Marshall avenue, Carnegie, was found unconscious from carbon monoxide gas poisoning in a garage in the rear of his home late yesterday and died before a physician could be summoned, according to police.

According to members of his family, he had gone to the garage to repair an automobile. When he did not appear several hours later, a search was made. He was found lying beside the machine. The garage doors were closed and the engine of the automobile running, police said.

DISCOURAGING JOBLESS MARCHERS

VERONA FIREMEN DIRECTING A THREATENING WALL OF WATER IN THE DARK OF NIGHT

Verona firemen, backed by borough and state police, at the Borough Hall, ready to meet the threatened march of members of the Unemployment Council of Verona, who changed their minds.

MISS SESSION OF BOROUGH COUNCIL

State Police, Firemen With Hose Stand Guard While Burgess Meets Paraders

Members of the Unemployment Council of Verona, who last night organized a march on the borough Council, were met by Burgess W. W. Baumgartner at Railroad and James streets, a block from the borough building, and told it would be useless to continue, as Council had met in a short session and disbanded.

Surrounding the borough hall were state police, Verona officers and firemen with hose lines ready to drench the marchers should they rush the building.

It was the intention of leaders of the march to force their way into the Council chamber and demand relief for the unemployed, they said.

Following the meeting with the Burgess, the marchers went into session in Italian Hall, a short distance from the borough building, where conditions were discussed after which the group disbanded.

EXHIBITS BUST OF ROOSEVELT

The portrait bust of Theodore Roosevelt, which took honors at a recent exhibition in Bologna, Italy, will be exhibited by Frank Vittor, Pittsburgh sculptor, at the Roosevelt Commemoration Association dinner in the William Penn Hotel tonight. It will be the first time the bust has been exhibited in the United States.

Vittor made the bust of the former President 16 years ago while a guest at the latter's home in Oyster Bay, N. Y. In approving it Roosevelt said:

"Preserve it unless you want to commercialize on it immediately. Some day you will have the opportunity to present properly this work of art to the world."

Vittor followed the advice and kept the bust 16 years before exhibiting it.

2 Phila. Policemen Guilty of Extortion

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Two policemen were sentenced to six months in jail yesterday after conviction on extortion charges. The officers, John Clark and John Reck, were accused by a Chinese laundryman of attempting to extort $700 from him.

Wilkins Township Pushes Tax Protest

A mass meeting of taxpayers of Wilkins Township will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Gilmore School, Churchill road, near the Edgewood Country Club, to protest against alleged inequalities in assessments.

A group of citizens contends that the owners of large homes and estates are not bearing their proper share of their tax burden because of low assessments. The owner of the small home is carrying the load, it is contended. Senator W. D. Mansfield has accepted an invitation to attend the meeting. Another meeting of the protesting taxpayers is scheduled for Friday night at the Gray School.

Uncle, Niece Meet Here After 22 Years

Mrs. Mary Sweeney, of 5358 Hillcrest street, attended a political rally several days ago and noticed a man in the audience whose face seemed familiar to her. Inquiring the man's name, she was informed he was A. M. Miller, of 5330 Waterford street. She then recognized Miller as an uncle whom she had not seen for 22 years. He had resided in East Liberty for 10 years.

Coroner Investigates Leech Farm Death

The Coroner's office today began an investigation of the death in the Leech Farm Hospital of John Meyers, 45, of 730 Excelsior street. Physicians reported his death due to tuberculosis. A deputy coroner learned, however, that Meyers had been shot twice by a burglar in his home a month ago. An autopsy was ordered by Coroner McGregor.

GROUP SEEKING MILLAGE CUT DENIED HOPE

Education Board Leaders Score State Laws And Expense of Annexations

Declaring that the laws of Pennsylvania are a disgrace to any modern state, Marcus Aaron, member of the Board of Education, Finance and Administration Committee, addressing that body last night at a budget meeting said that further reduction in millage is impossible without new legislation. Representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, Building Owners and Managers Association and the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board were given no satisfaction in their attempts to obtain a school tax reduction from the board.

Aaron said that the budget for 1932 is based on collection of 90 per cent of the school tax returns for that year, but declared it will not be safe to figure on more than 85 per cent. The difference in percentage, he said, will make a deduction of about $700,000 in the budget.

'CANNOT CUT BUDGET'

He said:

"Our budget calls for 12¾ mills; we are running on 11¾. We cannot go any lower.

"Districts are steadily being admitted into Pittsburgh proper. We have opposed these actions, but that didn't make any difference. Buildings have been put up in these districts, and the real estate owner in Pittsburgh is paying for it. I say, clean up Pittsburgh first!"

EXPENSES INCREASED

A statement on the cost of instruction and supplies in the 1932 budget by Ben G. Graham, superintendent of schools, read, in part:

"Based upon previous experience, Pittsburgh may expect for 1932-33 an increase of at least 2,000 pupils in total enrollment, of whom all or nearly all will be in the secondary schools. A considerable number of these new pupils will be provided for through the opening of two new junior high schools.

"In consequence, it is necessary in preparing the budget for 1932, to include an item for additional teachers to care for the increased enrollment, and also to provide principals, teachers, clerks and custodians for the opening of the two new schools. It will also be necessary to increase the number of pupils per teacher in the high schools beyond the present standard."

CITES ECONOMY

Graham, in his statement, declared that with an enrollment of 2,400 more than were provided for in 1930, the increase in operating force has been only six teachers instead of 80, the number ordinarily required for such an enrollment increase.

W. R. Criss, president of the committee, declared that the committee would co-operate with any attempt by the real estate bodies to secure legislation concerning methods of collecting delinquent taxes.

Representatives present included R. R. Cappe and Roland Brady, of the Real Estate Board; H. B. Kirkpatrick, of the Chamber of Commerce; J. V. Bamford, of the Building Owners and Managers Association, and Hubbs Weimer, of the special committee on tax reduction.

Barr Joins in Proposal For Better Polls

Numerous election changes were advocated in an address by C. M. Barr, Independent candidate for County Commissioner, in an address last night in the Tarentum High School. Barr said he agreed with County Commissioner C. C. McGovern on the need of voting places in first-class locations so that women will not object to entering them. He declared that if elected he would put in charge of the Election Bureau only persons of whose integrity there could be no doubt.

The Independent party was to celebrate Roosevelt's birthday today with speeches at two dinners and a number of rallies. Commissioner McGovern and former Senator Barr will attend both the Roosevelt Civic Legion's annual dinner and a similar affair by the Roosevelt Commemoration Association.

In Tarentum High School tonight former Senator Barr is scheduled to make another address, and at Central School, Library road, Barr, McGovern and Alexander P. Lindsay will speak. A McGovern-Barr meeting will be held in McKees Rocks tonight by the Independent faction of the borough. Speakers will be Deputy Attorney General Ralph H. Smith, Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay and borough leaders.

27 FEDERAL PRISONERS START JOURNEY TO ATLANTA

80,000 PUPILS WRITE ESSAYS ON TRAFFIC

Cash Prizes, Scholarships Spur Pupils in Study Of Street Dangers Here

Nearly 80,000 pupils of the Pittsburgh public and parochial schools have submitted essays in the fifth annual traffic essay contests sponsored by the Better Traffic Committee which closed October [illegible].

Two hundred and fifty cash prizes totaling $1,250 and five scholarship prizes worth $750 with $250 in expense money constituted a tremendous incentive to Pittsburgh school children. The best essay of each 16 submitted in each school was selected for the final elimination. Nearly 75 parish schools competed and more than 150 public schools. Last year 49 parish schools and 139 public schools entered the contest.

TRAFFIC DANGER STUDY

Pupils of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades were instructed to tell a story about the dangers to children of crossing streets between intersections. In the seventh, eighth and ninth grades they wrote about how grown people and children may best be taught the great danger of crossing streets in the middle of the block. Students in the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades competing for the five scholarships as well as cash prizes discussed means by which accidents both to motorists and to pedestrians between intersections may be reduced.

DIVISION JUDGES

These judges will decide the 250 prize winners: Division One—Edward T. Leech, editor Pittsburgh Press; M. J. Muldowney, chairman of the Public Safety Committee, City Council; Jacob Dorsey, Inspector of Traffic Police; Fred A. Faddis, president Pittsburgh Motor Club; H. L. Mitchell, president West Penn Power Company; Mrs. George S. Baton, president Women's City Club, and J. Rogers Flannery.

Division Two—John S. Herron, president of City Council; Oliver J. Keller, editor and vice president Post Gazette; Harry Baston, president Allied Boards of Trade; James M. Clark, Department of Public Safety; H. L. Mason, Jr., president Automobile Club of Pittsburgh; Thomas A. Dunn, president Chamber of Commerce, and A. K. Oliver.

EDUCATORS IN GROUP

Division Three—Dr. Thomas S. Baker, Carnegie Tech; Dr. John G. Bowman, University of Pittsburgh; Dr. Cora Helen Coolidge, Pennsylvania College for Women; Sister M. Regis, Mt. Mercy Academy; the Rev. J. J. Callahan, Duquesne University; Mayor Charles H. Kline; Arthur M. Scully, president Allegheny County Bar Association, and H. M. Bitner, vice president and publisher of the Sun-Telegraph.

Prize-awarding exercises will be held in Syria Mosque before Christmas, according to Walter Rosenbaum, chairman of the educational sub-committee, and Lewis W. McIntyre, city traffic engineer.

NO BIDS ON CITY BOND ISSUE

City improvement bonds to the amount of $570,000 went begging today. There were no bidders for the bonds which were to bear 3½ per cent interest. When Deputy Controller John Schilpp Jr. went to the Mayor's office today to open bids he found no bids, Schilpp reported.

Of the amount $150,000 was for the improvement of West Carson street and $420,000 for improvements covering construction and reconstruction of streets and sewers, bridge approaches, playground extension, park roadways, sidewalks and fences and the purchase and installation of equipment to better sanitary measures in swimming pools. Included in the West Carson street widening project was the purchase of 899 feet of property west of South Main street necessitated by construction of the West End-North Side Bridge.

Immigration Fraud Charged to Baker

Complaint was filed before a United States Commissioner today against Costa Naumovich, 48, a baker of Johnsonburg, Elk county, charging him with making a false affidavit in applying to the Commissioner General of Immigration for a re-entry permit. Naumovich, arrested several days ago, also faces deportation proceeding. The government charges Naumovich came into this country on a faked certificate of naturalization.

Sought Second Time To Settle Estate

For the second time in a year and a half, the Missing Persons Bureau has been asked to search for Edward Sassman, also known as Beck, who is again wanted in Los Angeles to permit settling of the estate of his brother, Harry Sassman. He was originally sought in the settling of his father's estate. A check by the bureau showed Sassman had been at the Helping Hand but had left six months ago.

TRAFFIC LIGHT PLEA STUDIED

Three applications for traffic lights in the Lincoln and Hazelwood districts were to be considered by the City Bureau of Traffic Planning and the Public Safety Department today.

The Women's Club of Hazelwood, in a communication to Council, asks that a traffic regulation light be installed at Hazelwood and Second avenues.

The Lincoln District Board of Trade asks for lights at Lincoln avenue and Deary street, and at Lincoln and Shetland avenues.

The Department of Public Safety today asked Council to permit inauguration of a "no left turn at any time" rule for traffic on the Boulevard of the Allies at Seneca street. Lack of traffic and interference of vehicles with through traffic on the boulevard were given as the reasons for the action.

Frick School Ends Amity Conferences

The final session of a series of interracial amity conferences will be held tonight in the Frick Training School, Thackeray street. The schedule speakers are Rabbi Samuel H. Goldenson, the Rev. Frank E. Smith and Louis Gregory, their general subject being "Interracial Co-operation, Harmony and Peace."

Near Death After Fall on Lodge Steps

William Sunderland, 36, of 1244 Church avenue, McKees Rocks, is in the Ohio Valley General Hospital, McKees Rocks, with a fractured skull suffered, police say, when he fell down steps at the McKees Rocks Lodge of Eagles Saturday night. His condition was said today to be critical.

Storm Warnings For Lakes Issued

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 27 (AP).—The United States Weather Bureau here today predicted strong winds, probably reaching gale proportions, for all of the Great Lakes except Ontario tonight and Wednesday.

RED CROSS PLEA GIVEN NURSES

Decrease in the membership of the American National Red Cross since the World War was deplored today by its national secretary, Miss Mabel Boardman, who described activities of the various branches at a Red Cross luncheon for the delegates to the Pennsylvania State Nurses' Association at the William Penn Hotel.

Citing the necessary curtailment of work through lack of sufficient membership, Miss Boardman asserted:

"The Red Cross during the war had a membership of 20,000,000. This has been reduced to 4,000,000. Unfortunately such a reduction has forced the organization to curtail much of its important work."

Elizabeth Man's Bid Low For River Lock

A. G. Rothey, of Elizabeth, submitted the low bid for the construction of the second lock in the Kanawha River at Marmet, W. Va., it was announced at the United States engineers' office. The bid of the Elizabeth man, the lowest of 11 submitted, was $474,084.50. Three Pittsburgh firms submitted bids.

COUNTERFEIT, DOPE AGENTS IN PARTY

Chinese Whose Wife Killed Self Departs to Begin Two and Half Year Term

Twenty-seven prisoners, sentenced in the United States District Court, were placed aboard a special coach early today at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Station, and started to the Atlanta Penitentiary to serve terms aggregating 47 years and 13 days. United States Marshal J. C. McGregor and Deputy Marshal D. A. Goldman, assisted by special guards, are in charge of the prison party.

Among them was Yee Fong, Chinese merchant, Third avenue, whose young wife ended her life by hanging the day he was to have been sentenced for conspiring to violate the government narcotic laws. After the burial he was sentenced two years and six months. His 13-months-old daughter is in care of friends.

Three self-confessed counterfeiters, James E. Bova, Arthur J. Korbe and Alfred J. Lux, are to serve 30 months each. They were arrested when United States Secret Service operatives raided their "plant" on South Nineteenth street, in August. Louis Goldberg, Eugene Reynaldo and Max Steinberg of Youngstown, and James Tucker, of New Castle, members of a drug ring operating between those cities, are under sentences of one year and one day.

For forging and passing postal money orders on blanks stolen from postoffices at Dilliner and Lake Lynn, Luke Wiley is to serve 18 months, and George Wylie and Peter Smith, one year and a day each. Sol Harris and Harry Brown, Negroes, are to serve three years each for breaking into the postoffice at Millsboro, Fayette County.

For violations of the national motor vehicle theft act Walter F. Anderson is to serve two years; Henry Schott, two years; Millard Grunder, three years; Edward Reid, two years; F. E. Greathouse, one year, and Herman S. Ruger, three years. The others, together with their offenses and length of prison terms are as follows:

Henry Landry, narcotic, one year; Robert Near, postal laws, one year; Angelo Demasi, Mann act, 18 months; Herbert Thomas, Mann act, two years; Louis Scarvone, 18 months; Thomas Cosby, one year, narcotic, and Howard Shearer, parole violator, 18 months.

Gray Hair

Best Remedy is Made At Home

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

PEACE MEETING ORATORS URGE U. S. TO LEAD

Washington Man Stresses Armament Cut; Sees War Threat If Parley Fails

A crowd estimated at more than 1,000 last night attended the Pittsburgh peace mass meeting in Memorial Hall and heard noted speakers plead for the end of war.

Speakers were William T. Stone, Washington representative, Foreign Policy Association; Bishop William F. McDowell, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Washington; the Very Rev. J. J. Callahan, president of Duquesne University, and Robert L. Vann, editor of the Pittsburgh Courier.

The meeting was one of the 150 being held this week in cities throughout the country, urging the United States to do all in its power to take the initial step toward the end of all wars.

SEES WAR THREAT

Stone, in summing up the cost of wars, said in part:

"Disarmament is an immediate issue, first, because of the meeting in Geneva less than four months from today of the World Disarmament Conference. That looms up as the most significant international gathering since the Peace Conference in Paris.

"The Disarmament Conference, if it should fail, would carry down with it the whole new structure which has been created with such effort, in the past 12 years.

"Europe does not want war today. Economically, no nation is prepared for war. But it is a tragic truth, nevertheless, that unless the forces which make for peace and international understanding can be strengthened, and unless the dangers of conflict can be avoided, war is inevitable—not, perhaps, this year, but sooner than any of us like to think."

ASSAILS ILLUSIONS

Bishop McDowell said in part:

"We must eradicate certain illusions about war. Legislation cannot be effected unless we maintain the right attitude and abolish the continual thought of war.

"So long as we entertain the ideas that war is necessary to settle international disputes, and blind ourselves to the efforts of men and women working tirelessly in behalf of peace by amiable settlement, just so long the nations will continue to impoverish themselves through conflicts destined at the end to overthrow the civilization of the world and erase from the earth the progress man has made through the centuries.

PRETEXTS FOR WARS

Father Callahan said:

"Every war covers itself with a cloak of justice. The most belligerent militarist tries to find a pretext of justice for the particular act of violence he engages in.

"Peace, as far as it refers to external peace, or peace with our fellow man is twofold. There is first the state of peace which is the internal tranquility of the society in which we live, when our country is not troubled from within by civil war, dissensions, anarchy, or other disturbances of the social and economic order of society. Then there is the peace that nations enjoy with regard to one another which consists in the absence of foreign war; when the nations live together in the comity of international relations.

"There is no peace unless there exist at one and the same time the internal peace of the society and nation of which we are a part and peace between our society and other similar societies, or between nation and nation."

Mine Chief Killed In Crossing Crash

SOMERSET, Pa., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—J. H. Tipton, 48, mine superintendent of Hooversville, was fatally injured and three other persons hurt when their automobile struck a coal train at a crossing between here and Stoyestown. The Rev. W. E. Sunday, pastor of the Lutheran Church at Hooversville, suffered a fractured rib and the wives of the two men were slightly cut and bruised.

U. S. MORTGAGE BANK PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27—(INS.)—In planning relief for urban property under mortgage, the administration was understood today to be giving consideration to a 12-bank system, patterned on the lines of the federal land banks.

Orginal capitalization of the system would be provided by the federal government, this support being withdrawn as the banks become stronger.

Proposals by Senator Bulkley (Dem.) of Ohio, that the authority of the federal land banks to make an additional $2,000,000,000 in loans, were opposed by Treasury officials. They noted the federal land banks were organized specifically as an aid to agriculture and should remain so.

The President's conference on home building has given considerable attention to the question of financing home-buyers, and to the problem of saving homes which are heavily mortgaged, in danger of being lost because of the depression. A national mortgage organization has been suggested frequently.

SHOOTING STIRS SUBWAY PANIC

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Brooklyn subway passengers were thrown into panic last night as a policeman in civilian clothes emptied his pistol at the car ceiling and through the windows.

Many passengers rushed into the car ahead and the car behind. Others, caught in a jam, huddled together as the apparently crazed man flourished the weapon.

When the train halted at a station the car quickly emptied of passengers. Another policeman rushed into the car and shot twice, wounding the man in the hand and arm. Still another policeman, attracted by the shooting, helped to subdue him.

He was identified as Patrolman Richard Gunnip and was suspended and placed under arrest. He said he thought he had seen a wanted man and for that reason fired the shots. A police surgeon pronounced him intoxicated.

Pittsburghers Held For Theft of Auto

MIDDLETOWN, Pa., Oct. 27.—(AP.) — Three Pittsburgh men were arrested for stealing an automobile here yesterday when a filling station proprietor noticed a revolver in one of their pockets and called state police. They gave their names as Joseph Callahan, 20; Eugene Kirk, 18, and Joseph Gallagher, 37. Police said the car was stolen in Pittsburgh.

Steel Man Predicts Upturn of Trade

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The business barometer will soon begin to rise, Charles N. Pitts, of Boston, president of the American Institute of Steel Construction, told the opening session of the organization's annual convention here today.

Heflin's Son Heads School Vote Battle

LEBANON, Tenn., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Black eyes and bruises were distributed liberally among junior at Cumberland University law school last night as class members argued an election disagreement.

Police said they were told the fight started when a faction led by Thomas Heflin, Jr., son of the former Senator from Alabama, unsuccessfully contested election of Edwin D. Davis, of Fayette, Miss., as class president.

STRENGTH FAILS MISS NESBIT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(INS.)—Miss Elizabeth Nesbit, 19-year-old daughter of Harrison Nesbit, Pittsburgh banker, was still unconscious in Casualty Hospital here today as the result of the motor accident last Wednesday which cost the life of her father.

She has been in a coma for six days. Her condition improved slightly late yesterday, when she showed signs of regaining consciousness by opening her eyes and attempting to respond when addressed. This so encouraged the doctor they ordered food to be administered, but her failure to regain consciousness today is causing grave anxiety.

EMPLOYE HELD IN STORE THEFT

David Toomey, 18, of 3534 Massachusetts avenue, was arrested by South Side police late last night in connection with the robbery of the safe of the Diary Stores Company, South Twenty-fifth and Mary streets.

The combination had been knocked from the store safe, and, after employes had been questioned, Toomey, an employe, was arrested by South Side detectives.

Clothing and other articles, valued at more than $1,000, were reported stolen last night from the automobile of Stewart Mitchell, of 3010 Kate street, while it was parked in William Penn way at Seventh avenue, according to police.

Madrid Proposes To Heat Streets For Homeless

MADRID, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The Madrid city council is studying a proposal, favored by Mayor Pedro Rico, to heat the city's sidewalks with electricity this winter for the benefit of the homeless.

The proposal calls for the laying of heat mains beneath the streets, with the cost to be defrayed by the sale of heat to householders.

Sister Asks Police To Hunt for Brother

The Missing Persons Bureau today was asked to aid in the search for Edgar E. Kanmer, 52, of 609 West Jefferson street, North Side. According to his sister, Margaret Kanmer, he left home Thursday night.

BANDITS KIDNAP THEFT VICTIM

Taken for a ride through Highland Park by two bandits who held him up at a Standard Oil Company service station at Fifth and Hamilton avenues, early today, Fred Gurnack, of 284 Fisk street, was thrown from the machine on a lonely park roadway. He escaped uninjured.

Gurnack reported to police the bandits drove up to the service station, where he is an attendant, forced him to surrender $35, the contents of the cash register, and then accompany them in their getaway.

Spanking Is Not Best Way To Correct a Child

Do you believe that little Bobby should be spanked when he won't mind?

Or do you think he should be allowed to go his own sweet way without punishment, and without correction?

Dora W. [illegible] would like to know. [illegible] her Bobby [illegible] Aunt [illegible] Cousin Sue 'n all the neighbors tell her she's A[illegible]. They've told her so so m[illegible] she's beginning to wo[illegible].

Yet [illegible] little boy [illegible] mamma doesn't [illegible] and but [illegible] for yourself [illegible] story [illegible] as well as for Dora.

"Dear Miss M[illegible]

"Please [illegible] and correct me if I'm [illegible] which everybody seems [illegible] I am. I expect you [illegible] I am too for I have read [illegible] your saying that only cowards whip or spank children. But still I don't know. I am confused.

PUNISHES CHILD

"My little boy who is four and a half years [illegible] a very sweet child and [illegible] where [illegible] I take him [illegible] as always when he is disobedient or does the least [illegible] that I tell him not [illegible] go all to pieces and [illegible] him good.

"I have [illegible] I just give [illegible] a good hard spanking with the flat of my hand. And [illegible] remembers it and is good [illegible] time. Now my mother [illegible] seem to have [illegible] that it will break [illegible] and he won't love me.

"But here [illegible] the worst part of it. My [illegible] who has a boy the same [illegible] never spanks him or corrects him and he is a holy terror. He kicks and spits on everybody who comes near him [illegible] naughty. No one likes him [illegible] people won't invite his mother out on account of her baby. People tell me not to let my child even play with him. That the other boy already has a good start for the penitentiary.

OTHER WAYS

"I have given all this a great deal of thought and it worries me terribly because no one loves children more than I do and if I am wrong in correcting him please help me. I am willing to [illegible] if you say so but I do want him to grow up to be good.

DORA W."

Of course you do, Sissy, and I'm right with you. And he'll never grow up to be regular unless he is corrected, taught how to get along with other people, fairly taught that life will not always give him what he wants or [illegible] not always let him have his own way.

But there are many more intelligent ways of correcting and teaching him than spanking.

In fact, spanking won't teach him any deal. It may make him mind because you're bigger than he is and you have the drop on him. But it will make him sullen and rebellious and resentful, ready to lie to you when he thinks he can, ready to duck out of obeying you when he thinks he can get away with it, because spanking is only brute force. It can't make him want to be good on his own hook.

EGOTISM OUTRAGED

Being good is something that comes from inside. It comes from thinking and feeling right, and that can only be taught to your baby. It can't be pounded into him.

The plain truth is, my dear, and you'll have to face it, that you aren't spanking him because you want him to be a good boy. You're spanking him because you fly into a weak and vicious temper. Your egotism is outraged because he hasn't paid attention to what you've told him [illegible] and by spanking him you're getting even.

Not a pretty picture, is it? It's an accurate picture of most parents who "go all to pieces" like you do [illegible] lazy parents who haven't the gumption nor the patience to find out why their youngsters do the things they do and who don't know how to teach them better.

So before you spank him again ask yourself whether a mother who admits she "goes all to pieces" has any right to spank a little boy because he doesn't mind.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Pimples are a disease of sebaceous glands which have become too active, clogging the pores with fatty plugs which develop infections. The general state of the health has a good deal to do with the functioning of these glands. Constipation must be avoided by the girl who would rid her complexion of pustules. Soap is a better cleansing agent than cream when acne is present because it dries up eruptions. Hot applications are healing.

There was never a time during the last 16 years when women so needed well-fitting corselettes as now. The frock with the defined waistline requires a bandaged anatomy, certainly a snug belt about the hips to give trimness to the figure. Only the skinny slimps with naturally small waists can wear new frocks with grace and distinction. All others must harness in their curves if they would display the svelte silhouette.

Quick speech, sudden temper, cruel words—before these biting blasts the temple of beauty falls and is destroyed. "A woman moved is like a fountain troubled," wrote Shakespeare, "thick, ill-seeming, bereft of beauty." Let every woman who is cursed with an alert tongue paste that quotation in her hat. Giving way to unpleasant emotions creates wrinkles, upsets the digestion, chills the skin, stops body repairs, raises the dickens generally, and there is no health in it.

LAZY GLANDS

Don't fool yourself! DANDRUFF is the sign of a FOULED SCALP. You can't brush away or wash away PORE FILTH or SCALP SCALE. There is only one remedy—stimulate the lazy glands.

Dandruff is our national shame because people ignore the truth about their hair. Dandruff is a scalp disorder. Soap and water can't cure a sick scalp.

All hair is nourished by tiny glands, deep in the scalp. When they don't open, your hair starves, gets dry and brittle, and in time falls out. What hair is left loses color. But instead of "touching up" hair that's streaked or off-color, try gland stimulation. Faded locks will come back like magic! Pigmentation will revive the natural color of any hair not completely, permanently gray. Start stimulation of those lazy glands tonight. The only way to wake them is by massage. Use the finger-tips, dipped in Danderine, to cut through gummed pores and hardened secretions. The first treatment ends dandruff. The very first week will loosen the tightest scalp. Two weeks will give the hair new life and promote vigorous coloring and growth. If you don't believe Danderine makes the hair grow, measure a lock before you begin treatment!

If your hair is so dead it will scarcely hold a wave, or your scalp is granular and greasy from wasted secretions, stimulate the lazy glands with Danderine and see what happens before you have used up one thirty-five cent bottle!

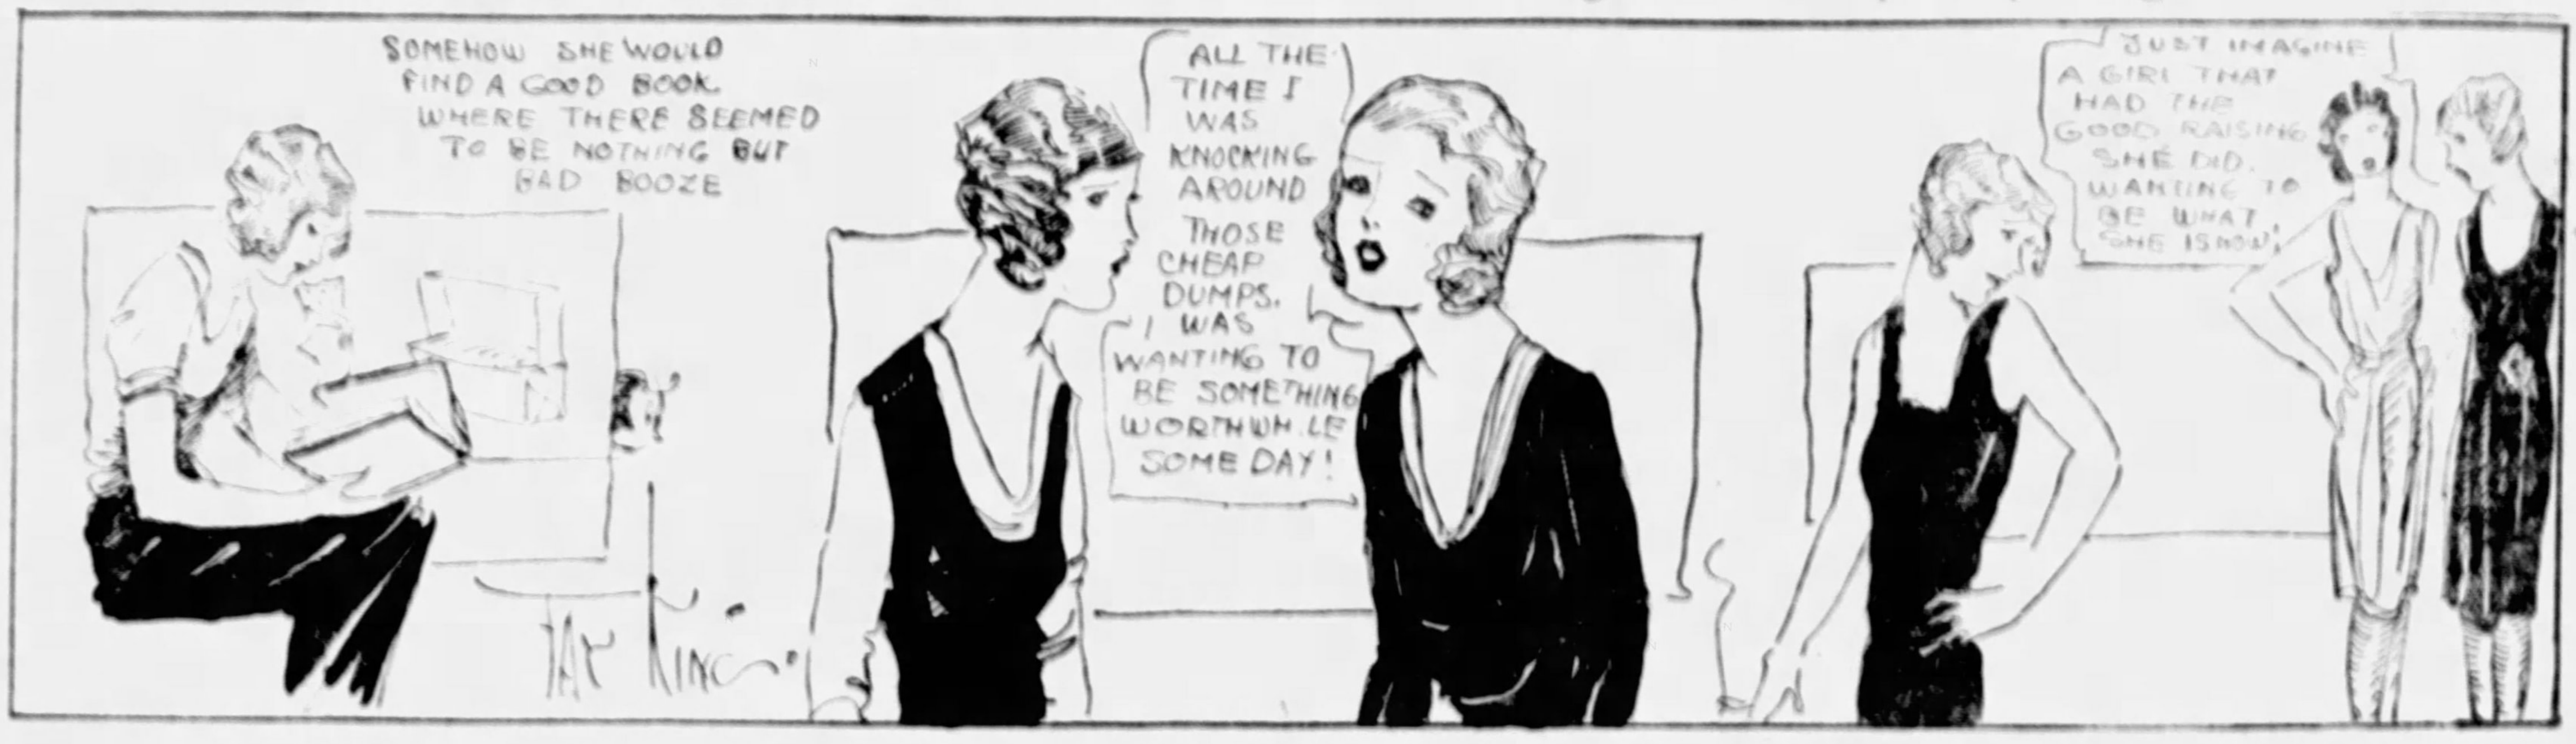
I Am a Great Believer in the Power of 'Wanting to Be,' Says Fay King



SOMEHOW SHE WOULD FIND A GOOD BOOK WHERE THERE SEEMED TO BE NOTHING BUT BAD BOOZE
ALL THE TIME I WAS KNOCKING AROUND THOSE CHEAP DUMPS, I WAS WANTING TO BE SOMETHING WORTHWHILE SOME DAY!
JUST IMAGINE A GIRL THAT HAD THE GOOD RAISING SHE DID, WANTING TO BE WHAT SHE IS NOW!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

I'm a great believer in the power of "wanting to be!"

I've seen how persons, in spite of advantages, or disadvantages, have got to the place that "wanting to be" brought them.

"Wanting to be" is something like a magnet and seems to draw bit by bit the little helps that take you up or down, according to the power of that secret wish you have.

It's like following a trail that will either lead you to the good lands or the bad lands you are hoping to reach.

And it doesn't make any difference whether you start from the slums or from church circles. You'll spy out the bits of good or bad and take it or leave it, according to your likes.

Mother Graham Announces Baby's Name

Mother Graham is taller and more slender than was Queen Victoria, but Dicky has always declared that in her mental characteristics she is akin to the late Queen of Great Britain and Empress of India. Her dignity, her imperious manner, her refusal to brook contradiction—all these traits regarded by the family with kindly amusement sometimes tinged by irritation have been molded—so her son insists—upon her mental image of the great English Queen.

She never saw the 'Widder at Windsor,'" Dicky frequently says, "but she admired her so much that she's been using her for a pattern for years. If she didn't have an unusual strain of caution in her makeup, she'd have broken her neck years ago in imitating Vic's supposed custom of sitting down without turning her head to see if her chair was in its place."

As I turned, startled, to my mother-in-law, at her imperious request to stop the music as she had an important announcement to make, I was reminded by Dicky's dancing eyes of the comment he so frequently had made. He had just returned from telling Junior and Roderick one of his inimitable yarns as a compensation for their having to go to bed at their usual time while the older young people were dancing, and was standing behind my mother-in-law and my father when she spoke. But the next instant the twinkle died, he looked from his mother to me and back again; and I saw something very like resentment settle upon his face.

If it were an attentive audience Mother Graham wished, she had it almost instantly. The four young people, it is true, had not heard her, but Harry Underwood made two strides to the phonograph, turned it off, and grasping the arms of Mary and Bill, the couple nearest him, swung them around facing their grandmother, while Lillian imitated his action with Marion and Hank.

Mother Graham's eyes went from one to another of the group till she was satisfied that everyone's attention was properly focused upon her. Then she spoke slowly, impressively.

"I want to tell you," she said, "that our new darling baby is no longer without a name. She is to be called 'Faith.'"

She paused and her eyes rested upon every face in the room as if gauging the effect of her announcement. With united banality, the elders murmured dutifully, "What a beautiful name!" The boys stared as if wondering why the dancing had been interrupted, but Mary and Marion were emphatic in their approval.

"It's about time that child had a name," Mary said, "and that's surely a dandy."

"It's simply swell, Grandma Graham," Marion said. "There's a girl at school named 'Faith,' and the rest of us spend our time wishing our parents had named us that."

My mother-in-law's brows knitted into a slight but unmistakable frown.

"It is not a question of the beauty of the name," she said coldly, "although I admit that it is beautiful, but of its suitability. I hold to the old-fashioned custom of giving children family names which have been handed down from generation to generation. Harriet is such a name, and so in another branch of my family is Faith. My little granddaughter will be the fourth in my family to bear the name, and therefore I have been very glad to find out that Margaret's father is satisfied and approves it."

She turned to my father and made him a stately little bow which he returned gravely, although before his mind as before ours must have flashed that inimitable scene in the New York revival of "Ten Nights in a Barroom" when the reformed drunkard and the local soprano bow to each other at the end of the last verse of "In the Gloaming." Dicky and Harry would have been ejected from the theater at that finale if all their neighbors, including Lillian and me, had not also been in paroxysms of mirth. And I think it was to the credit of all of us that no shadow of a smile appeared upon our faces.

"Good night, all," my mother-in-law said grandly. "I shall steal a look at little Faith and then go to bed."

"Permit me," my father said, forestalling Dicky, and with his hand under her elbow she went out of the room and up the stairs.

"May we dance again?" Hank asked impatiently.

"Surely," I answered, for I saw by Dicky's face that something would be needed to camouflage the remarks that seemed literally to be trembling on his tongue.

The phonograph blared, and the young people swept into the dance again, oblivious of everything else. Dicky caught me by the arm and walked me swiftly toward Harry and Lillian.

"Look here, Folks," he said, half humorously, half angry. "I need reassurance. I was under the impression that Madge had this baby upstairs, that she belonged to us and that we had some little say about her. Or am I all wet?"

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Dangerous to Neglect Even Slight Infections

A few days ago a World War veteran came out to my farm to talk about his compensation. It is such an interesting case I want to tell you something about it. Perhaps there may be found in it some lessons of value to a good [illegible].

Dr. Copeland

This fine man was wounded in the summer of 1918. The injury was not particularly serious in itself, but unfortunately the wound became badly infected. It took six weeks for it to heal.

The soldier went back to his duties and after the Armistice was sent to the Rhine. On the way, after a forced march, he fell by the wayside, paralyzed from his waist to his feet.

Fully recovering, he finished his service and returned to private life. Last year, after hard work chopping ice from a roof in a northern clime, he was stricken with a severe headache. In an hour's time he was found to be paralyzed on his left side, face, arm and leg. The doctors said he had a thrombosis of the brain.

The question involved is this: Is there any relationship between the three incidents—the wound with infection, the paralysis in 1918, and the latest difficulty, the paralyzed side?

Personally, I think there is a very definite relationship. This is the way I picture the case:

In July, 1918, when the infection occurred, there were turned into the blood stream numerous germs, "bacteria," as they are called. Where did they go? Many went to the heart and some of them anchored there, so to speak.

As a result of this attack upon the lining of the heart, there was set up what the doctors call "endocarditis." This big name means nothing more than inflammation of the lining membrane of the heart and of the tissues covering the valves of the heart. But this is bad enough, I assure you.

When this trouble exists, tiny growths, "vegetations" they are called, are deposited or developed on the surface of the heart valves. So long as they stay there, the victim need not worry. But the sad thing is that they are liable to become detached. Then what happens?

They float along in the current of blood until that part of the stream reaches a very narrow blood vessel somewhere in the body. It is too small to permit the passage of the embolus, the clot; the tiny vegetation—whatever you choose to call it—then it sticks in the blood vessel, stopping it up, and preventing the flow of blood to the tissues beyond. In consequence we have a "thrombosis," an obstruction of the blood vessel.

Whether this accident will prove serious depends on the part of the body where the thrombosis occurs. If it is in the brain or spinal cord, it may be very serious.

Now you see why I think the three incidents in the life of the soldier are related. Following the infection, with pus and bacterial formation, the heart lining became diseased. Later, a small vegetation broke off and lodged in the spinal cord. Lastly, a thrombosis formed in the brain. The first paralysis passed off quickly, before permanent damage was done. The latest experience resulted in more or less permanent paralysis of the face and limbs.

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Keep Asking Yourself, Why?

Study your hand and dummy. Never forget to ask yourself why a play has been made. An added trick always means at least 50 points more score. The following hand gives some of the questions that I mentally asked myself:

	♠ A-Q-J ♥ Q-J-9-8 ♣ Q-9-5 ♦ 9-6-3
♠ K-10-3 ♥ 4-3 ♣ K-8-7-6-3 ♦ K-J-8	Y A B Z	♠ 9-8-5-4-2 ♥ 5-2 ♣ A-10-4-2 ♦ 5-2
	♠ 7-6 ♥ A-K-10-7-6 ♣ J ♦ A-Q-10-7-4

My partner and I were not "ace showing." I dealt and bid 2-hearts, which Y raised to 3-hearts. I shifted to 4-diamonds, to inquire my partner's preference, and to discover whether he saw slam signs. He closed contracting with 4-hearts. The opening lead was a heart. Before reading further, try playing the hand through.

When A led a low trump he as good as told me that he held high honors in spades, clubs and diamonds. A less probable cause for A's heart lead was that he wished to shorten up Y's trump, because A was quite long in diamonds. I expected A to show up with the missing kings of both spades and diamonds, and also with either the missing K or A of clubs. The reason that he did not make an opening lead of clubs was because B held only one of these two high honors.

If my surmise was correct concerning the cause of the opening trump lead, I could save 50 points by winning the first trick in my own hand and leading a spade up to dummy's "tenace" (a gap between honors, like Y's A-Q). I did this, and finessed dummy's J, which held the trick. I led back a trump, then led my last spade, again finessing. After which I laid down Y's ace, and discarded my singleton club. Although I expected to lose the trick, I led Y's top diamond and let it run up to A, hoping that the missing J lay at my right and that A would have to win with his K. But he won with the missing J, then returned a low club. I trumped the trick in my hand; led back a trump and returned a lead of a diamond from dummy. I played my 10 and lost the trick to A's K, but it was the last trick that we had to lose. We made 5-odd, scoring one extra trick over our contract of four.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Man-to-Man Greeting

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please inform me the correct thing to say when one man is introduced to another man. It seems rather effeminate for a man to say to another, "How do you do?"

2. Is it always necessary for men to shake hands when introduced? R.

1. There is only one phrase that is accepted as acknowledgment of an introduction, and that is "How do you do?" I think your point of view toward this phrase is a personal one only, for I have watched "he-men" say it, and I have never noticed any lack of manliness and conviction. Doesn't it depend on the way it is said? Doesn't everything that is said? Don't blame the personality on the phrase.

2. When gentlemen are introduced to each other they always shake hands.

Addressing the Widow

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I believe I read in one of your articles that a widow should always be addressed as "Mrs. John Brown" and not "Mrs. Anna Brown." Did I understand this correctly?

2. Will you kindly advise me just how the daughter-in-law would be addressed, after the death of her father-in-law, as previous to that she was Mrs. John Brown, Jr.?

After the death of his father the son drops the Jr. doesn't he?

MRS. F.

1. Yes, this is the correct form, the only correct form.

2. You do not say if the wife of the Senior John Brown is living. Is she? This makes the difference in the form of the name that is used by both the Junior Browns. If the wife of the Senior Brown is living, she is the senior Mrs. Brown, although she does not use the Senior, only MRS. JOHN BROWN. The son is still John Brown, Jr., and his wife is Mrs. John Brown, Jr.

STOMACH ILLS

Eat, drink and be merry! You will not suffer, if you're prepared. Two or three tablets of Pape's Diapepsin will give that "weak stomach" a new lease on life! Eat them like candy, take a swallow of water, and get up from a hearty meal fit for work or play. No gas can form, no pains will come—no distress two hours later.

Get the handy pocket size of this positive panacea for sour stomach, nausea, soreness, or other symptoms of gastric disorder. Pape's Diapepsin always works!

To make Children EAT

Don't force children to eat! The girl or boy who has no appetite has stasis—which means the child is sluggish. But cathartics have caused more constipation than they ever cured! The "California treatment" is best—just pure fig syrup. Try this for a few days then see how eagerly your youngster will eat.

How to Conquer Sluggishness

Stimulate the colon and that child with a finicky appetite will devour everything set before him. Here's the simple treatment that does more for babies or older children than all the diets, fad foods, or tonics.

Nature has provided the only "medicine" you'll need to stir a child's colon muscles into proper action. California fig syrup. Pure, delicious, harmless. It acts on the lower colon—where the trouble is. It has no ill effects on the intestines.

Begin tonight, with this marvelous "California treatment." Any druggist has California fig syrup, all bottled, with directions. Use enough the first time to cleanse the clogged colon of every bit of poison and hard waste. Then just a little twice a week until the child's appetite, color, weight and spirits tell you the stasis is gone. Whenever a cold or other upset clogs the system again, use this natural vegetable laxative instead of drastic drugs.

WARNING

There are dealers who practice substitution. Be sure to protect your child by looking for the name CALIFORNIA on the bottle.

NEW SHOW :-: A Critic's Review and Stage, Screen Notes :-:

By GEORGE SEIBEL

George Seibel

There's a hard-working and well-trained chorus at the Alvin Theater, dancing and kicking through two acts of a revue called "Here Goes the Bride." There is said to be a book by Peter Arno, but the chorus danced all over it and kicked it to pieces. If a famous cartoonist cannot produce a better book than this, he ought to stick to his cartoons.

One does not expect much of a book in this sort of show. But when an Arno lays aside his crayons and pens, there should be a good reason for it.

There are two very amusing scenes in "Here Goes the Bride." One of them is the sleep-walking scene and the other is the courtroom scene. But these scenes bear the trademark of Clark and McCullough. It is stamped all over them, branded on them, tattooed and embroidered and enameled. Or does Signor Arno wish to claim that ancient wheeze, "I deny the allegation and defy the alligator," as his original epigram? It used to be stock ammunition in every amateur debating society back in the days when Josh Billings taught Plato how to spell.

Perhaps Signor Arno deserves some credit for the scenery, which is modernistic in the Chauve-Souris-Tower-of-Pisa style of architecture. "Effective but so easy!"

TORCH-SONG AT RENO

For a while, when the scene has shifted to Reno, we get a whiff of wild western dime-novel melodrama, but it is only plumped into the plot to give Frances Langford a chance to sing a torch-song a la Helen Morgan. And she does it well.

There is also the inevitable sleeping-car scene, but it is made up to give Clark and Andy a chance to show what music dwelleth in two tin funnels, a pair of spoons and one ukulele.

The funniest line in the two acts is the answer of the damsel who is requested to lure a fat judge into a compromising situation: "You don't expect me to make love to a blimp!"

For the rest, the theme being divorce, it is sometimes esoteric smut and sometimes not so esoteric, and sometimes the dialogue just oozes along as sparklingly as a river of Jell-o.

The principal theme song is called "It Means So Little to You." Which nobody can deny.

AN UPROARIOUS TEAM

Nor can anybody deny that Clark and McCullough are an uproarious team. It is true that Bobby makes a kick go very far, for a kick administered to a grateful butler is the chief laugh-provoking ingredient of many scenes. The other mirth-bomb is the hotel detective's slogan, "No cooking," helped along by his deafness.

Clark's acrobatic cigar, his gyratory eyes, his knowing grimaces are always funny, and McCullough is his perfect side-kick. Eric Blore as a blase Briton also has some amusing moments.

But the whole thing might as well be by Woolworth & Kresge as by Peter Arno. With a bathroom scene and a bedroom scene, what's the difference between this and 57 other Broadway revues?

Anyway, the music has some rhythmic thrills, mostly in the numbers by Richard Myers, and Jackie Mason does some neat dancing and there are some damsels good to look upon and to listen to, and that chorus is one of the best-looking and best-dressed, especially one assortment in apricot-colored gowns, that have been here during this yet juvenile season.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Nixon audiences get a chance to rest up this week, so the eyes, if not in best of condition, can be decarbonized and made ready for an unobstructed view—or very little obstruction anyway—of what Earl Carroll calls "56 of the most beautiful girls in the world." This boast refers to the dames in "Vanities," next week's bill in the Nix, for which the seat sale opened yesterday. Its comics are Herb Williams, Jack Benny and Chaz Chase.

The drawing power of Robert Pitkin, who will be seen in support of Mme. Schumann-Heink when "The Mikado" comes to the Alvin next Monday, is not confined to singing encores of "Flowers That Bloom in the Spring." No, indeed—Bob draws pictures, tra-la. That is, we guess cartoons are classed as pictures. Anyway, Mr. Pitkin was a cartoonist before he went on the stage and he spends his leisure applying pencil marks to paper. Come Thursday and the box office will sell you seats for "The Mikado."

Small Timer says the life of a politician is tough, what with the hand-shaking to win the voters and the body shaking thinking about the grand jury.

A producer and ex-critic of the drama both acted in "Brief Moment," S. N. Behrman's new comedy that premiered in Cleveland last week. Guthrie McClintick, the producer, had to pinch-hit for Robert Douglas, the leading man, who did not arrive from London. The actor made over from a critic is Alexander Woollcott, who received kind words in the Cleveland reviews, as the play itself did also.

Newman Travel Topic Is 'Berlin 1931'

E. M. Newman, traveltalker, will have "Berlin 1931" as his topic this evening in Carnegie Music Hall. In a new motion and still color picture he will show how living conditions have altered and much that is new in architecture and art, the most important addition being the new Pergamon Museum, where after 60 years of work the original gate to Babylon, built 605 B. C., has been removed to Berlin and reconstructed. The German capital rivals Paris for gaiety, and its night life is very alluring. A feature of this traveltalk is the popular beer gardens, where hundreds of visitors enjoy marvelous orchestras under cooling shade trees. Included in the itinerary is a visit to the palace and gardens at Potsdam.

'Bad Girl' in Enright; Marx Boys in Davis

New bills opened in two theaters of the Warner Brothers yesterday. "Monkey Business," starring the Four Marx Brothers, came to the Davis for a week's stay. "Bad Girl," co-featuring James Dunn and Sally Eilers, opened for three days in the Enright. Both pictures were praised by the critics and applauded by the public on recent first-run showings.

How Modern Women Lose Pounds of Fat Swiftly—Safely

Gain Physical Vigor—Youthfulness

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings out all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast—cut out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—in 3 weeks get on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished.

Notice also that you have gained in energy—your eyes sparkle—you feel younger in body—keener in mind. KRUSCHEN will give any fat person a joyous surprise.

Get an 85c bottle of KRUSCHEN SALTS (lasts 4 weeks). If even this first bottle doesn't convince you this is the easiest, safest and surest way to lose fat—if you don't feel a superb improvement in health—so gloriously energetic—vigorously alive—your money gladly returned.

Prominent

Anny Ondra In German Is Sweet

By MILDRED FILLMORE

With all the sweetness and charm of youth, Anny Ondra is queen of the new film at the German Avenue Cinema this week. It is called Buehnenfieber (Stage-Struck) and shows how the little sister of the letter-carrier, played by that ebullient comedian Vlasta Burian, becomes a star in a new revue and wins the heart of the handsome matinee idol at the same time. Anny Ondra is the little sister and is one of the cutest ingenues in any language.

The scenario is rich in farcical situations, with a mail-carriers' band, scenes backstage, a riot in the theater and a particularly funny chorus in the postoffice with all the clerks keeping time. Then there is the love-letter song which is delightfully singable. But the main attraction of the picture is charming Anny Ondra.

Yost Quartet Concert On November 29

The first concert of the season by the Yost String Quartet will be given Sunday afternoon, November 29. George Humphrey, violist, a pupil of Georges Forel of the New England Conservatory, from which institution he is the only viola graduate since its foundation, is the new member of the quartet. He was a member of the Minneapolis Orchestra. Other members of the quartet remain the same as last season.

This Town of Ours

His intimates tell you that Dudley Field Malone tells intimates that G. Swanson and M. Farmer were sealed when they arrived. . . . How true is the rumor that Rosie Dolly of the Dolly Sisters and I. Netcher were welded in Paree recently? . . . The snappiest cat at the Edison tiles (in yellow) was Bishop Manning's. . . . At the Laurel racetrack the other day "Mayor Walker" ran last all the way. . . . What well known razor maker and the squaw are telling it to a judge? . . . All publicity aside now, has the Empire State Bldg. really a mooring mast for dirigibles? . . . Clyde Fitch's letters to Oscar Wilde will soon be published in a limited edition. . . . Phoebe Lee, who is too pretty, and John Perona are asylumish about each other.

The Erlanger estate will relinquish the theater bearing that name rather than pay the stiff interest on the mortgage. . . . Here, here, Mr. Editor, of Ballyhoo—your page 9 drawing captioned "I'm all ears" is Peter Arno's and is in his published collection! . . . Lois Long, the former Mrs. Arno, will witness the premiere of his show with another cartoonist! . . . L. Holtz has signed for an indefinite run at the Audubon for 4 Gs per plus 10 per cent of the gross. . . . What is causing all that static and commotion in your radio is your electric refrigeration. . . . "Eldorado," the Sam H. Harris-Geo. S. Kaufman-L. RECALL TROOPS FROM BRIDGE

Traffic rolled uninterrupted over the Durant-Denison free bridge while owners of the parallel toll span fretted at the delay in hearing of their petition for a federal injunction to close the free bridge.

National Guardsmen, called out before dawn yesterday by Gov. W. H. Murray just in case "something popped" at Muskogee, where Judge John C. Pollock was to hear the injunction petition of the Red River Bridge Company, withdrew last night. Judge Pollock, due to a mixup in dates, did not appear. He tentatively set the hearing for next Monday in Kansas City, Kan.

The Governor appeared briefly at the river side, said the free bridge would remain open and that the guard would be withdrawn for the time being. He wouldn't say whether the soldiers would be back at the bridge next Monday.

He has contended the federal courts cannot enjoin a sovereign state, its governor, or his "military arm."

Nina Wilcox Putnam Hurt in Car Crash

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Nina Wilcox Putnam, novelist, her husband, Arthur James Ogle, and the writer's son, John Francis Putnam, 14, were injured in an automobile collision on the coast highway 16 miles north of here yesterday.

The youth, riding in the rumble seat of the coupe, was thrown into the rear glass and cut about the head. His mother and Ogle were badly shaken up.

Kahn Quits as Head Of Opera Company

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Otto H. Kahn, patron of the arts, announced his retirement today from the presidency of the Metropolitan Opera Company and the chairmanship of its board of directors. Paul Cravath was elected Kahn's successor.

Kahn, who will remain on the board, said he was withdrawing because of greater business responsibilities since the death of his partner, Mortimer L. Schiff.

Erie Worker Killed In Electric Plant

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Carl Dearborn, 33, the father of five children, died at a hospital here of injuries he suffered when an air compressor exploded at the Erie works of the General Electric Company. The coroner reported that Dearborn had inhaled flames of the fire which followed the explosion.

RUNAWAYS :-: Spankings Await 'Kids' In Hollywood

Youthful Pilgimages End Before the Judge In Filmland

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27.

Each year, more than 200 children run away from home and come to Hollywood with the dream of working in pictures or of seeing their favorite star.

Authority for these figures is Judge Samuel Blake, of the Los Angeles Juvenile Court. It is he who arranges for them to be sent home at the expense of the county, or to be made wards of the court.

Hoot Gibson

"Only a short time ago," relates Judge Blake, "two brothers, aged 9 and 6, hitch-hiked all the way from Texas hoping to get a look at the stars.

"Another 13-year-old Virginia boy came out here to see Hoot Gibson. To motorists, who gave him a lift, he always told the story that his parents lived in the next town. Step by step, he arrived in Los Angeles. He was picked up on his way to Hollywood when he tried to retrieve some food from a garbage can."

Impressed by this boy's explanation, the jurist arranged for him to be entertained by Hoot for a day. Then he sent him back to Virginia with the promise that he wouldn't tell the other youngsters.

Recently, he got a letter from the youngster saying that the secret was burning him up, but only his parents knew of the happy ending of the journey.

Lest any child get an idea from reading this, however, Judge Blake warns that the usual finish to the pilgrimage is a stiff lecture, a quick trip home and a sound spanking.

THAT GOSSIP AGAIN

They were complimenting Will Rogers on the number of goals he scored in a polo contest. "Well," drawled Will, "it's the first time since June I've had good horses to ride. The kids have gone off to school and I've got the stable to myself." . . . George O'Brien is paying attention these days to his leadig woman, Cecelia Parker. . . . Molly O'Day was to George Olsen's night club with James Dunn . . . Mae Marsh has dyed her hair back to its normal color, reddish gold. She bleached it snow-white for "Over the Hill" . . . Richard Dix and his bride will be back Monday. They will have to rent an apartment as Rich's three houses are all rented . . . The golf prizes awarded at the Warner tournament Sunday were all in money, and the winners will donate them to charity.

SOME FACTS ON SOUND

You may be surprised to know that it takes 12 feet of sound track to record a kiss. Also that the word "love" spells a scrawly message along slightly less than a foot of celluloid. A wink is more economical, requiring a mere half-inch of film. On the other hand, a shriek, with its reverberations, will use up in the neighborhood of six feet. Most difficult of all is the bark of a pistol, which required about 10 feet, and often causes the light vibrations to spill over the narrow sound channel.

I was just as ignorant as you about these things until a Radio Pictures expert put me wise.

Burlesque in Academy Is 'The Bohemians'

In "The Bohemians," Academy burlesque, much of the performance takes place on a runway. In addition to the 18 girls in the chorus of "Bohemians," there are 12 singing and dancing usherettes, who are to be retained as a permanent feature. Nazarro Hallo and Billie Diamond also present their acts as a special added feature. Billie Shaw, brunette dancer, is starred in "Bohemians." Harry Stratton, Yiddish character comic, and Hal Rathburn, Dutch dialect funster, are featured. Chickie Wells and Dot Alexander, dancers; Allen George, singer; Lew Denny, straight man, and Garrigan and DeMuth in patter and dance, are other principals.

Lupita Tovar, Film Actress, Injured

Show Boat Inaugurates 'No Cover' Policy

The Show Boat, floating night club docked at Sixth street and the Allegheny river, has inaugurated a new policy of no cover charge at any time, Manager Joe Hiller announces that the standard of the past will continue, with orchestra and a floor show. DEATH THWARTS AIM TO BUILD WINNER

Charles A. Comiskey

DEATH THWARTED THE ambition and foiled the efforts of Charles A. Comiskey, 72, to build another pennant winner on the ruins of the riddled Black Sox of 1919. If the major league's oldest figure placed one hope or one aim above another in his baseball work during his declining years it was to replace the broken machine of 12 years ago with a new champion. He changed managers repeatedly, bought scores of players, and spent a fortune to that end, but experienced only ill luck and disappointment.

With three American League championships to his credit, for 1901 under Manager Clark Griffith, 1906 under Fielder Jones, and 1917 under Clarence Rowland, Comiskey landed his fourth pennant in 1919 with one of the greatest clubs of all time under Kid Gleason, but disclosures following the 1919 world series caused the outfit to be wrecked the next year. Pitchers Eddie Cicotte and Claude Williams, First Baseman Chick Gandil, Shortstop Swede Risberg, Third Baseman Buck Weaver, Outfielders Joe Jackson and Hap Felsch and Utility Infielder Ferd McMullin were banished on charges of having conspired to throw the world series to the Cincinnati Reds.

COMISKEY HIMSELF SMASHED the team that represented hundreds of thousands of dollars. It was not until March of 1921 that Commissioner Landis declared the accused players ineligible. On September 28, 1920, after their indictment by the grand jury, Comiskey took the case in his own hands and sent the following telegram to them while they were playing on the road:

"You and each of you are hereby notified of your indefinite suspension as a member of the Chicago American League Baseball Club. Your suspension is brought about by information which has just come to me directly, involving you and each of you in the baseball scandal resulting from the world series of 1919. If you are innocent of any wrong doing, you and each of you will be reinstated; if you are guilty, you will be retired from organized baseball for the rest of your lives if I can accomplish it. Until there is a finality to this investigation it is due to the public that I take this action, even though it costs Chicago the pennant."

COMISKEY'S BASEBALL FORTUNES sank lower than ever before in his career after that happening and never rallied. Before he fired the accused men in 1920 the club had gained a standing high enough to finish second, but in every season since it has landed in the second division.

The "Old Roman" did much for baseball in a general sense and in Chicago in particular. He was one of the few remaining men who grew up in the game and followed it largely for love of the sport itself instead of viewing it simply as a business proposition.

THE EARLINESS OF Comiskey's connection with the big leagues may be judged from the fact that he was winning pennants as manager and first baseman of the original St. Louis Browns when Grover Cleveland was serving his first term as president of the United States, when John L. Sullivan was heavyweight champion, when Maud S was the queen of trotters, before Alonzo Stagg had even started to play football at Yale, before the modern champions of various sports were born, and when the automobile, the moving picture and the radio were unknown. There will be a new president of the White Sox, but there won't be another Charley Comiskey.

Ralph Daugherty

TOMMY YARR, of Notre Dame, may be ONE of the best centers in the country, but since Ralph Daugherty, of Pitt, gave him such a great duel last Saturday there is at least one rival who must be ranked on a level with him. It was one of the greatest center battles ever fought in South Bend, and after the game opinions was divided as to which was the better.

Both centers passed accurately and were stopping all kinds of plays. Daugherty kept the score down by his vicious tackling when he was behind the line, and, when, on other occasions, he played up in the forward wall, he was continually breaking through into the Irish backfield.

IT HAD BEEN figured that Daugherty and Jim MacMurdo would be the two strong men of the Pitt line, and for the first half both lived up to their promise. During the intermission, however, MacMurdo was almost out on his feet.

It was with some hesitancy that Sutherland sent him back into the game. When MacMurdo was lifted later, Paul Collins, his running mate at right end, only played the better, thus taking somewhat of a load off Daugherty.

COLLINS GAVE A great exhibition, repeatedly warding off the ever-fresh Notre Dame interference despite the fact that he played all but the final two minutes of the game. His kicking was good, one punt that went out of bounds on the Irish two-yard line making up for a short boot about the middle of the game. On the offense, Rip was forced to play against Krause, sensational sophomore tackle, and the latter's substitute, Culver, regular on the 1930 team. And first Krause and then Culver were neatly taken out of the play when Heller and Luch went over for their touchdowns.

THE SYMPATHY OF the football world goes out to the mother and family of Cadet Richard Sheridan, right end of the Army eleven, who died in a New Haven hospital late yesterday from a broken neck, suffered while he was making a tackle in the Army-Yale game Saturday. He was the second Army end to meet his death on the gridiron, Cadet Byrne having been fatally hurt in the Harvard game of 1909.

Each succeeding season is marred by a number of fatalities in the strenuous gridiron sport throughout the country, but rarely do they include among the victims any of the well-trained men on the prominent teams. The deplorable accident that cost the life of one West Point's finest cadets is viewed as having caused a national loss and has cast a pall over football circles in every part of the land.

ACCORDING TO REPORTS from the East, Benny Friedman's connection with the football coaching staff of Yale has not turned out happily and it won't be long until Benny leaves the service of the Blue.

The nature of the trouble has not yet been brought to light, but those close to Friedman say that he soon will move out and that within two weeks he will be back throwing passes for the New York Giant professional team.

Al Brown

THE ONLY REMAINING Negro champion in the fight game since the unseating of Young Jack Thompson as boss of the welterweights last week will stake his title tonight, when Al Brown defends the world bantamweight crown in a 15-round bout with Eugene Huat in Montreal. Brown is also the oldest of all the present champions in length of reign, having won his title by defeating Vidal Gregorio on June 18, 1929, three months before Battling Battalino, the next oldest champ, captured the featherweight laurels. Al appears likely to retain his honors tonight. His French opponent has been beaten by Gregorio, Willie Davies, Black Bill and Archie Bell, and looks to be several notches shy of Brown's class.

WASHINGTON, WILKINSBURG TO BATTLE

By JULIUS LEVIN

It will be the survival of the fittest next Saturday afternoon when four undefeated and untied elevens clash in the two feature attractions on the Western Pennsylvania interscholastic schedule.

With 13 teams still in the fight for the W. P. I. A. L. championship, the battles scheduled at Greensburg and Washington next Saturday afternoon are certain to reduce the field of contenders considerably.

TEST FOR GREENSBURG

At Greensburg, Earl Loucks' powerful Brown and White machine tackles its toughest test in George Woodman's Clairton High eleven, while at Washington, Hank Day's Little Presidents will entertain Elmer Carroll's Wilkinsburg outfit.

All four teams are undefeated and untied so far this season and must pass Saturday's tests to remain in the fight for the championship.

Clairton's record shows a 19-0 victory over Hurst, a 42-0 triumph over Waynesburg, a 33-7 decision over Scott, a 13-0 victory over Charleroi and a 33-0 decision over Monongahela. Charleroi and Monongahela were undefeated until they met Clairton and Greensburg marks the third straight unbeaten team Woodman's eleven has been forced to tackle in as many weeks.

FINE GRID RECORD

Greensburg's record shows a 13-6 victory over East Huntingdon, a 39-0 victory over Westinghouse, a 33-0 triumph over Youngwood, a 31-0 decision over Connellsville, a 7-0 win over Hurst and a 27-7 triumph over Derry Township.

Wilkinsburg has five straight victories without its opponents scoring a point. Elmer Carroll's eleven defeated Crafton, 13-0; Sewickley Township, 46-0; East Huntingdon, 6-0; Westinghouse, 35-0, and Tarentum, 19-0.

Washington's record shows a 34-0 win over Waynesburg, a 54-6 victory over Aliquippa, a 27-0 victory over New Castle, and a 40-0 triumph over Duquesne. The records for the district teams to date follow:

Wood, Harvard Captain, Gets Scholarship

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Barry Wood, Harvard football captain, has been awarded the $775 Francis H. Barr scholarship for "combined scholastic excellency, athletic ability and undergraduate leadership."

The Crimson quarterback, one of the outstanding football players of the present season, has made an almost perfect scholastic record for the past three years. He is Harvard's first Phi Beta Kappa football captaon and is also president of both the senior class and student council.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE ROCK THAT BURNED—The story of Burnt Rock Ridge in North Carolina goes back about 50 years to when Joe Loving, a typical mountaineer, whose home is a few miles from Robbinsville, was a young man. He says: "I was herding cattle at Kings Meadow, eight miles away. I kept hearing a terrible noise, like thunder or blasting, for a week before I investigated. For a long distance I could see the dense black smoke, and, as I got closer, the noise was almost deafening. The fire remained in one spot and the noise was caused by the rocks exploding. After six weeks, when the fire went out, nothing could be found except holes in the rock formation." The probable explanation for the fire is that the crevices and holes were filled with peat, which was ignited by a camper's fire.

TARTANS PLAN DEFENSE FOR NOTRE DAME

By JESS CARVER

Bob Waddell

The facts of the matter are that the Skibos' warriors were so bruised and bumped and tired after the hectic session with Purdue on Saturday that Coach Bob Waddell decided a day off would benefit the boys more than a workout, so they were told to take in a movie or go for a tea dance.

Meanwhile, Bob went into a huddle with the scouts who watched the Irish and Panthers tangle, and when he came out he had three things tacked on his mind, to-wit:

IRISH TOUGH

2—That Marchy Schwartz, when he is in there, is the best left halfback in the country.

3—That Pitt is more formidable than generally was supposed.

It is almost certain that Carnegie will play a purely defensive game against the Irish here this week. That, at least, is what they will tell you out at Carnegie, but usually Tech's best defense is a snappy and deceptive offense, and I have a sneaking suspicion that any defensive lapses on the part of the South Benders this week will cost 'em dear.

They'll work out today, behind closed gates, and the drills for the remainder of the week will be strictly secret.

PITT HOLDS WORKOUT

There was no rest for the weary and wicked out at Pitt, the good Dr. Sutherland calling his battered and bruised squad out for a somewhat drawn-out session.

Jock had a lot to talk over with his charges. He pointed out the mistakes of Saturday. He very patiently explained, as he has done time and again before, that when the other club has the ball, fourth down and five to go, that the chances are 10 to one that the play will be a forward pass.

The Panthers have Penn State ahead for this week. The chances are that the second team will play the greater part of the ball game. One regular, Hart Morris, the veteran guard, has a busted mitt and will be out until at least the Tech game, if not longer, and Jess Quatse and Paul Reider hardly will be in shape for much service this week.

It looks like Mike Sebastian will start in place of Reider and Cheessio Onder for Morris against State, and maybe Clover-Kicker Meredith for Quatse, if Jock elects

SCHOOLS MOURN CADET'S DEATH

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—An Army football squad, carrying on, hoping for the best, drilled with the stoicism of soldiers as Cadet Dick Sheridan died yesterday afternoon in a New Haven hospital.

His teammates did not know, as they went through their maneuvers, that the little end who suffered a broken neck after a diving tackle late in the Yale game has passed away. Later they met with their officers and heard the news they had been dreading to hear since Saturday night.

Second only in every mind to the sadness and regret over Sheridan's death was the conjecture as to what course Army would pursue with respect to the games remaining on the football schedule. Decision as to whether the schedule will be played out remains in the hands of Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of the Academy.

MILLION IS INVOLVED

The feeling among the officers was that Army, committed to a schedule that includes such major contests as an invasion of Pittsburgh, Nov. 14, and battles with Notre Dame and Navy, in New York, November 28 and December 12, respectively, would carry on.

It is estimated that in addition to all the preparations that have been made, the inconveniences that would be done opponents, about $1,000,000 in receipts would be involved in the cancellation of the Pittsburgh, Notre Dame and Navy games, in addition to the contests here with Colorado College Saturday, Louisiana State, November 7, and Ursinus, November 21.

Of this sum at least $400,000, the estimated receipts of the Navy game, are scheduled to be turned over to charity, for the relief of the unemployed.

WILSON'S STATEMENT

Walter K. Wilson, acting superintendent of the United States Military Academy, has issued the following statement:

"The officers and cadets of the United States Military Academy mourn the tragic passing of Cadet Richard N. Sheridan as the result of injuries received in the Army-Yale football game and extend to his bereaved parents their heartfelt sympathy.

"Cadet Sheridan was an outstanding member of the corps of cadets and his popularity as a leader in academic, military and athletic activities was clearly evidenced when his classmates selected him as their president.

"The accident to Cadet Sheridan was unavoidable, and not the slightest blame in connection therewith attaches to any member of the opposing team. We appreciate that the faculty and student body of Yale University join with us in our sorrow."

His death occurred at 5:05 p. m., less than three hours after his

LAYDEN, DUKE COACH, ILL

Elmer Layden will be absent from the football helm at Duquesne University until Thursday, and, in the meantime his Night Riders must prepare for their last nocturnal encounter of the season, with a team which showed tremendous power and speed in downing the Wolfpack of North Carolina State, 12 to 7, last Saturday afternoon, Catholic University, coached by Dutch Bergman. C. U. comes to town Friday night with a passing attack the like of which the Red and Blue have not faced in many a day.

Layden is ill and has turned over the coaching duties to Joe Bach, Lou Skender and Buff Donnelli while he is confined to his home in Mt. Lebanon. He expects to be back this Thursday in time for a final night drill with his boys. The Dukes will not appear locally after Friday night until Saturday afternoon, November 21, when they meet North Dakota University, having the town to themselves. Next week the Dukes play Holy Cross College at Worcester, Mass.

Bach intends to shift things about in his line and the same probably will be done with the backfield by Donnelli and Bach. An improvement is desired and it looks as though the Duke coaches are going to get it.

The Catholic University team expects to down the Dukes this week-end and gain revenge for the 12-to-0 score of last season when the Night Riders came out on top.

FOX HUNTERS OPEN MEET

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Oct. 27.—The Hilltop fairgrounds at Windridge, Greene County, was the scene of one of the most picturesque sport events of the fall season in this section at daybreak today, when the annual field trials and reunion of the Tri-State Fox Hunters' Association got under way for a four-day meeting.

Derby dogs are to run in wild fox chases today and tomorrow with all-age dogs being scheduled for trials Thursday and Friday. Both classes will be entered in the bench show Thursday afternoon, the "big day" of the meet.

Special lighting equipment has been installed at the grounds to provide night entertainments for the first three evenings of the meet.

Included in those planning to attend is Marion Shriver, 84-year-old Waynesburg veteran who is reputed the oldest active fox hunter in Pennsylvania.

Amawalk Trouble Wins at Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Amawalk Trouble, a bitch owned by Frank Wise, of New York, was awarded first place here yesterday in the opening competitions of the annual field trials of the Maryland Beagle Club. Second place went to Lightning Peggy Magruder, owned by Elmer Holenbeck, of Oakland, Md.

The trials will continue all week and today's events will be for dogs of all ages 13 inches high.

DEMPSEY MAY RETURN TO RING IN MIAMI GO

JACK OFFERED BOUT IN SOUTH IN FEBRUARY

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square Garden promoter, has announced an offer of 40 per cent of the gate receipts to Jack Dempsey for a match in Miami, Fla., next February against the winner of the Primo Carnera-Vittorio Campolo heavyweight match there November 27.

The former heavyweight king, who has been staging a barnstorming trip along the Pacific Coast in preparation for another comeback, will be in Chicago within three days, Johnston said, for a discussion of the match. Dempsey at the moment is hunting in Nevada.

CONFERENCE SOON

Johnston said he had been informed that Dempsey would come East to discuss the proposition if necessary.

The Garden annually stages a heavyweight match in Miami. Until the Dempsey bout was considered it was generally understood that Max Schmeling would defend his heavyweight title against Mickey Walker there this winter.

BOUT TURNED DOWN

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The Illinois State Athletic Commission has denied the Chicago Stadium Corporation permission to stage a 10-round bout between Primo Carnera, Italian giant, and Paulino Uzcudun, veteran Spaniard.

The commission ruled that the match was not a suitable one in turning down the stadium's request. The New York State Athletic Commission previously had denied Madison Square Garden permission to present the bout.

The cadet's mother, Mrs. R. B. Sheridan, and his brother, Gerald, who had accompanied her North from Greenville, S. C., were in the hospital when Sheridan died.

Sheridan died unaware of their presence. He had been unconscious since he suffered his injury after tackling Robert Lassiter, Jr., in the Yale Bowl.

USE SCIENTIFIC METHODS

Physicians had resorted to every means known to medical science to save his life. An emergency operation was performed Saturday night and then Sheridan was placed in a respirator where he remained until his death.

Announcement of Sheridan's death was made by Philip B. Fleming, graduate director of athletics at West Point. He said Sheridan's body would be sent to West Point by train this morning. It will be accompanied by himself, Maj. Ralph Sasse, Army football coach, and other West Point officials. Military services will be held at the Academy.

RESOLUTION OF SYMPATHY

Members of the Yale football team published in today's Yale News a resolution of sympathy. It read:

"Whereas it has pleased Almighty God in His infinite goodness and mercy to take Richard B. Sheridan, unknown to us in daily life, but made kindred by ties of admiration and respect.

"Resolved, that we, his last friendly rivals in the game to which he was so devoted, do hereby express our deepest sympathy for his family and friends in their bereavement, and be it further

"Resolved, that this resolution be printed in the Yale Daily News and a copy thereof sent to his family."

Jap Breaks World Broad Jump Record

TOKIO, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—A new world record for the running broad jump of 26 feet 2⅛ inches was established today by Chuhei Nambu, native Japanese jumper, in the national athletic meet and a new universal standard of 51 feet 1¼ inches for the running hop, step and jump was set by Mikio Oda, the 1928 Olympic champion.

Nambu's new mark displaces by two inches the world mark by E. Gator, of Hawaii, set in Paris in 1928 after the Olympics of that year. Oda broke the record of 50 feet 11⅛ inches set by A. W. Winter, an Australian, at Paris in 1924.

Comiskey's Son Gets Message From Hoover

EAGLE RIVER, Wis., Oct. 27.—(INS.)—A message of condolence from President Herbert Hoover was received from the White House today by Louis Comiskey, son of Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago American League White Sox, who died here.

The message from the President read:

White House, Oct. 27, 1931.
Louis Comiskey,
Eagle River, Wis.

Every one interested in clean and honest sportsmanship will grieve with you in the death of your father, Charles A. Comiskey. His career coincided with the evolution of baseball into our national sport. His rugged character was reflected in the ideals and stands which he valiantly championed in his responsible connection with the sport.

Please accept for yourself and your associates my deep sympathy in your loss.

Bucknell, Lafayette Renew Relations

That date has also been fixed for Bucknell's alumni homecoming day.

Bucknell and Lafayette last played in 1929, when the Bisons won 6 to 3. They first met in 1883.

PROS ADVANCE IN TOURNEY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

The first annual Tri-State P. G. A. championship at match play entered the semi-final round at the Highland Country Club this afternoon with two former West Penn champions, Perry Del Vecchio, of Greensburg, and Vincent Eldred, of Highland, pitted against each other in the upper bracket, and the veteran Emil (Dutch) Loeffler, of Oakmont, engaging the young but skillful Wayne Tobias, assistant pro at Greensburg, in the lower group.

George Underwood, smiling Alcoma member of the paid brigade, took the worst lacing in this morning's second round when he was eliminated by Del Vecchio, 6 and 5. Walter Johnstone, of Butler, was set by the wayside by the home pro, Eldred, 4 and 3. Loeffler set down Jack Kennedy, of Fox Chapel, 2 and 1, and Tobias defeated Rader Jewett, of Wheeling, 5 and 4.

The winners of this afternoon's penultimate round will meet at 36 holes in the championship final tomorrow morning and afternoon.

Del Vecchio won the medal honors yesterday with a 70. He followed this with a 5 and 4 victory over Charley Manning in the first round. Underwood defeated Jock Sutherland, Fox Chapel, 4 and 3; Eldred defeated Dave Clarke, Castle Shannon, 5 and 4, and Johnstone defeated George McBride, Country Club, 3 and 2. Ted Luther failed to qualify.

Yellow Jackets Begin Hockey Drill Monday

The Yellow Jacket ice hockey squad will report to Coach Charley Reid the latter part of this week to make preparations for the training season, which gets under way Monday.

Coach Reid says plans for the new season are rapidly being completed, and that the majority of last year's players and several new faces will be introduced to the fans when the Jackets stack up against the Chicago National Leaguers at the Garden, November 7, in the first two exhibition games.

DETROIT, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Manager Jack Adams, of the Detroit Falcons, National League Hockey Club, has announced waivers have been asked on Reg Noble, veteran defense man. The National League waiver price is $5,000.

Friedman Signs With Giants in Pro League

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Benny Friedman, former Michigan all-America quarterback, signed a contract last night to resume playing professional football with the New York Giants, of the National League.

Friedman made no statement as to what effect his return to professional competition would have on his position as assistant coach at Yale. He severed his competitive activities early this fall to devote his time to coaching Albie Booth, Dud Parker and other Eli backs in passing and quarterback strategy.

RAMBLERS REST

SOUTH BEND, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Remembering an unhappy afternoon in 1928 when Notre Dame lost to Carnegie Tech, Coach Heartly Anderson gave the Notre Dame regulars and reserves a day of ease with the warning to be ready for vigorous work the rest of the week.

"They fooled us in 1928," Anderson said, "but they won't catch us asleep this time."

Anderson was in charge of the Irish that year, while the late Knute Rockne watched the Army-Navy game in Chicago. Banas and Lukats will not be ready by Saturday and George Melinkovich and Jim Leonard will alternate at fullback.

COURT RULES INTERPRETED

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The joint basketball rules committee held their annual meeting here last night and listened to an interpretation of various changes in the regulations by Oswald Tower, editor of the Basketball Guide.

The most important rule revision cuts the "time out" allowance from two minutes to one. Another prohibits high school teams from playing more than three overtime periods and still another gives the referee the right to take the ball from any player who holds it more than five seconds in the backcourt while closely guarded.

TOMMY CRAWLEY BOWS

LATROBE, BURNS TO CLASH

EAST LIVERPOOL DROPS CUTLER AS COACH

By TOM BIRKS

Elated with the club's showing in its last two games, Dan Burns officials anticipate a banner crowd tomorrow evening when the McChesneytown team, of Latrobe, meets the Firemen at Parnassus.

Cy McGinnis, quarterback and manager of the Latrobe gridders, has been seeking a chance to show his team has lost none of its power.

The Red machine always has been a splendid football aggregation and in the matter of diversified plays, and collegiate style, is unexcelled. The game will begin at 8:15 p. m.

POTTERS LOAD UP

Resentful at East Liverpool's showing against Burns, Sunday, Manager Purl Daily, of the Potters, invaded West Virginia yesterday searching for talent.

He returned with Red Kirkman's signature. Makle, Mough, Comorosky, Boyd and Weinds, all having played professional football with Portsmouth, also signed, and will appear in the lineup for the Potters against West View, Sunday.

Mayer, an end, formerly of Portsmouth, will coach the club instead of Dr. Andy Cutler. Andy is building up a fine practice in Aliquippa and cannot find the time to travel to direct the team's practice.

ROONEYS PLAY OLYMPICS

Daily has called for three nocturnal practice sessions this week, and a snappy Ohio team is expected to meet Manager Muzzio's club Sunday.

The big game for McKeesport is slated Sunday when the J. P. Rooneys, undefeated league champions, invade the Tube City.

The two hard battles of the past week probably will place the Boyer aggregation in better shape than the Rooneys. Stulginski will be out, but Boyer reports the other players O. K.

Rooney has called two practice sessions, and, remembering the clubs battled three weeks ago to a scoreless tie, anything may happen.

NEW FOOTBALL RULES URGED

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—(INS.)—Abolition of the kick-off and adoption of a weight scale for college elevens was suggested in football circles today during discussion of the death of Cadet Richard B. Sheridan, of the Army, in Yale Bowl.

Sheridan suffered an injury which proved fatal, in a kick-off play. The suggestion was advanced that the Football Rules Committee stop this impetuous play, substitute a plan of placing the ball in play by scrimmage on the 35-yard line of the team in possession of the ball, not only at the start of the game, but at the start of the second half and after a scoring play.

Sheridan was fatally injured, according to Tom McCabe, the linesman of the game, when he made a head-on smash tackle of Lassiter, the Yale back. McCabe said there was no piling up. Lassiter, he said, was thrown back by the force of the impact and there was a pile-up, but not piling on, of Lassiter, but not of Sheridan.

Those advocating a weight scale pointed out that Sheridan weighed only 147 pounds and stood 5 feet 10 inches and perhaps did not have the weight to withstand the pummeling he courageously subjected himself to from his heavier opponents.

Tribute to the memory of Sheridan was paid today by William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard, and Eddie Casey, Harvard coach.

"An outstanding sportsman," declared Bingham. "A great loss has been suffered in the passing of this wonderful boy," said Casey.

Penn State, Penn To Meet on Floor

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—(INS.)—The Nittany Lions of Penn State will oppose Pennsylvania again in athletic competition for the first time since 1929 when the basketball teams clash at the Palestra here January 27, according to the Red and Blue basketball schedule made public here today. The Quaker basketeers face a stiff schedule of 21 games, including the Eastern Intercollegiate League games, opening the season December 12 when Franklin and Marshall visits the Palestra.

The Red and Blue plays its first league game January 9 against Dartmouth here. Practice sessions for the varsity squad, which will include several veterans, are expected to get under way next week.

DREYFUSS HOME SUNDAY

Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, who has been vacationing in Atlantic City, will return home next Sunday, according to word received here today. Dreyfuss will go from the seashore to New York tomorrow.

SUBS IN STAR FIGHT ROLES AT GARDEN

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Matchmaker Jules Beck, of Motor Square Garden, has discovered a new way to put together a successful boxing show. He staged his most pleasing card of the season at the East End arena last night, and his system of clicking was so plain that it was simple. Yes, we said simple.

It was easy. In the first place he arranged a bill of four bouts. Then he tossed out three of the principals and replaced them with eleventh-hour substitutes, and the subs came through and the show was a wow for action. So much so that next week he ought to rub out the entire program at weighing-in time on Monday, corral the first bunch of pugs he sees, pair 'em up and cut the strings.

BELMONT BEATS RANDALL

Last night Beck took Tiger Joe Randall, Negro welterweight, of Elizabeth, out of the semi-final and sent him in as a substitute for Ted Yarosz, who has a broken hand, against Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, in the 10-round main bout, and the Tiger, who had beaten Jimmy twice before, put up a fine losing battle. He won the first two rounds on his forcing, broke even in the fifth and rallied from two knockdowns, one for no count and the other for nine, in the ninth, to force the fighting and win the tenth and final session. He also was down momentarily in the sixth, and he had a slight cut opened on his left eye in the first round and was bleeding badly from the mouth at the finish. However, he also mussed up Belmont considerably, giving him a bloody nose among other souvenirs.

Jimmy won the fight on his ruggedness and infighting, which weakened Randall. The Tiger scaled 149½ pounds and Belmont 148 at 3 p. m.

PHILLIPS WINS OVER ROSE

Tug Phillips, of Charleroi, 153½, who hadn't boxed around here in a long time, took Randall's place against Billy Rose, of Cincinnati, 147, in the eight-round semi-final and won Referee Kennedy's decision when Judge Frank Brown voted for a draw as against Judge Frank Ferris' tally for Phillips. It was a great battle all of the way, with the fans applauding to the point of an ovation when the final gong rang.

Rose was the better boxer and scored oftener, but his blows were of the tapping, slapping and chopping variety, while Phillips' connected solidly and several times rocked Billy badly. He dropped Rose for no count with a left to the head in the third round. It was their fourth meeting and Phillips' third victory, the other bouts being fought in Columbus and Cincinnati. They can repeat here any time.

BRENT GETS DRAW

Billy Brent, Hill Negro, out of shape at 159½ pounds, jumped into the breach when Lloyd Clements, of Swissvale, failed to appear for his six-round bout with Billy Flanagan, of Braddock, 160 pounds, and gave the latter a thorough going-over to win hands down, although he tired and lost the last round, but the judges disagreed, Brown being for Brent and Ferris for Flanagan, and Referee Red Robinson voted it a draw.

Jackie Wilson, Negro, of Homewood, 123½, who was stopped by Johnny Datto in his last previous start, in a windup at Hickey Park recently, began anew in the opener, in which he trounced Young Chaney, of the Hill, 125. He was too fast and shifty for his methodical opponent.

DOUBLE WINDUP NEXT

It was announced that Mose Butch will box Frankie Wallace and Sammy Dorfman will oppose Ray Collins in two 10-round bouts at the Garden next Monday night.

Between Rounds

Paul Pirrone and Harry Dillon have been matched for an eight-round bout in Cleveland next Monday night. Babe Triscaro boxes Johnny Edwards and Frankie Gooby meets Jackie Horner in other bouts on the card.

Willie Davies, of Charleroi, and Ross Fields, of Weirton, W. Va., have been rematched for a six-rounder in Cleveland, Friday night. It will be their fourth clash. In their most recent engagement, in the same city, the fans rioted when Fields, now making his home in Cleveland, was given the decision over Willie. Larry Madge and Jack December will box the semi-final, with Marty Tonkonen meeting Ray La Ray in another engagement.

Billy Jones, Philadelphia Negro light heavyweight, boxes Jack McCarthy, of Boston, in Philadelphia Thursday night. Leonard Dixon boxes Pat Hayward in the semi-final. Johnny Dixon and Sylvan Bass meet in the Quaker City on Friday, with Mickey Blair and Billy Purnell in the semi-final.

Steve Demeter, heavyweight champion of the Navy, will box Johnny Riske, Frankie Wine or K. O. Christner in the main bout of a Christmas fund show in Toledo, December 11.

Lou Brown, of New York, wants to show his new boxer, Johnny Pena, the Spanish featherweight, in Pittsburgh. Pena registered a hit in beating Carlo Mazzolla in Detroit the other night, the bout being branded the best on the card for action.

Frankie Bojarski's next bout will be with Eddie Elkins, of New York, at Erie, Friday night. Jimmy Dean meets Tony Sciolino, of Buffalo, in the semi-final.

Promoter Jim McGirr has completed the card for his show to be held in McKeesport tomorrow night by signing Sharkey Leske, of McKeesport, and George Schlie, of the North Side, to box the first bout and Nick Rusnell, of Rochester, staging a comeback, to meet Jimmy Vaughn, of St. Michael's, Pa., in the second number. Battling Gizzy boxes Harry Forbes, of Indianapolis, and Johnny Thomas meets Eddie Pucci, of Ohio, in two 10-round bouts constituting a double windup.

St. John's Lyceum, of the South Side, will hold its initial amateur boxing show tonight in Turner Hall, Thirteenth street. The show will be free to parish members. Four bouts make up the card.

SPORTS STARS RATED

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Francis Ouimet, Glenna Collett Vare and Barney Berlinger have been selected by Harry Hillman, Dartmouth track coach, as the nation's outstanding amateur athletes. He said he intended to recommend the two golfers and the versatile Pennsylvania track performer for the James Sullivan Cup, an annual award to outstanding amateur athletes.

PEREZ KNOCKS OUT GENARO, WINS TITLE

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Young Jose Perez, of Tunis, knocked out Frankie Genaro, New York veteran, recognized by the National Boxing Association as world flyweight champion, in the second round of a scheduled 15-round title fight last night.

A wildly excited French crowd that packed the arena saw Perez batter the American into submission almost before he had time to get warmed up. A right smash to the chin sent Genaro to the floor early in the second round. He struggled to his knees at the count of eight, but that was as far as he could get before the count was finished.

Michigan Reduces Prices for Games

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The University of Michigan Athletic Association has announced that ticket prices for the Indiana University football game on November 7, have been reduced, except for seats between the 20-yard lines. More than 50,000 seats at the ends of the stadium will be offered for sale at $1. NO. 543

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh, for and in behalf of said City of Pittsburgh, to enter into an Agreement with Gulf Building Company for the purpose of acquiring land for the widening of Seventh Avenue.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh, for and in behalf of the said City of Pittsburgh, be and they are hereby authorized to enter into an Agreement with Gulf Building Company for the purpose of acquiring land for the widening of Seventh avenue, which agreement shall be in the following form:

THIS AGREEMENT
MADE AND ENTERED INTO this ____ day of ________, 193__, by and between the CITY OF PITTSBURGH, a municipal corporation of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, party of the first part, and GULF BUILDING COMPANY, a Pennsylvania corporation, domiciled in the City of Pittsburgh, County and State aforesaid, party of the second part.

WITNESSETH:

THAT WHEREAS, the City of Pittsburgh is desirous of widening Seventh avenue from a sixty (60) to an eighty (80) foot street or avenue, between William Penn place and Grant street, in the City of Pittsburgh, and,

WHEREAS, Gulf Building Company is the owner of the land on the northerly side of Seventh avenue, twenty (20) feet of which is to be utilized for the purpose of widening the said Seventh avenue from a sixty (60) to an eighty (80) foot street or avenue between the points mentioned.

NOW, THEREFORE, the party of the first part, its successors and assigns, hereby agrees to and with the party of the second part, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, as followeth:

1. The City of Pittsburgh covenants and agrees that it will, by the passage of proper ordinances, widen Seventh avenue between William Penn place and Grant street, from a sixty (60) to an eighty (80) foot street or avenue, and grade, pave and curb the same as so widened, and the said City of Pittsburgh further agrees to pay to the said Gulf Building Company the sum of Seventy Thousand Dollars ($70,000.00) for a strip of land running along the northeasterly side of Seventh Avenue of a width of twenty (20) feet between William Penn place and Grant street, and agrees to embrace the said strip of land within Seventh avenue as so widened.

2. In consideration whereof, Gulf Building Company covenants and agrees to deliver to the City of Pittsburgh a deed dedicating for street purposes a strip of land twenty (20) feet in width, extending from William Penn place to Grant street, along the southwesterly portion of the property owned by said Gulf Building Company, and the said Gulf Building Company covenants and agrees further to release the City of Pittsburgh from all claims for damages which it may have arising or growing out of the same.

3. It is understood and agreed by the parties hereto that the City of Pittsburgh shall pay all damages, costs and expenses occasioned by and arising out of the said widening of Seventh avenue, and the grading, paving and curbing of the same, and that no benefits shall be assessed against any of the abutting properties along the line of said improvement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the City of Pittsburgh has caused this Agreement to be duly executed by its Mayor and Director of the Department of Public Works, and the seal of the City affixed thereto, and the party of the second part has hereunto affixed its common and corporate seal duly attested by its proper officers, the day and year aforesaid.

NO. 544

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing an Agreement between the City of Pittsburgh and the Borough of Ingram, providing for the construction, maintenance and repairs to a Sanitary Sewer extending along Jenkins Street and Stewart Street in the City of Pittsburgh, and across and along Berry Street and Maingate Street in the Borough of Ingram, from a point about 30 feet northwest of Berry Street in the City of Pittsburgh, to the existing sewer on Maingate Street in the Borough of Ingram.

WHEREAS—Owing to the topography of the city located between Jenkins street and Berry street, the drainage from the land therein flows to and across the City of Pittsburgh and into Borough of Ingram boundary, and

WHEREAS—The flow of said drainage is causing an insanitary condition and a nuisance to the general public of both municipalities, which, owing to the topography, can only be relieved by the construction of a sanitary sewer and connecting the same to an existing sewer in the Borough of Ingram, and

WHEREAS—The total cost of said sewer construction will probably be assessed against the property benefited.

NOW, THEREFORE,

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works be and they are hereby authorized and directed to enter into an Agreement on behalf of the City of Pittsburgh with the Borough of Ingram, said Agreement to be in the following form, to-wit:

ARTICLES OF AGREEMENT

MADE and entered into this ____ day of ________, 1931, between the City of Pittsburgh and the Borough of Ingram to provide for the construction, maintenance and repairs to a Sanitary Sewer extending along Jenkins street and Stewart street in the City of Pittsburgh, and across and along Berry street and Maingate street in the Borough of Ingram, from a point about 30 feet northwest of Berry street in the City of Pittsburgh, to the existing sewer on Maingate street in the Borough of Ingram.

THEREFORE, This Agreement Witnesseth:

1. That the City of Pittsburgh shall prepare the Contract Plans and award a contract for the construction of said sewer under authorization of an Assessment Ordinance, which shall provide that "The costs, damages and expense of the same shall be assessed against and collected from properties specially benefited thereby, in accordance with the provisions of the Acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania relating thereto and regulating the same."

2. The Borough of Ingram hereby grants to the City of Pittsburgh permission without cost to the Borough of Ingram to construct said sewer from the City-Borough line on, over, across and along Berry street and Maingate street to connect to the existing Borough sewer on Maingate street, southwest of Berry street.

3. Each municipality shall have the right to approve the Contract Plans and to inspect the construction of the sewer, and to make any lateral connections that may be necessary within the limits of the respective municipalities. The cost of maintenance and repairs to this proposed sewer shall be borne by each municipality in which the portion of the sewer affected is constructed.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties of this Agreement [illegible]

ANTI-TRUST ACT GIVEN NEW MEANING

Joining of Forces to Cut Production Justifiable By Anaconda President

By MERYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—In the recent crisis the copper industry, as a matter of self-defense, developed a new theory of interpretation of the Sherman anti-trust law, and leaders of the industry think that the doctrine should be extended to other normal periods.

Mr. Rukeyser

Frank revelation of the doctrine under which the copper industry has been limiting production in face of the restrictions of the anti-trust law was made by Cornelius F. Kelley, experienced attorney and president of the Anaconda Copper Company, at the national conference on the relation of law and business with special emphasis on the anti-trust statutes held yesterday under the auspices of New York University.

A candid opponent of the Sherman act, which he believes tends to drive business men to ruinous overproduction.

CUT HELD LEGAL

Mr. Kelley pointed out:

"The copper industry, like other basic industries, is suffering from a condition of chaos. A year ago we undertook by joint effort to meet this situation. We felt that it was only by some limitation of production that we would be able to save the industry from financial disaster with resultant injurious effect upon the public. We were advised that the legality of the proposed reduction could be based only upon the assumption that there is in the law a doctrine of economic self-defense. But that this theory of economic self-defense had never been submitted to the Supreme Court and had never been passed upon by that court. We were further advised that such reduction could apply only during the period of the emergency then existing in our industry, and that such limitation must terminate when the surplus stock would become lower than what might be reasonably expected to furnish adequate protection to the consuming public."

Mr. Kelley would make the emergency doctrine a basis for the permanent conduct of the industry. His thought is in line with modern ideas of rationalization and co-operative self management of industries.

SANE DOCTRINE

Mr. Kelley says:

"In my opinion, such a doctrine is a sane and sensible doctrine, but I believe it can reasonably be extended further.

"I believe that if an industry can act in any emergency it ought to be able to act in anticipation of an emergency. In point of fact, emergency exists actually long before it manifests itself by its consequences. Any such agreements are not in reality unreasonable, unfair or unjust. They are really actions taken in the true interest of the public. This doctrine has been expressed as the doctrine of economic self-defense. It seems a reasonable doctrine to press upon the courts. In the development of our modern civilization such a salutary principle must be approved by the courts if the theory of our political and industrial organization is to be maintained."

As for Mr. Kelley's general criticism of the archaic and uneconomic character of the anti-trust laws, I am in agreement with him concerning the need of modernization and liberalization. It should be borne in mind, however, that before the depression the copper industry seemingly had acted pretty much as a unit in regard to prices.

Wall Street Confident Steel Will Maintain $4 Dividend Rate

Wall street is confident that in spite of the known poor character of earnings in the September quarter the United States Steel Corporation board will see fit to declare the regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share at today's meeting. Nevertheless the scattered but persistent selling of the stock during yesterday's session was indicative of a tendency to realize some measure of profit against surprise. The financial community was frank in its belief however that anything less than the regular payment would cause considerable shock marketwise.

The speculative fraternity is satisfied that a downward revision of Pennsylvania's dividend is to be expected when directors of the Big Trunk Line meet to consider the next quarterly payment on Wednesday. Yielding better than 9 per cent at current levels, it is apparent that the stock itself is anticipating such a development. Pennsy earned a balance of $5.28 for its stock last year and $8.82 a share in 1929, but results this year have been far from satisfactory with net railway operating income thus far have been shown as running about at the equivalent of only 48 per cent of the 1930 rate. Extremists talk of the possibility of complete omission at this time, a move which hardly seems likely to the conservative element which realizes the road enjoys an unbroken dividend record going back to 1856 and that considerable of its profits from better years were carefully conserved.

Sterling is quoted around $3.93 in the open market. But that quotation holds only on lots of £50,000 or more, as one small trader was appraised yesterday. This person sought to catch any turn in sterling which might result from the anticipated satisfactory result of elections in Britain today. He sought an odd lot of sterling for which he paid a premium of 12 cents over the going rate or the equivalent of $4.05. Having secured the pounds, he returned to his office where it suddenly dawned on him that he might at least have queried the bank's buying rate for pounds. This he did by telephone and was informed that the bank was quoting $3.80. Through the balance of the day he sought to reconcile himself to some measure of loss unless sterling enjoys a tremendous rise in the next few days.

Odd-lot buying has been larger in American Telephone recently, according to information from several of the large commission and wire houses. The orders have come from practically all sections of the country. In most instances the purchasers have paid cash for the stock and taken the shares out of the street. This is in sharp contrast with conditions about two months ago, when the odd-lot selling of Telephone was a disturbing development.

Although there has been nothing from semi-official quarters on the earnings of American Tobacco this year, the view is quite general that the company will be able to show at least $10 a share on its stock. This would compare with $8.56 a share reported in 1930. The company has been benefitting from the extensive advertising of its products in the past. Sales of its leading brand of cigarets are larger than last year, and the volume of business done in one of the smoking tobaccos also has been making impressive strides in recent months. The fact that the company is purchasing tobacco in heavier quantities than ever before indicates that the management is anticipating a continued good demand for its products.

Ingersoll-Rand directors meet soon for dividend action and from what is known of the affairs of the company the problem to be met is a conflict between an established and steady dividend policy, backed by an exceptionally good liquid position, and reduced earning power. The company has sizeable holdings of cash and government securities. It has been the policy of the management to build up a large surplus and to take care of stockholders in lean years out of proceeds of good periods. In the 1921-22 depression this method was followed.

Livermore, Cutten Said Buying Wheat

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Two of the largest present-day operators, Jesse L. Livermore and Arthur W. Cutten, have been buying wheat since it touched the season's lows during the past three weeks, according to reports here. Livermore has been an extensive purchaser as the head of a strong New York syndicate, while Cutten has been similarly active, with Chicago as the base of his operations.

WHEAT MARKET GETS SETBACK

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Grain prices underwent early setbacks today. The chief apparent factor was a letup in recent aggressive buying. Opening at ⅜ cent decline to ⅛ cent advance, wheat afterward sagged all around. Corn started unchanged to ½ cent off and subsequently showed a general drop.

Bears in wheat were inclined to emphasize reports of satisfactory progress of Southern Hemisphere crops. Something of an offset was an expected curtailment of yield as compared with last year owing to reduction of acreage. Notice, however, was taken of the fact that Argentine January offerings were relatively much cheaper than United States wheat.

Rallies in wheat prices were promoted later by reports of excessively high temperatures in parts of Argentina and by assertions in some quarters that 1931 world production of bread grains was sharply below that of 1930.

EARLY COTTON LOSES CUT

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Cotton opened barely steady today at a decline of 6 to 8 points under Liverpool, southern and continental selling which was promoted by favorable weather and prospects for increased receipts. December sold off to 6.51c and March to 6.74c, or about 8 to 10 points net lower.

Offerings were taken by covering and trade buying, while the decline seemed to attract some commission house buying. The selling tapered off after the first few minutes and prices stiffened up within 2 or 3 points of yesterday's closing quotations.

The market held generally steady later in the morning. Liverpool was reported a good buyer here on the differences, and after the close of the English market, prices sagged off a few points, but offerings were light and the list soon stiffened up again on covering and trade buying. At midday December was selling around 6.59 and March 6.84, or about net unchanged to 2 points lower.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 27.—Cotton—Spot quiet; prices four points lower, quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 5.65; good middling, 5.30; strict middling, 5.10; middling, 5.00; strict low middling, 4.85; low middling, 4.65; strict good ordinary, 4.45; good ordinary, 4.15. EAST TEXAS OIL FLOW CUT

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 27.—Allowable per well production in the East Texas field will be reduced to 150 barrels daily from 165, effective October 29, according to Brig. Gen. Wolthers, commander of the state militia, who is here conferring with attorneys concerning the injunction suit scheduled for hearing before a three-judge federal court on October 29.

Gen. Wolthers also announced that Gov. Sterling had authorized him to say that the 150-barrel allowable will be maintained pending working out of a unit acreage basis designed to fix a maximum production of 400,000 barrels for the East Texas field.

Philadelphia Mart Suspends Member

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—The Philadelphia Stock Exchange has suspended the firm of Kurtz Bros. for insolvency.

LOSS REPORTED BY J. & L.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation reports for the quarter ended September 30 net loss after taxes, depreciation, depletion and interest of $934,352. This compares with net profit of $391,823, or 66 cent a share on the preferred stock in the second quarter and with net profit of $1,850,837, or $1.43 a share on the common stock a year ago.

For the first nine months of 1931 net loss was $733,511 compared with a net profit of $8,809,553, or $9.93 a share on the common stock in the corresponding period of last year.

STOCK MARKET LOSES GROUND SLOWLY

Illinois Central Drops to New Low, While Numerous Issues Decline 2 to 4

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—(AP.)—Wall street's attention returned to domestic affairs today, and further consideration of the status of corporate earnings and dividends sent share values into another slow decline.

Illinois Central's dividend omission, while expected, had an adverse influence on sentiment, and traders were wary of the buying side of the market pending the quarterly statement and dividend announcement of the United States Steel Corporation, due after the close of the market.

Illinois Central dropped to a new low under 20, off about 5 points, and Santa Fe and Union Pacific registered similar losses. Miscellaneous issues off 2 to 4 points included New York Central, New Haven, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, Allied Chemical, American Telephone, North American, Public Service of New Jersey, Sears, Roebuck, American Tobacco "B", International Harvester, Eastman and McKeesport, United States Steel, General Motors, Standard of New Jersey and California, Anaconda and Kennecott were among issues off a point or more.

News from Washington that the administration had completed its study of railroad securities, but would hold action in abeyance until the executives decide what they will do with the Interstate Commerce Commission's proposals, was received with mixed sentiments.

Illinois Central's dividend omission takes that stock off a dividend basis for the first time since before the Civil War.

Wall street generally expects that United States Steel will pay $1 a share, as it did in the last quarter.

The weekly condition statement of weekly reporting Federal Reserve member banks provided further indications of the strengthening of the general financial structure. Loans on securities dropped $95,000,000, at last going below $6,000,000,000.

Some bankers have felt that this level should represent about the limit of deflation of loans against securities. Furthermore, the statement showed that banks had allowed their "cash in vault" to decrease by $13,000,000.

A reduction in their hoard was regarded as reflecting a conviction that depositor confidence was returning.

LONDON MARKET CHEERFUL

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—A cheerful tone prevailed on the stock exchange today. The industrial group advanced while gilt-edged securities eased fractionally. German bonds were weak. Dollar exchanged closed at $3.91½.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Prices on the bourse recorded early gains, but lack of support caused some issues to sag. The closing was irregular.

VIENNA, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The Vienna bourse reopened for one hour's trading today for the first time since September 21, the day following Great Britain's suspension of the gold standard.

Trading was quiet and fluctuations were nominal. Selling from abroad was not permitted.

LOCAL STOCKS SHOW SMALL LOSSES

Fractional Declines in Fuels and Industrials; Trading Volume Larger

Activity increased moderately on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, with prices showing a mild declining tendency. The early market reflected the weak opening in New York, where leading issues sagged back 1 to 2 points under the weight of offerings brought out by the disappointment over the Hoover-Laval conversations and the extremely poor third-quarter earnings statements of some of the big industrial units.

Lone Star Gas was the active issue on the local board, slipping back fractionally, but showing no noticeable weakness. Shamrock Oil held steady around the previous closing level.

In the heavy industrial section the movements were slightly downward. Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt and Blaw Knox all showed fractional declines on their early quotations.

U. S. DAILY OIL OUTPUT DOWN

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The Oil and Gas Journal reports a decrease of 48,696 barrels in the daily average crude oil production of the United States last week, largely due to reductions in runs from Oklahoma and East Texas fields.

Total production for the week ending October 23 was 2,380,174 barrels daily, as compared with 2,428,870 barrels the preceding week.

East Texas produced 400,289 barrels daily, as compared with 422,189. A new state order for reduced production there was responsible for the drop.

Reserve Members' Loans Decrease

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The Federal Reserve Board's condition statement as of October 21 shows decreases for the week of $212,000,000 in loans and investments, $66,000,000 in net demand deposits, $118,000,000 in time deposits and $96,000,000 in government deposits. Reserves with reserve banks increased $63,000,000. Borrowings from reserve banks rose $37,000,000. Loans on securities totaled $5,906,000,000, a decrease of $95,000,00. All other loans were $7,635,000,000, off $44,000,000.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

COAL DEMAND UP

Consumer demand for coal has increased in the past fortnight and anthracite dealers are in turn sending in a steady stream of orders to the wholesale offices, with the result that producers and distributors have few complaints to make about the present state, Saward's Journal says. The review added that the strength of the demand is variable within certain limits, due to weather changes.

CANNED FOODS

Brokers report a better feeling in the canned foods market in New York and sales are showing a greater volume. While buyers are not anticipating their inventories very far in advance, they are finding it necessary to replace stocks which are light, the trade reports. The opinion in the trade is that prices as a whole probably have seen their lowest levels.

CENTRAL PUBLIC SERVICE

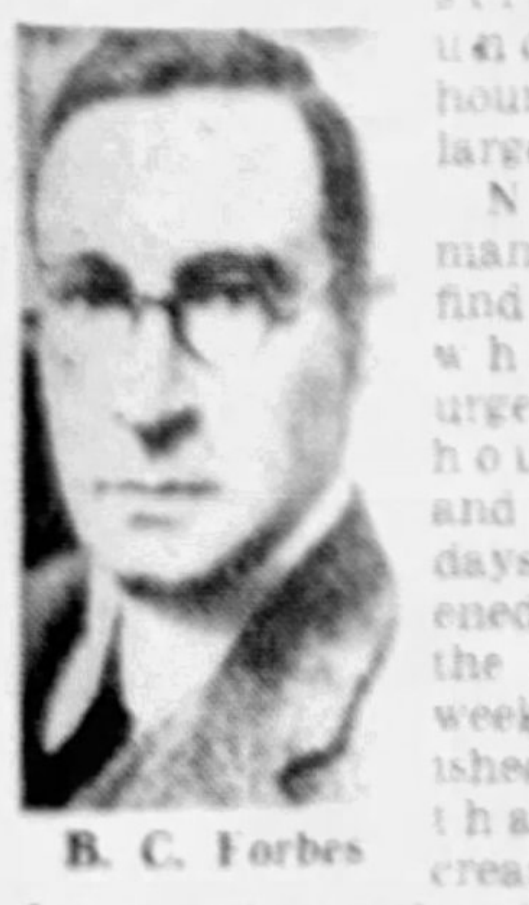
September gas sales of the Southern Cities Public Service Company, a subsidiary of the Central Public Service Corporation, show an increase of 44.85 per cent over September, 1931. Gains were principally due to increased industrial use of natural gas.

Forbes

Many Workers Still Toiling Unduly Long?

By B. C. FORBES

HOW MANY WAGE earners are working more than eight hours a day? How many are working not five and a half or six, but seven days a week?



B. C. Forbes

According to many letters received by this column, the total still working unduly long hours is very large.

Naturally, man who can find no work whatsoever urge that 10-hour, 11-hour and 12-hour days be shortened, and that the seven-day week be abolished, in order that an increased number may be employed.

Not a few who have long been idle, and who continue without prospect of work, go so far as to contend that every fulltime worker should be willing to give up one day or two days or three days of work each week for the sake of giving someone else a chance to earn a subsistence.

JUDGING BY THE communications which have poured in, there is less urgent demand for the widespread adoption of a six-hour day than there is complaint that far too many concerns have not yet established the eight-hour day or the six-day week.

Complaints regarding excessive hours come from three main sources. Toilers who have to be on the job 12 hours a day, from seven-day workers and from the wives of such workers.

THE AMERICAN public was led to believe that the far-flung steel industry adopted the eight-hour day and abolished the seven-day week all over the country. Allegations are made, however, that the solemn promise and pledge to do away with the 10-hour and 12-hour shifts and the seven-day week have not been universally fulfilled. Indeed, the statement is made that quite a large percentage of steel workmen have never been put on a standardized eight-hour day and that seven-day work has not been dropped.

IT ISN'T EASY to reason, under existing business conditions, how all our idle workers can possibly be absorbed unless the standard work day or the standard work week be materially reduced.

Some theorists claim that the return of normal activity will find a full demand for labor and that, therefore, it would be a grave mistake to set up either shorter hours per day or a shorter week.

The more the writer ponders this whole complicated, many-sided, far-reaching question, the more difficult it becomes to reason out how and why the trend should not be toward fewer hours per worker than obtained before the slump.

BRIEF EXTRACTS from typical letters will reveal how different minds view unemployment, and its feasible solution. One reader writes:

"I am willing to bet that most of the unemployed could be put to work tomorrow with a nationwide eight-hour day. There are thousands who have not had a day off in years. They work seven days a week, and 14 hours and more a day—hotels, stores, apartment houses, transportation companies, theaters, all places of amusement. New York bus workers work seven days a week and more than eight hours a day."

Another reader writes:

"I am not worthy to start anything, but I know how to put every man to work to make an honest living. I am working 12 hours a day, seven days a week, and some poor soul cannot get work one day in one year. If you will send someone here to see me, I will explain how to help others while times are bad."

THIS COMES from "the wife of a 50-cents-an-hour utility worker:"

"How can you say shorter hours will be a reward for the slump? You talk about six hours a day. How much an hour do you think men are making? Six hours a day at 50 cents an hour would mean $3 a day, $18 for six days. With rent $55 a month—and how can you lower it?—what would be left to pay Edison light bills with? I bet you won't print this—it would make you feel cheap."

One reader's suggestion:

"It would seem that the best solution of the unemployment problem is to divide what work there is among all the workers. Those workers fortunate enough to have six days' work should be willing to work five, four or even three days a week to make work for those out of work. Every citizen of this country should have a sort of working ticket entitling him to, say, a minimum of six months' work a year."

NO QUESTION confronting this democracy is of more pressing importance and seriousness than the existing unemployment and how to find a workable remedy.

Bank Interest in Credit Corporation Grows

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

ENTHUSIASM OVER THE POSSIBILITIES of the National Credit Corporation is increasing as bankers become more familiar with the operating details of the organization which will administer the $500,000,000 bank credit pool being set up in accordance with the recommendations of President Hoover.

At first some bankers were skeptical regarding the desirability of a few features of the plan, but these objections are being overcome as the policies of the rapidly forming organization are made known.

In a few cases bankers were not favorably disposed to tie up 2 per cent of their deposits in the notes of the National Credit Corporation. A recent announcement by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon eliminated this objection. The banks will be allowed to use these notes as security for United States government deposits. This will release an equal amount of collateral on which the banks can readily realize money if it is needed. This feature will make it possible for many banks to subscribe for National Credit Corporation notes without impairing their liquidity.

Plan to Help All Banks

BANKS MUST SUBSCRIBE for National Credit Corporation notes in order to borrow money from the pool. At first it was thought that this requirement might have the effect of excluding banks in serious difficulty from securing the benefits of the credit pool, but analysis shows that it will still be possible for banks unable to subscribe to receive indirect aid.

It is a common practice for outlying banks to borrow from leading institutions in the principal cities. While member banks of the pool cannot present the assets of other institutions as collateral for loans from the National Credit Corporation, the plan will make it possible for the banks in large centers to keep sufficiently liquid to give aid to outlying institutions in time of need.

Banking Law Changes

MANY CHANGES ARE BEING SUGGESTED in banking laws in order to guard against a repetition of the events of the present year. Among the proposals are requirements for large liquid reserves against deposits, the reporting of lists of the investment securities held by banks and requirements that bank charters be refused where capital is small and the institutions cannot measure up to clearing house requirements.

Objections frequently have been voiced against the extension of Reserve Board powers. In place of increasing the range of collateral acceptable to the Reserve Banks, the establishment of special organizations has been proposed. One plan would provide for a government financed corporation to make loans on real estate mortgages held by banks. Another would set up an organization similar to the War Finance Corporation which would be supplied with funds to buy short term railroad and utility securities. This would solve the problems of many companies at the present time and would take the load of this type of financing off the shoulders of the banks.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The bond market turned reactionary today in dull trading. Such losses as occurred were principally fractional.

The downward movement was extensive but not uniform.

Daily True Story :: Meet the Ghost

To Ella Shields, efficient and comely reporter on the Winston Post, the news of a ghost affair that was ruffling the serenity of the adjacent town of Sutterville fell most welcome upon her alert ears. Excited, she begged and got the coveted assignment.

It was during her sojourn at the Sutterville Hotel that she met HIM. Busily interpolating her breakfast with frequent recordings in her precious notebook of facts gleaned, she was at first quite oblivious to a dashing young stranger vis-a-vis.

Her admirer noted her work and saw the delighted sparkle of her blue eyes as they followed the racing pencil. There was frank interest in his manner and an amiable smile hoving around his mouth. Quite likely the girl was a reporter for the local daily he conjectured. How he wished he knew her . . .

Ella caught his appraising eye and pleasurable smile and—because she was so absorbed with spiritualistic zest and enthusiasm in her thrilling assignment, she involuntarily returned the smile—and because it was so inviting — unconsciously inviting, the debonair stranger rose and came over.

"As one reporter to another, may I inquire your present assignment?" he asked with ingratiating interest.

NEPHEW OF COLONEL

"I'm Richard Davidson, Col. Zeb Taylor's nephew. I just arrived here on a leave of absence from a New York daily to arrange my late uncle's affairs. But what's this about a ghost affair. I'm completely in the dark about that. Won't you tell me what you know about it?" he asked, greatly mystified.

"You—his nephew . . . !" she exclaimed in rapturous surprise at this revelation. Here was rare luck! How opportunely was their meeting. And what a source of information he might prove to be . . .! "I suggest you tell me all you know about your late uncle first. Then I shall relate all I know about him here," he proposed.

"Fine. Really, I hardly know anything about him," he began. "He wrote me about a dozen times in all. Queer old gentleman he was . . . I vaguely remember some sort of scandal about him when I was a lad. My mother—his sister never spoke of it to me any time. I can just remember seeing him once or twice—a tall, military sort of man and stern. The undertaker here must have known my address someway. It was he who wired me about Uncle's death."

ASKS QUESTION

"A letter of yours dated three months ago was found on his person. That is how they knew where to notify you." Ella hastened to explain. "If it had not been for that, Nat Ginger, the local constable might never have found the address of his relatives. And just think, too, the colonel may never have kept any other letters in his dilapidated old mansion either . . ." declared she with sudden thought.

"Well . . . And how did my uncle die?" asked Dick in eager concern.

"Well," she recounted. "It was four days ago that your uncle drove to town, as was his won't to purchase books and food supplies and invariably return to his ascetic seclusion for another fortnight. But on this trip he collapsed from a sudden heart attack in the General Store and was rushed to Dr. Brown. Despite all attention he died in a coma."

The bereathed young man was silent for a few minutes, ruminating on her words and musing on the strange character of his late uncle. Then he looked up suddenly and she flushed slightly at being caught so palpably admiring him. "What about the ghost story? I'm keen to hear about that," he asked with consuming curiosity.

DRIVE TO MANSION

Dick listened; and covertly studied her beauty and character too. How Ella's cheeks would have blushed rosily and her heart throb quicker had she divined his thoughts.

Later, the two curious ghost hunters combined their eerie mission and drove out to the forbidding sinister house. Of course the skies were leaden, the wind up and shrilling about ominously, and the trees so stately before, were now swaying to and fro like grotesque witches hobbling along inquisitively with them.

A certain little girl kept timidly close to her tall fearless companion, and that lucky man liked it very much. What a fearsome place it was? Squeaky mice scurried with alarming noise through the walls. Loose doors and hanging shutters slammed and banged with frightful vigor. Then out of the inky blackness emerged—the ghost of Zeb Taylor . . . !

From a convenient nook they watched the specter enter the last uninspected room. Ella nade a movement to flee but the fearless Dick caught her—and then lifted her bodily into the room! She screamed. The ghost turned about . . .

TWIN BROTHER

And then the curious little reporter soon had her story. And what a story! An innocent man forced into exile by bitterness. A twin brother shell shocked just recovered living with him unknown and unsuspected. The mysterious hermit dying and leaving his twin brother to be mistaken for his ghost. What a story . . .

"Why, er-ah, I haven't asked her yet—but I certainly am going to," he declared.

Ella, star reporter, should have turned in a copy of how she found a handsome husband where only a ghost was sought.

Chicago Gasoline Advance Expected

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—An advance in service station prices of gasoline in the Standard Oil Company of Indiana's territory is indicated. Under the existing price of 11 cents a gallon for regular grade gasoline in Chicago, exclusive of the three-cent tax, the jobber has little margin on which to operate after he allows dealer's discounts of approximately 3½ cents a gallon and has paid close to 6½ cents a gallon for Oklahoma gasoline delivered here.

Bituminous Coal Yield Climbs 3.8%

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Production of bituminous coal during the week ended October 17 showed an increase of 3.8 per cent as compared with the previous week. Total output for comparable periods, as measured by the Bureau of Mines, follows: Week ended October 17, 8,145,000 net tons; previous week, 7,848,000 net tons; same week last year, 9,230,000 net tons.

THE LOVE TRAP -:- Story of a Girl's Struggle For Love and Happiness -:- By ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

Mary Lacks Aggressiveness To Contradict Landers' Misrepresentation

CHAPTER V.

"How do you do?" the young man said to Mary, gazing at her with a raptness that indicated that he, too, was feeling something of the same exhilaration that was affecting her.

For several seconds, it seemed, they had both forgotten the presence of Buck Landers. Some natural spark, appropriate to their youth, had leaped the gap between them. Immediately there was the swift telepathy of reciprocal attraction.

The only thing about Steve Moore that Mary realized were his clear gray eyes; she did not observe that he was near six feet tall, that he was spare, yet athletic; that he had a mouth that looked forever as if he was about to smile. All that she saw was the eyes; what she sensed was a certain humorous something in his lurking behind a slight bashfulness. They were both young and it followed she did not at once discern that he was solid and substantial; nor did young Steve himself see beyond the blue of her eyes, the soft yellow of her hair, the grace of her small shapely body. Yet they passed instantly into a phase of understanding one with the other that left Buck Landers all but forgotten. When he spoke something of the gossamer cloud around them broke and scattered.

LIKE FATHER TO HIM

"Steve has the advantage of you, Mary. He arrived yesterday and I've been telling him all about you—but I didn't tell you anything about him. How do you like him?"

Mary colored with embarrassment. It was such a silly question!

"Why—I think he's nice," she said, avoiding the eyes of Steve, who was looking at her and smiling.

"Well, sit down, Mary, and I'll explain Steve to you," Landers said. "Steve's father was my pal out West a long time ago. Saved my life once. After that he got married and we drifted apart. He's dead now and so is this boy's mother. In a sort of way I've been looking after Steve out of gratitude to his father and because the boy's a darned fine kid himself. I'm not as cold blooded as a lot of people think around the big town here—"

"I'll say you're not," chimed in young Steve. "You've been like a father to me. You know, Miss Kennedy, he sent me through college and gave me a regular allowance like other fellows had. In fact, I'm still drawing from him every month, just the same as always. Of course, we haven't seen much of each other—Buck and I—but—"

"That's because I didn't want you in the big town till you got through that college stuff," Landers cut in, "but I don't deserve too much credit. I got a big kick helping you along for your father's sake. Besides that, I can use a lad with your brain and nerve in my business—somebody I can trust."

BUCK GOES AWAY

"I'm going to put this boy up at the top of the ladder," he told her. "I'm going to build him up to take my place and handle my affairs. I'm going to start him in by degrees and he can take a lot off my shoulders and leave for me—pleasanter things."

Mary's gaze did not falter as she looked from Landers to his protege, but her color changed swiftly, a faint rosy tide swept her cheeks and then faded, leaving her pale. Her lips came near trembling. It was as though Buck Landers was tightening a chain around her, binding her publicly to him. She had no chance to deny anything. He was acting as though they were finally pledged to each other—was making it difficult for her to act otherwise. He took out his watch and looked at it.

"Say—I've got to be getting along," he declared. "Now listen, Steve, and you, too, Mary. I'll be gone a week in Boston. Steve's new in New York, and I thought you might be able to show him around a bit of evenings, Mary. It will keep him out of mischief and he'll keep other fellows away from you. It's a big town and a tough town, Mary, my girl, and I'd feel a lot better with my boy watching over you."

Landers got his hat and cane while Mary gazed at him, frankly troubled. He, however, was perfectly serene. His traveling bag, he remarked, was already over at Barney's; the crowd was going to motor up to Boston and he was filled with a spry eagerness to get at the obscure business that engaged him. He shook hands with Steve and bent over Mary to kiss her unresponsive lips briefly.

"Take good care of her, Steve," he urged the boy again in parting. "She's practically your stepmother."

MARY OUTWITTED

A rebellious shame, too late to be of service, welled up in her breast. She had allowed Landers to misrepresent their relationship—had, by her reticence, confirmed the impression he had created. She had lacked aggressiveness to contradict him in front of his friends. She had been baffled, embarrassed. His crafty brain had outwitted her inexperience.

"He's a great chap—Buck Landers, isn't he?" Steve Moore smiled at her. "Has the date of the wedding been set yet?"

A mask of reticence passed over his eyes for a moment; if he had caught any distress in her voice he ignored it. Mary was wondering what he thought of her—surely it must be apparent to him that she was after Lander's money. He must think she was a gold-digger! What else could he think?

"I know you're working here in the hotel, but can't we have lunch together today?" Steve asked her politely. "Buck told me to look out for you, you know."

An impulse to avoid his eyes assailed her. "I can't today. I have a date with a girl."

"Are you sure?" he asked, with a slow smile of suspicion.

"Yes. I'm sure."

"Well then, I'll eat alone, but I really must insist on seeing you for dinner tonight. It's a solemn duty, and I don't want to start off in New York by dodging my responsibilities. Buck expects me to look after you and I'm going to do it if I have to pick you up and carry you down the street under my arm, kicking and squealing. That's the way we handle reluctant ladies out in California."

WANTS AMUSEMENT

He looked at her and laughed in such a friendly way that little bubbles of amusements began to sing in her veins and she was forced to smile. She liked him—she liked him!

"Do you like to dance?" he shot at her.

Her eyes lit up. This was what she wanted—fun, music, play. Not with somebody she admired but with somebody she liked!

"Of course I like to dance," she told him. "If I go to dinner with you, will you take me some place where we can dance, too?"

He laughed with clear, ringing amusement at the sheer joy of being well-conditioned and in New York with a date that was provocative, and some how marvelously agreeable.

"Will I take you dancing? Oh, stepmother—of mine! I'm going to dance right through my shoes this night, because I've been cramped for five days on a railroad train and the old dogs are wild for exercise. Is it the life?—I ask you! Am I happy—am I delighted—am I overwhelmed?"

He grinned at her and made a funny grotesque quirk with his eyebrows. She couldn't help it—she had to giggle at him. None of the New York boys Mary knew had such a racy line—she supposed it was because he was from the West.

"I'm sorry I have that lunch date with a girl today," she told him, "but I'll tell you—we can go to dinner early, can't we?"

DISCONTENT VANISHES

Her meeting with Steve Moore had the effect of sending Mary's spirits soaring. A bright golden thread ran through the monotony of her office toil the balance of the day. He was never completely out of her mind, he amused her; he banished all worry. Buck Landers grew fainter in her consciousness. At her work she found herself humming under her voice.

At the same time, curiously, all of the kinks and tangles of her past discontent were blotted out; she was more patient, more sympathetic with the stupidity of the family relationship she had left behind in Brooklyn. They had no power to imprison her within the drab circle of their own lives. She wanted to be as nice as possible to her sister. Next week, perhaps, she would buy her a small present, a new little dress. Gradually Mary began to feel a surprising sense of confidence and security—and all the while Steve Moore was in the back of her mind. He did what Buck Landers had never been able to do, he made her feel—superior.

She left the office early and went home to dress in her very best frock. She was satisfied with her appearance, the orchid color of her dress, the way it was made, suited her exactly, and her feminine instinct told her she would be at her best. While she made herself ready she debated about wearing Landers' diamond ring; at last she hid it in a dresser drawer.

A bell in the hall two flights below sounded and Mary went down the stairs gayly to meet Steve Moore. He was standing in the vestibule with his hat off and the ever-present humorous quirk on his lips. They got a taxi and Steve gave the address of a restaurant.

"They told me at the hotel that this is a pretty good place where we're going," he explained. "I'm expecting you to show me the ropes, though, because I'm a stranger in your big town."

GO TO AGREEABLE PLACE

It didn't matter particularly to Mary where they went, since all of her senses were invaded with pleasantness. She was glad, though, that they were not going to some oppressively stiff place like the Plaza or the Belmont. Even the Mortgenhoff, where Buck Landers had taken her, was too mature and expensive for a boy like Steve—those places were far too elaborate for modern youth. A little streak of affectionate common sense gave Mary a protective feeling toward Steve: of course, had he been rich it would be different, but he wasn't rich—yet.

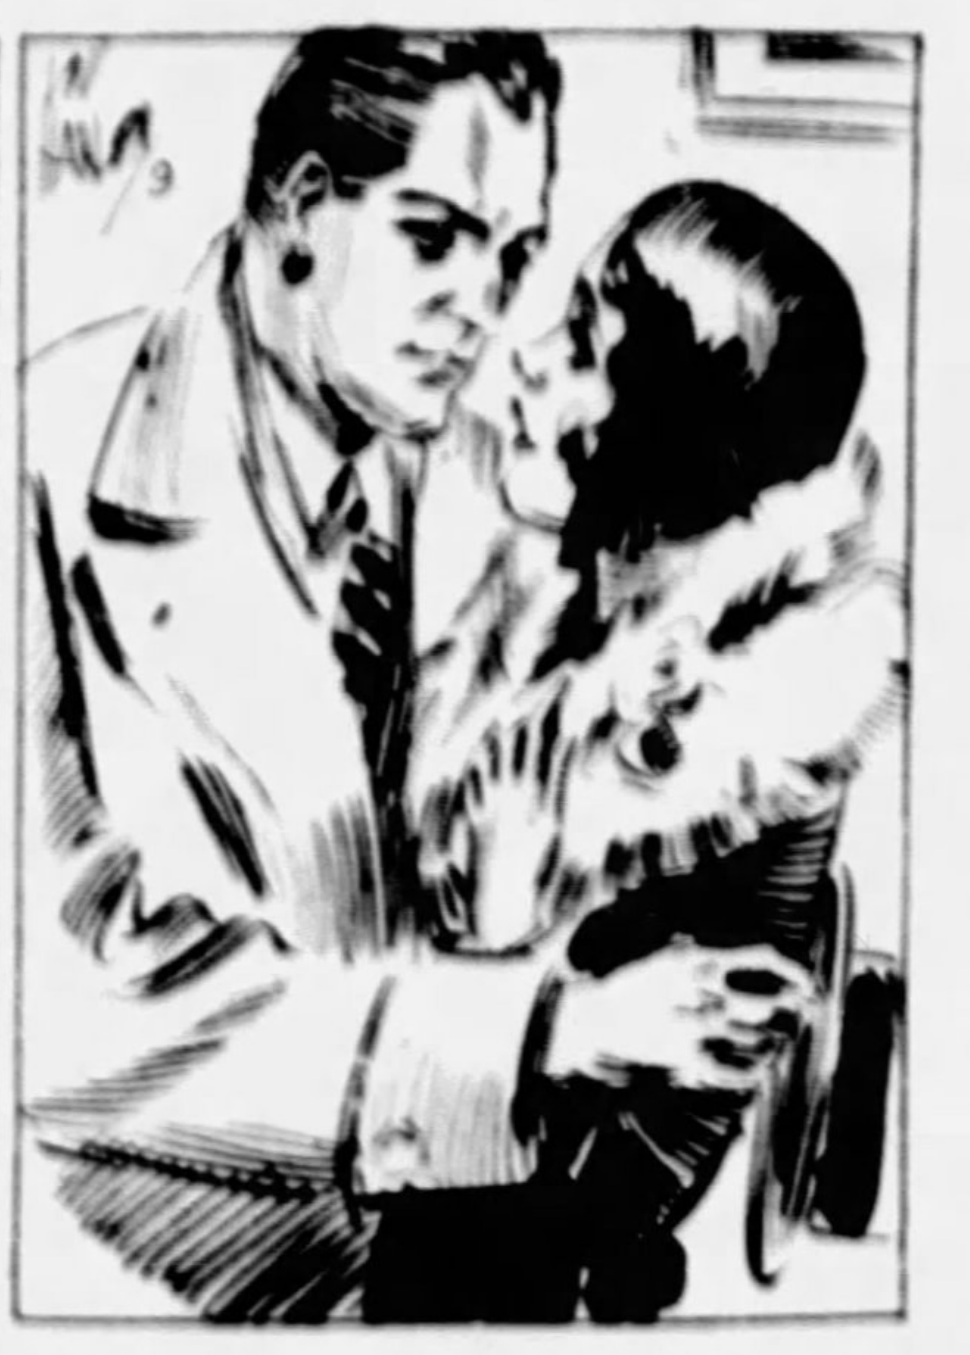
"Steve's father was my pal out West a long time ago," Landers said.



"I'm going to dance right through my shoes this night," he said.

But no sooner had Steve given the address of Aladdin's Lamp to the driver than she realized they were going to exactly the right place. True, she had never been there herself, but she had heard of its agreeable atmosphere, its touch of theatrical smartness and the excellence of its table-d'hote dinners and celebrated international hors d'oeuvres. It was downtown and, by some miracle, not prohibitive in cost.

As they drove it seemed to Mary that Steve was the easiest person on earth to be with; she was under no strain whatever. Sometimes he said silly things that were not especially witty, yet he had a trick of mind that saw life through different eyes. By the time they reached the restaurant he had her laughing at everything he said.

In the low, softly lighted dining room he continued to blossom; he took charge of the dinner with easy assurance. He was adamant with the head waiter and procured the best table in the place. He ordered with surety, started with hors d'oeuvres and, with a quick, shrewd glance at the waiter, breathed "two Manhattans."

COMPLIMENTED

The waiter hesitated a moment, and then, slowly dropping an eyelid, said in a low tone, "Very good, sir."

They sat opposite each other at the small table and were bathed immediately in the melodious throbbing of the stringed band, which contrived to keep its jazz subdued, yet effective. They drank their cocktails and observed the dancing in the center of the floor.

Steve passed his arm around her and they moved off smoothly with the music. The muted vibrations joined them bodily in perfect, effortless rhythm of movement. Immediately each knew they could dance together interminably without boredom.

Just by the act of dancing, Mary seemed to know Steve better. It made her happy—she felt infinitely lithe and supple, his arm around her was strong and sustaining; there was a vigorous clean warmth from his muscular being.

"You're the best dancer on earth, Mary," he said, as she yielded herself pliantly to his movement among the other dancers. "I'd rather dance with you than anybody I ever met in my life."

A tightness came swiftly into Mary's body and her dancing, all at once, was cramped and unrhythmic.

"I don't think so," she said in a low voice.

DOESN'T LOVE LANDERS

There was something regretful in Steve's tone: "I don't suppose I'll see much of you after you're married. You'll be touring Europe, and doing things like that. If I dance at all it'll be with girls that get their toes under my feet, darn 'em."

"I'm not married yet," she told him softly.

"I'm not going to think about it at all," he declared, involuntarily squeezing her hand.

The music ended and they went back to their table. Their dinner began and, as it progressed, a slight melancholy developed. Steve seemed to lose something of his bouyancy and Mary knew why. They were both thinking of Buck Landers.

"I'll have to tell Steve the whole truth about it," she thought to herself. "I wonder if he thinks I really love Mr. Landers? Well, I don't. If he had billions of dollars, I couldn't have as much fun with him as I could have with Steve without a penny. But I don't mean anything to Steve—I'm just another girl. But he's nice, though, and I'm going to enjoy him while I can."

Actually she said aloud: "Are you engaged to be married?"

He looked at her steadily for a moment and then with an odd expression in his eyes he smiled, but not happily.

"Does it matter?"

She felt a little pang of regret, a tiny stab of something like jealousy. "Well, aren't you?"

"Let's don't talk about other people and engagements tonight," he said with a shrug, as he lit a cigaret. "I'm sorry I mentioned your engagement to Buck. It makes be sort of lonesome. Don't you feel sorry for me?"

"Yes, I do. But I don't see why—"

"Say—we didn't come here to gloom!" he declared vigorously. "The girl I'm crazy about doesn't even know it. She's perfectly happy and I'm not going to bother her with my foolishness. I'm not even going to think about myself—I'm sorry I mentioned it. Shall we have another cocktail?"

"I don't think so," Mary said softly. A suspicion—almost a hope—was entering her heart like a golden arrow. Was it possible that she herself was the girl he meant? Of course it was silly to think so, yet—

"I don't want another cocktail," she said, "but I'd like another dance."

They gazed at each other with widening eyes, and almost in a daze they rose from the table and were immediately lost in the dancing throng. His arm around her was stronger than ever.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Shortly after her mother's death, Mary Kennedy, young and pretty stenographer, decided to live her own life and avoid the poverty she has always known. She rents a small room and then seeks a position. Mary meets Buck Landers, elderly sports promoter, who proposes to her. She does not love Landers, but his wealth attracts her. Without waiting for Mary's decision, Landers presents her with a diamond ring. He threatens anyone who comes between them.

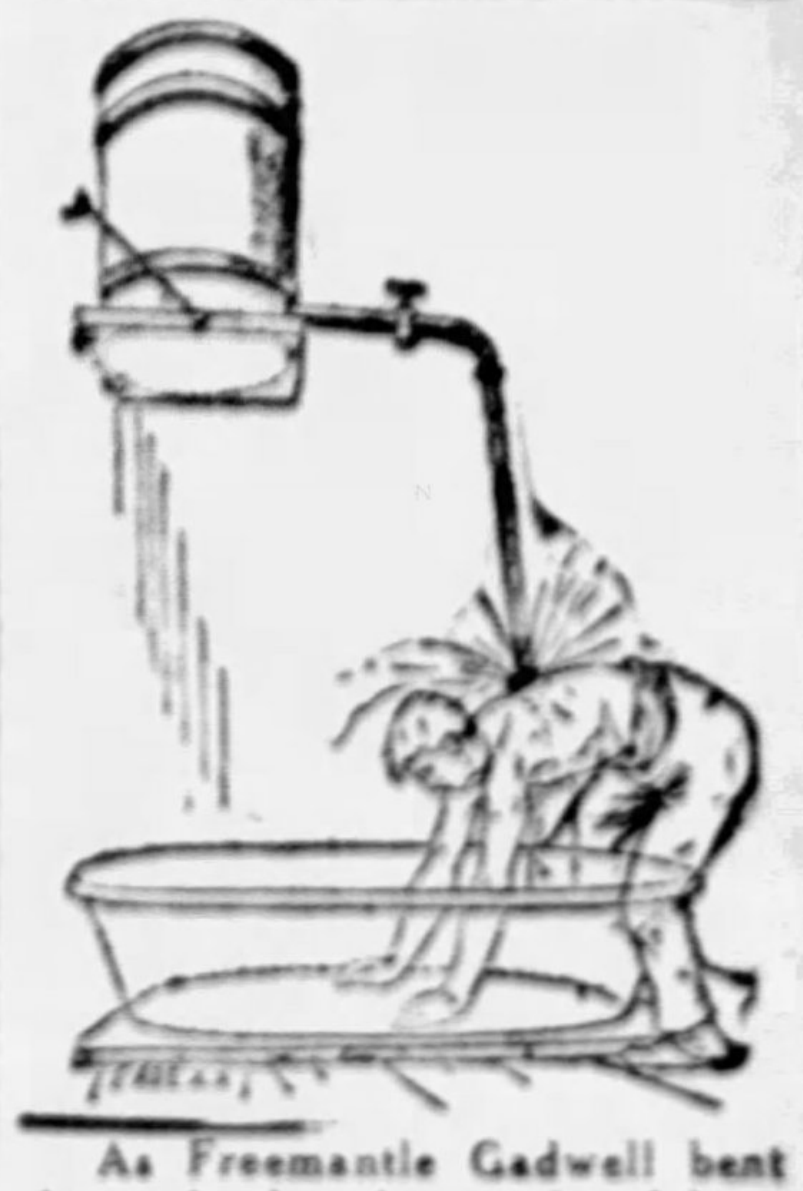
LOVE COMES BUT ONCE

(Or, What's It to You?)



As Freemantle Gadwell bent beneath the shower he felt a cold chill go up his spine.

"Gadwell," said the coach—and he made no offer to share the chocolate almond bar he was munching—"I don't like the way you poisoned our mascot and gave away our signals."

Gadwell tried to be as gentle as he could. "You're nervous, coach," he said. "Stop your nagging I tell you. Stop it."

"Oh, I don't know what's the matter with me," said the coach. "I've been this way for weeks. The least thing seems to upset me. And if we lose the game Satiddy it will be another upset."

Suddenly came a cry. Both men stood galvanized. They waited a moment. Came the cry again—the cry of a voice calling, "Run, Sheep, Run!"

There was no time for beanbags now . . . .

What Is the Six-Hour Day?

Nine Questions, Nine Answers

QUESTION: What is the six-hour day?

ANSWER: It is the next step in the organization of industry so that the profits of modern efficiency may be more fairly divided between workers and employers.

QUESTION: Aren't they evenly divided now?

ANSWER: No. Wonderful modern machines, made possible by such men as Edison, take the places of men. They save labor but give labor no more leisure. Unless the six-hour day is adopted rather generally in this country many of the more than six million men who are now out of work will never get their jobs again.

QUESTION: Is the six-hour day a new idea?

ANSWER: No, but it is a wise one. William Randolph Hearst recently suggested it in this column as a sound remedy for many of our economic troubles. It was urged in England for many years by the late Lord Leverhulme, a great industrialist and wealthy manufacturer of soap. During the war he told England that only the six-hour day would save England after the war. He said over and over again:

"People are thinking that after the war wages must come down. They must NOT, they must remain at their war level.

"People are suggesting that to save England after peace comes, the hours of labor must be lengthened. They must NOT be made longer, they must be shortened. When the war ends, millions of men will be released from military service and these men must have work. They cannot have work unless the employers of England put into effect the six-hour day."

QUESTION: Doesn't a six-hour day mean eight hours' pay for six hours' work?

ANSWER: It means more than six hours' work for six hours' pay. Lord Leverhulme proved that in industries for instance, where the overhead expense is at least equal to the wage costs, a six-hour day means greater productivity on the part of the worker and even more profit for the employer.

QUESTION: Did England take Lord Leverhulme's advice?

ANSWER: Unfortunately no. The great industrialists were afraid to do a wise thing. England went on the dole instead, it went into heavy taxation, it went on to disaster—and Lord Leverhulme died without seeing his commonsense suggestion made a part of the industrial practice of his country.

QUESTION: Who is in favor of this scheme?

ANSWER: The leaders of labor. William Green, president of the A. F. of L., sees increased employment for working men. Labor councils all over the country have indorsed Mr. Hearst's suggestion.

QUESTION: Naturally THEY would, but how do the great industrialists feel about such a change?

ANSWER: Well, Grover Whalen, of New York, praised it the other day. In Seattle, Wash., a prominent lumberman, Mark E. Reed, said that he and his associations have been giving the six-hour day serious consideration. Last week William J. Graham, president of the American Management Association and vice president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, indorsed both Mr. Hearst's proposal for a five billion prosperity loan and shorter working hours for labor. He wasn't talking lightly. Neither are other great business men taking it lightly.

QUESTION: Will the six-hour day be adopted in this country?

ANSWER: Eventually, yes. It will come gradually, steadily, spreading its benefits through all classes, but the sooner it comes the better it will be for all. The people who oppose it now are the same ones, mentally, who opposed the 14-hour day, the 10-hour day and the eight-hour day.

QUESTION: Then the six-hour day will prevail, with great benefit to our nation?

ANSWER: Yes.

Intimidating Witnesses

Tangible Evidence Is at Last Offered for Investigation of Wilmerding Situation.

Leaders in the movement to break the Volpe gang's stranglehold on Wilmerding have been handicapped by citizens' fear that if they testified against the gang they would be assassinated.

Threats of assassination have been made against prospective witnesses, it is whispered, and have had their effect in deterring them from testifying.

Tangible evidence is now at hand on which to base an investigation. A woman testified in court yesterday that an effort had been made to prevent another woman from testifying.

She was Mrs. Anna Wojnar, and she said she had heard John Tuker, who was accompanied by Patrolman Moody Champ and Joseph Capo, the register-assessor, urge Mrs. Mary Kozak not to attend a court hearing at which her testimony was desired and to hide if anyone came to her door.

Mrs. Kozak's name appeared twice in the list of 259 names which opponents of the Volpe gang asked to have stricken from the Wilmerding voting list on the ground they were placed there fraudulently. Mrs. Kozak went to court and testified that she had not registered and furthermore was not a citizen and not eligible to vote.

In this incident there is the direct charge, made under oath in court, that an effort was made to prevent the introduction of testimony tending to show the Volpe gang had fraudulently padded the voting list.

Mrs. Wojnar's testimony should not be filed away and forgotten. It should be acted upon by the court authorities in such a way that persons tempted to coerce or otherwise influence people not to testify when decency and justice are at stake will think twice about it.

Symphony Week

First-Class Orchestra Music Is a Valuable Adjunct of Good Living.

With a view to directing attention to an important branch of Pittsburgh's cultural life which requires public support this has been designated as "Symphony Week."

Through radio talks and addresses before civic and business associations an effort will be made to arouse sympathetic interest in the Pittsburgh Symphony Society.

First-class orchestra music such as the society plans to present to Pittsburgh audiences in a series of five concerts is a valuable adjunct to good living in more than one sense of the word "good."

Moreover, Pittsburgh's prestige as a center of the fine arts would suffer if we should fail to maintain an orchestra. There is scarcely a city of our size that does not support an even more pretentious organization than that for which our aid is now being solicited.

The society's aim is modest. It does not seek a large endowment fund, but merely a minimum of 750 members who, in repayment for their dues, will be allotted two seats each for the concerts.

Inasmuch as tickets for the concerts will not be sold it behooves music-lovers to join the society.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The stage "stooge" is finding a shorter cut to theatrical recognition than the understudy. The origin of the term "stooge" is obscure but is believed to have come from burlesque. The "stooge" is a sort of dead-panned foil for a comedian.

Patsy Kelly began as a "stooge" for Frank Fay in a vaudeville skit. Three other Fay's "stooges" have become recognized harlequins in various revues. Perhaps the first to give this form of entertainer a break was Phil Baker. In the beginning the "stooge" interrupted Baker from a box.

It developed into a cross-fire patter in which the "stooge" was given the very best of the gags—always in the form of ridicule for Baker. The original Baker "stooge" left him to become a high salaried gagster in Hollywood. His present "stooge," Mr. Muldowney, has received many offers.

Ted Healy gave rowdy impetus to the calling by featuring a dozen of them in a vaudeville act. Recently Lou Holz employed a gloriously hilarious "stooge" with an idiotic grin for his sensational Palace engagement. He remained, after Holz left, in other acts for several weeks.

Most "stooges," I am told, were picked up on the sidewalks of New York. They were street gamins who danced and clowned for pitched pennies. In old days on the Bowery they were known as "buskers" and filled ranks of burlesque shows.

There is a clumsy Chaplinesque wistfulness about the "stooge" that rarely fails to catch the audience. He is one of those dead-panned puckish souls upon whom Life is ever playing a prank. The trick of the appeal perhaps is that in real life most of us are "stooges."

* * *

He is a dear old and monumentally tedious gentleman often at New York functions of importance rushing about to bestow quick little handshakes and fluttery compliments. To me there is pathos in his efforts to be noticed just a little—perhaps to ripple the waters of life without making a splash. He was at a gathering last night, trying as usual to be merry and indulge brightly colored acts of grace, but I noticed he slipped away early bearing an expression of disappointment. And it's a commentary on manners of the day that as he departed a gin swigging lady remarked: "I hope he misses a couple of steps on his way out."

* * *

Reri, highly pressagented South Sea Island beauty, failed to click in the Follies with her torso-flinging dances and was removed from the cast. She came on the avalanche of praise following her success in the star role of her Tahitian picture, "Tabu." As legends had it, she had many Polynesian lovers and is reputed to have hopped up the pulse of one of the rich playboys of Broadway. But to audience, her sensuous dancing was stale parsnips.

* * *

Reri and members of her brown skinned entourage—including a toothless betel-nut-eating old crone who had been her nurse—occupied a flat over a drug store on Sixth avenue near the theater where she played. I saw her softly silhouetted at her window one evening after her dismissal, her chin cupped in hand and looking upon the line of motor cars edging up to the brilliantly lit marquee of the theater where she expected to triumph. I could not but wonder if she were dreaming of moon kissed Tahitian nights and its lazy charm in contrast to the quick motor jangle of the strange new civilization she gazed upon.

* * *

This is not a first flop of real native dancers from outer rims of the world. On the other hand, the shimmying Doraldino—reported born in Muncie, Ind.—was a sweeping success as was later day Gilda Gray, who began her rhythmic rum-bum-bumble in Chicago honky tonks.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Nice, sweet people give me the jitters.

I feel toward them exactly as I feel toward other abnormalities—five-legged calves, waltzing mice, trained fleas and albino worms.

And my aversion is not merely based on the fact that I'm not sweet or nice myself. I've a reason.

Human beings were never organized to be sweet and nice. They were organized to cope with the world in which they live and that is anything but sweet and nice.

Mind you, I've nothing against this world. It's a humdinger—and the chance to live in it is worth anything it costs. But it is no parlor game. Life-as-is is a great, grim, glorious, rambunctious riot. And the creature that tackles it must be considerable fighter.

All normal, healthy creatures are considerable fighters. Even carrots are rude and rowdy, pushing their way through rocky soil, fighting drought and flood, weeds, slugs and rabbits to gain their place in the sun. And a man, if he is to maintain and establish his place, must be the greatest rowdy of all. For he must fight far worse things than drought, slugs or weeds. He must fight the savage brutality, ignorance, greediness and indecency of the semi-civilized human race. And he must also fight the fear, malice, laziness, conceit and dishonesty of his semi-civilized self. All of which is no powder-puff battle.

For the brave and the honest man, life is an up-and-att'em scramble from the day he enters the game until the day they carry him off with a lily in his hand. Which, by the way, is the only occasion when a self-respecting citizen has a right to sit around holding lilies . . . when he's dead.

And nature equipped man for this scrap. She did not fill him with sweetness, light and nice table manners. She filled him with restlessness and fury—and a strange, gnawing desire for things which lie far beyond his natural, narrow horizon—for beauty and order, for justice and honesty and brotherly kindliness.

How's he going to attain these fine things against all the savage odds? In only one way—by fighting. And the brave and honest and healthy man does fight. He fights with his fists, his mind and his soul. He takes his stand and he maintains that stand against all the forces of evil, within and without.

Which brings us back to where we started. It is not possible for a brave and honest person to face life-as-is and stay sweet and nice. And when you find a person who is consistently sweet, nice, patient, agreeable and obliging, you can bet your last nickel there's something wrong.

He's either too vowardly to fight—

Or too selfish to care—

Or too conceited to have any interest outside himself.

And his niceness and sweetness are simply a coverup. I admit they're a slick coverup. You can't call a citizen "yellow" simply because he insists on being nice and sweet when everyone else is rude and riley. You can't walk up to him and give him a hearty punch in the jaw. But you want to. And you should want to. FOR HE'S GETTING BY WITH MURDER AND SOMEONE SHOULD CALL HIS BLUFF!

Stock-Market-Minded Statesmanship

By Claude G. Bowers

James Truslow Adams is an eminent American historian, and a sound thinker on national problems, tendencies and duties. He has just published a book on "The Trend of Modern Life," in which he protests that the American government, in recent years, has been in the hands of "stock-market-minded financiers" instead of statesmen. He goes so far as to suggest that "it was the novelty of having a Secretary of the Treasury encourage the market for our benefit that probably lost so many people their money." He finds nothing reassuring in the passing of the old conception of the functions of government, and is impatient with the modern idea, a growth of the last 10 years, that it is the work of government "to guide people in their stock speculations;" and he asks this question:

"Is there not danger in a government in which we are taught to look for stock market tips?"

Thus does he put his finger on the great American tragedy which did "not come upon us from across the sea." The loss to America of many millions in credit, which has wrought such ruin both in business circles and among millions who were mere lambs in the slaughter, has had much to do with the conditions in America today; and that cannot be charged to Europe. And that hysterical gambling with fate which makes the G. O. P. Bubble make the South Sea and Mississippi Bubbles seem mere curtain raisers, was deliberately encouraged by two administrations that the semblance of booming business might be taken as evidence of prosperity.

Being a historian of distinction, Mr. Adams knows that no honest man writing history will be able to absolve these two administrations from a heavy responsibility for the crash that leaves wreckage all about us.

* * *

Another Explanation of Our Present Condition

There is another explanation of our present condition which cannot be ascribed to anything that has "come upon us from Europe." We, and we alone, are responsible for the Grundy Tariff Act; or, rather, the administration is responsible, since it drove it through the Senate through extraordinary pressure over the protest of the vast majority of the people. This protest did not come merely from the groundlings. It was not confined to the press. It came from the best economists of the country, and from practically all of them. It came from manufacturers who knew that it would greatly interfere with their foreign markets. It came from financiers who knew that the peoples across the sea could never pay the billions they owe us if we deliberately destroyed their capacity to pay. Dr. Anderson, the economist of the Chase National Bank, in his economic bulletin at the time, described as inevitable the very conditions that confront us now. But recently, with his prediction vindicated by events, he has said:

"The most serious obstacle in the way of the revival of our foreign trade is our high protective tariffs. The quickest way to get out of the existing depression is to reduce our tariffs, so that our foreign customers may sell more goods here and get more dollars with which to pay interest upon their debts to us and with which to buy goods. If we do not buy we cannot sell. If we do not buy enough, we cannot sell enough."

This economic monstrosity of a tariff is directly responsible for the retaliatory action of other nations; for the loss of foreign markets, which reduces the output of our factories, throws workers upon the streets, breaks down the buying power of the masses, and this did not "come upon us from Europe."

* * *

Reduction of Tariff One Way Out of Depression

It was made in America. Made by American governmental action. And, as Dr. Anderson says, "the quickest way to get out of the existing depression is to reduce our tariff." For the Democrats to evade that issue would be unspeakable stupidity; since, for the first time in history, they have business men, manufacturers and bankers sustaining their position.

The President takes his stand against the manufacturers, business men, bankers, economists and the major portion of the press with a devotion to a discredited policy worthy of a better cause. That makes an issue.

And if that is an issue, it is to be assumed that the business men, bankers and economists will vote their conviction at the polls. If, believing as they do, they support those responsible for the present tariff who are standing for it still, because of superannuated partisan prejudices, we shall have another reason for the depression—the utter unfitness of the leaders of the business world for leadership in the present crisis.

Leaders lead.

* * *

Stimson Has French Protest on Grundy Act

Nothing like the tariff was on the agenda for the conferences between M. Laval and Mr. Hoover. It might well have been. When we passed the prohibitive tariff bill the people paraded the streets of Lyons, France, in protest against our policy of making it impossible for France to trade with us; and then the French government acted in retaliation. Secretary Stimson has on his desk the protest of France against the Grundy act.

The cordiality of the reception accorded M. Laval both in New York and Washington was an expression of the friendly feeling of Americans for France. It must not be interpreted as a blanket indorsement of any program to be considered in the conferences; for as to the nature of this program, the American people are in the dark.

In his address, in response to the welcome from Mayor Walker, the Premier left the impression that he hopes to carry home an agreement of the United States to underwrite the security of France; in other words, an agreement to go to war in her defense should France be attacked. Of course Mr. Hoover made it clear that this is utterly impossible; that the Senate would not consent; and that public sentiment would be behind the Senate's refusal. If the country would not accept the covenant of the League of Nations, because of the fear that Article X might involve us in a war, it is impossible that it would agree to a positive agreement to enter into any war in which any particular country might be attacked.

Our Primary Duty Is to America

And yet, contrary to the popular notion, there were men, leading in the Senate fight against the League, who were quite willing to enter into something like a security pact for France. Henry Cabot Lodge, who bitterly opposed Article X, wrote another leader in the fight that he would be willing to support "a simple proposition" that in the event of an attack by Germany we should go to the defense of France. This was in August, 1919.

Thus it does not necessarily follow that all who opposed the League would oppose a military security pact; but we suspect that more would oppose a "simple proposition" to underwrite the security of some one country than oppose the League.

This does not imply the slightest unfriendliness to France; it merely means that our primary duty is to America.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Perhaps you lose your temper easily or you become nervously incompetent over what are in reality trivial matters.

Perhaps you are fond of saying that your father or your mother had the same failing you exhibit.

If you know that it was a failing why are you not checking up on yourself and trying to improve on the family quirk or disposition which you know is disagreeable or perhaps reprehensible.

You were made free to improve if you know where to begin.

This idea of saying that it comes natural to you to do thus and imagine that it excuses you from fighting off tendencies that you might be better off without, is just a lazy excuse.
